A BILLION DOLLAR BOON?

Saratoga betting window | Horsephotos

By Lucas Marquardt

It's possible that the biggest story in horse racing in 2017 won't have occurred at the track or on a breeding farm. Instead, it may have happened Monday afternoon at the Treasury Department in Washington, DC. That's when Treasury and IRS officials finally signed off a long-desired goal of the National Thoroughbred Racing Association and the industry at large: to change how the IRS treats winning bets that hit at odds of 300-1 or higher.

"It's news we've been waiting 10 years for," NTRA President and CEO Alex Waldrop said at a press conference in Downtown Lexington Tuesday (click here for video).

The new rules state that the IRS will no longer consider just the base wager on winning bets of 300-1 or more. Instead, it will take into account the total cost of the bet. So if a horseplayer puts together a $1 Pick 6 ticket that costs $500 (and thus has 500 different combinations), and wins $10,000, the IRS would previously have looked at that as a winning 10,000-to-1 wager. The change in rules means that the IRS will now consider that winning bet a 20-1 wager ($10,000 divided by the $500 bet), and won't automatically collect 25% of the horseplayer's winning.

"We expect the results to be powerful," Waldrop said of that money that stays in that horseplayer's pocket. "Independent estimates have said that the new regulations could led to as much as a 10% increase in wagering on U.S. races annually. That's upwards of a billion dollars." Cont. p3

AT LEAST FOUR HORSES DEAD AT PUERTO RICO'S CAMARERO RACETRACK By Bill Finley

The devastation in Puerto Rico caused by Hurricane Maria includes the island's racehorse population. According to Shelley Blodgett of Caribbean Thoroughbred Aftercare, Inc, four fatalities have been confirmed among the horses on the backstretch of Camarero Racetrack. Blodgett said she fears when more information becomes available the death toll among horses at the racetrack will rise.

Blodgett has been receiving information from a volunteer from her organization, Kelley Stobie, who is in Puerto Rico and has been spending countless hours at the racetrack trying to assist horses in need. It is very difficult to get a cell phone call into or out of Puerto Rico, but Blodgett said Stobie has been resourceful and has managed to communicate with her on several occasions.

If that proves accurate, it would be a massive boost to a wagering sector that could at best be described as stagnant. Last year, U.S. handle sat at $10.7 billion--the same figure it was in 2011…without taking into account inflation.

Not even American Pharoah's 2015 Triple Crown run managed to move the needle much--handle was up just 1.2% that year. To put it in greater perspective, not since 1996 has U.S. handle achieved double-digit growth (+11.5%).

"It's hard to estimate, but [10% growth] would be astounding," said Waldrop. "Overall, we think about 90% of the current withholding and reporting will go away."

According to the NTRA, the rules were posted as a Public Inspection Document and are scheduled to be officially published in Wednesday's edition of the Federal Register. They will go into full effect no later than Nov. 14, giving racing associations, totalisator companies, and advance deposit wagering (ADW) operators up to 45 days to implement the changes. Some, however, may elect to start as soon as Thursday.

Alex Waldrop | Rick Samuels

Twinspires.com, one of the nation's leading ADW's, said it would implement changes immediately.

"This is a very big win for horseplayers and for pari-mutuel wagering on horse racing," TwinSpires President Ted Gay said. "The reduction of wagering dollars withheld from circulation means more money for our players, which means more handle for the industry, our partner tracks, and horsemen. These changes will improve the economics of the sport at every level."

How We Got Here…

Some background. In the late 1970s, the IRS made changes to its regulations aimed not at horse racing, but at state lotteries and Keno halls. The regulations stated that bets that won at odds of at least 300 times the amount of the wager, and paid $600 or more, would be subject to automatic IRS reporting. (That is, a W2-G would be filed by the entity that took the bet.) If a bet won at at 300-1 or greater, and paid more than $5,000 or more, the IRS would automatically withhold 25% of the winnings.

Betting windows at Pimlico | Jon Kral

In those days, when betting options at the track largely consisted of win, place, show and the daily double, those regulations didn't have much of an impact. But as exotic wagers--trifectas, superfectas, Pick 3's, 4's and 6's--grew in prominence, more and more horseplayers were finding an increasing share of their bankroll tied up by IRS withholding.

"The existing withholding and reporting regulations were developed at generation ago," said Waldrop, who noted that the 1978 GI Kentucky Derby had four wagering pools, while the 2015 Derby had 23 separate wagering pools--seven of which triggered automatic reporting and/or withholding.

Almost since its inception in 1998, the NTRA has pushed for a change to these regulations. But three years ago, it developed a new strategy aimed not at statutory change, but at regulatory interpretation. In short, the NTRA's lobbying arm asked Treasure to reexamine the 300-1 rule. The push gained steam last December, when Treasury opened a 90-day comment period on the proposed changes. Then, in April, 12 members of Congress signed a letter urging proposed regulations to be finalized as soon as possible. While a slew of unfilled political appointees at Treasury slowed the process, all that was needed was the signature of Treasury Secretary Steve Mnuchin. Even as recently as a few weeks ago, NTRA officials had no idea if and when the changes would be adopted.

"It was a bit of a surprise, but great news," said Waldrop. "This was a team effort. Our strategy included many discussions and round tables with horseplayers to try and understand their issues. We had meetings on Capitol Hill with congressmen and high-ranking officials from Treasury. And we had countless meetings with our lobbyists in DC, and participation from Horse PAC, a bipartisan political action committee that was and is so astutely led by our chairman Bill Farish."

Said Farish, "We thank the hundreds of individual stakeholders who contribute to Horse PAC; they played a major role in today's victory."

Eric Hamelback, the National HBPA's chief executive officer, was among those heralding the announcement. "It's once again proof of success for our entire industry, through working together for a cause which we all agree benefits everyone," said Hamelback.

What the Industry is Saying…

KEN RAMSEY, OWNER/BREEDER/HORSEPLAYER:

"It's one of the greatest things that's happened in a long time. If I have to put up a $1,000 to win the Pick Six in order to take multiple horses in different races, instead of giving me credit for betting $1,000, right now they give me credit for betting $2 on the winning [combination] I actually had. I'm not getting any of my investment back. This will put more money back in the horseplayer's pocket, which he can in turn put back and play another race. It puts more money into the racetracks. And it gives the little guy a chance to stay in the game longer. It's a very good thing that the horse people have put together."

JEFF PLATT, PRESIDENT, HORSEPLAYERS ASSOCIATION OF NORTH AMERICA:

"This is great news and couldn't have come about without thousands of horseplayers letting the U.S. Treasury know that change was long overdue."

STEVE MAY, DIRECTOR OF PARI-MUTUEL WAGERING FOR THE KENTUCKY HORSE RACING COMMISSION:

"Let us say a player invests $48 into 24 combinations of single $2 Pick-4 ticket and has one winning selection that pays $4,235. Currently the player would have to fill out a tax form because the winnings were in excess of 300-1 odds on the base $2 wager. This is an undue burden on the horseplayer and the racetrack, and it creates a large amount of unnecessary tax forms. Under the new rules, the same ticket would have to return $14,449 to require IRS paperwork."

Scenes from Camarero

"A lot of things are in motion at the track, but things have been very hard and some of the horses have not gotten the attention that they need," Blodgett said. "There is a lack of resources and many of the owners, trainers and grooms are not able to get to the track. Kelley has been there every day taking care of the 16 off-the-track Thoroughbreds we are caring for. Yesterday, she watered about 100 racehorses. With 10 horses she got to, she was literally pulling them out; they had literally not been touched since the hurricane. She was able to get them water. We have heard of four confirmed deaths, from founder and colic. Some connections have been hauling in water for their horses since day one and others have just been abandoned."

When asked if there will likely be reports of more horse deaths, Blodgett replied: "I think there will. Some horses are just getting water now, but forage is still not readily available for some connections. Hay production is not up and running in Puerto Rico. Some of the horses are standing in muck up to their ankles. They are dehydrated. Some have raced a lot and there's been wear and tear. Those ones are a little underweight to start with, so they have less reserves to deal with this."

Including non-racehorses, there are about 950 horses on the Camarero backstretch.

Blodgett said that while many horsemen have done everything possible to get to the track and care for their horses, others have not made it a priority. Cont. p6

Scenes from Camarero

"One of the main problems there is that the care-givers have had their lives turned upside down," said. "They may not have a means of getting to the track or they are busy dealing with their own lives. There are some owners who are just abandoning their horses and saying just let them be. They are going to worry about themselves first. But I don't think that is the majority. These people are going through a crisis. I think they've depleted, their physical, mental and emotional reserves."

The worst may be over as several groups, Carribean Thoroughbred Aftercare among them, have huddled and are working together to help solve the crisis. Other organizations include the Humane Society of the United States, the American Veterinary Medical Association, the American Association of Equine Practitioners, The Jockey Club and the United States Equestrian Federation. Blodgett said arrangements have been made to fly in pelletized hay, though it is unclear when it is going to arrive. She also said about 40 to 50 horses have been put into a quarantine facility and once cleared will be shipped to Miami. She said active racehorses are being given priority over all other horses when it comes to leaving the island.

Keith Kleine, a spokesperson for the AAEP, said that group has members in Puerto Rico that are helping and he believes, in time, volunteer vets from the continental U.S. will fly down to assist them. The biggest problem, he said, is finding a way to communicate with people in Puerto Rico. Kleine is looking in to purchasing satellite phones.

"This is still a work in progress and we still have to have some further assessments to make on the ground," he said. "Those are short-term issues. There are needs like food and medical supplies. We have those. That's the easy part. Getting access to the island and the ability to operate there is the challenging part."

Kleine said the AAEP does not need supplies, but said financial contributions to the AAEP or any other organizations trying to help the horses of Puerto Rico are badly needed. Here is a list of groups you may wish to contribute to:

ARK AT JFK EASES BURDENS OF SHIPPING OVERSEAS By Bill Finley

In his attempt to become the first American-based horse to win in South Korea, the Linda Rice-trained Papa Shot (Distorted Humor) finished third in the Sept. 10 Keeneland Korea Cup, but he still became a footnote in racing history. On Sept. 14, he walked off a plane at John F. Kennedy Airport in New York and in the process became the first racehorse to enter the U.S. through the Ark at JFK facility. He will not be the last. Cont. p7

Ark at JFK, a privately run venture that deals with animals of all shapes, sizes and breeds, has opened in various stages and was not allowed to act as a receiving center for horses until Sept. 1. Now that its equine program is fully operational, shipping companies, trainers and owners can look forward to a much simpler process when it comes to shipping horses into and out of the U.S.

Prior to the Ark's opening, horses returning to the U.S. through JFK had to ship to a United States Department of Agriculture Facility in Newburgh, New York. The van ride from JFK to that facility can be in excess of two hours and once they clear quarantine, there's another long van ride back to Belmont, Saratoga or Aqueduct. In addition, it's little more than a holding facility and little is available in the way of hands-on veterinary care or any special amenities for racehorses that can be worth millions.

"The horses going back and forth from overseas are competing at the highest level," said John J. Cuticelli, Jr. the CEO and founder of the ARK at JFK. "When you think about it, a sports team, football, basketball, baseball, they all fly around on private jets. These horses are top athletes as well and need to be cared for as extreme athletes."

Cuticelli, who also operates the Cornell Ruffian Equine Hospital just outside of the Belmont Park stable gates, became aware that the Port Authority of New York and New Jersey was interested in having a private firm build a facility at JFK to handle animals arriving on planes. He said he first spent a year touring similar facilities throughout the world to gather ideas.

"I soon realized that the need for and the desire for this was far greater than that which the Port Authority envisioned," he said.

Wanting to do it right, he built a 178,000 square-foot facility that costs $65 million.

"We adopted the mantra that we are in the business of promoting the safe and humane transportation of animals by air," he said. "The truth is, once the animal is in the airplane there is very little that can be done, but it is the pre- and post-flight care that is critical to he animal. How is it hydrated? How it is fed? How is it exercised? Those are meaningful and critical elements. So after studying this and getting together with some of the greatest animal experts in the world, we designed the Ark and made it a reality."

It's not just for horses. Dogs, cats, pigs, sheep, rodents and racing pigeons are among the animals that have made their way through the Ark. Cont. p8

But it's doubtful that any of them are as valuable as the Thoroughbreds who will be using the Ark in the future. Because it is a privately run, for-profit company, there are charges involved, but it is estimated that using the Ark will cost only about $300 more than shipping a horse to Newburgh to spend its quarantine time.

Racehorses can only enter the U.S. at airports in Chicago, Los Angeles and Miami, though none of those airports have anything that compares to the Ark when it comes to a state-of-the-art facility.

Dr. Scarlette Gotwals, the operations manager for Horse America, a subsidiary of Brook Ledge that specializes in international transport, said she believes the Ark has made shipping overseas easier and better for the horse. Horse America shipped the first horses of any kind to arrive at the Ark in early September (video).

Superstorm Sandy (shown here with rider Parker Miller) was the first horse to arrive at the new Ark facility at JFK | Horse America

"Horses headed to the Ark deplane, are jet-stall transported to the quarantine entrance door and horses enter directly from the tarmac into quarantine," she said. "Horses are in their stalls before the other horses even leave the airport. The two-hour van trip to Newburgh is eliminated.

"Since it is a private facility, extra amenities and extra services are available. For example, if you have a horse that needs special medication or special feed, it can all be pre-arranged and be waiting by the stall when the horses arrive. Additionally the Ark's proximity to Belmont results in a 15-minutes trip to the track versus two hours after quarantine release as well."

Gotwals said that Cuticelli's veterinary connections also make the Ark handy in the event of a problem.

"The Ruffian Equine Hospital sports medicine team, experienced with evaluating and treating racehorses, provides coverage should any health problem arise during quarantine," said Gotwals. "Racehorses have very specific needs so it's comforting to have vets with racehorse experience only six miles away."

Bill Nichols, of the Alex Nichols Agency, which shipped Papa Shot, said he agreed.

"We think we will utilize this facility more and more," he said. "There's less handling of the horse when the horse arrives and you're able to get through quarantine quicker because they don't have to be loaded on and off the truck and shipped back and forth to Newburgh. With that horse [Papa Shot] it worked out really well. It was good for the horse and good for everyone involved."

Horses coming and going to and from the U.S. is a big part of racing, whether it's horses going to compete or horses bought at sales and sent to Europe to train. Thanks to the Ark at JFK, Cuticelli believes there will be even more horses traveling from country to country.

"I am sure this sounds self-serving, but, of course I believe this will lead to a lot more horses shipping to the U.S. or shipping to race in other countries," Cuticell said. "It's all about how the horses are cared for. When a horse comes through here, that horse is ready to run. That's our goal. So we believe it is a foregone conclusion that we will help make it easier for horses to ship around the world."

COMPETITORS PREPARING FOR THOROUGHBRED MAKEOVER

Whoopie Pie (Langfuhr) with Fawn Armstrong aboard. The two will be competing in the Freestyle division | Jen Roytz

by Jen Roytz

With the Retired Racehorse Project's $100,000 Thoroughbred Makeover just weeks away, more than 400 competitors are making final preparations with their horses. In Kentucky and Virginia, those preparations included an open practice and media preview aimed at giving their horses off-site training that would mimic the environment they will experience at the Thoroughbred Makeover at the Kentucky Horse Park Oct. 5-8.

Local media, including television stations, newspapers, and equine publications were invited to attend, which allowed competitors the opportunity to educate the public about the versatility of Thoroughbreds in non-racing disciplines and promote their journey to the world's largest and most lucrative racehorse retraining competition.

"We had 10 horse and rider combinations attend our Makeover Preview," said Clare Mansmann, who coordinated the Sept. 22 Makeover Preview at Salamander Resort Equestrian Center in Middleburg, Va. Mansmann is slated to compete in the Thoroughbred Makeover in the eventing discipline aboard Noosh's Tale (by Tale of the Cat).

"Each of us got a chance to speak to the crowd about our horses and answer some questions," continued Mansmann. "Then, everyone did a wonderful demo that doubled as a schooling. The horses handled the crowd and the loudspeakers very well. The folks at Salamander couldn't have been more accommodating and several of their guests wandered down to watch. They were very impressed with the horses and riders and offered to make it an annual event."

Yesterday it was Central Kentucky's turn to allow Thoroughbred Makeover competitors to show off their horses. Held at the Masterson Station Park Equestrian Complex in Lexington, 15 competitors brought their horses and demonstrated the strides they've made off the track in the disciplines of barrel racing, competitive trail, carriage driving, dressage, hunter/jumper, eventing and more.

"The preview day today was the first time my filly had ever been off of the farm, so it was a real gift to be able to not only get her into a new environment, but a supportive environment with other Makeover trainers," said Thoroughbred Makeover competitor Neleigh Olsen, who rides in the mornings for trainer Vicky Oliver and will be competing in the Competitive Trail division aboard Skyce (by Ice Box). "That's what the Makeover is about to me--horsemen supporting other horsemen. We all love Thoroughbreds, and we all want to see each other and these horses succeed."

Sponsored by Thoroughbred Charities of America, the Thoroughbred Makeover is put on by the Retired Racehorse Project, whose mission is to increase the value of retired racehorses as competition and riding prospects and educate the equestrian community about their adaptability and versatility to a wide variety of disciplines. More than 400 horses and riders will compete across ten equestrian disciplines (barrel racing, competitive trail, dressage, eventing, field hunter, freestyle, polo, show hunter, show jumping, working ranch) Oct. 5 and 6. That Saturday, the top three finishers in each discipline will return for the finale, in which each divisional winner will be announced, as well as the overall Thoroughbred Makeover Champion will be crowned.

NEW YORK

Paul Schosberg Passes Away:

Paul A. Schosberg, who had careers in journalism, politics, banking and an avocation in the Thoroughbred racing and breeding industry, died Sept. 25 after complications from surgery and a long battle with cancer. He was 79.

A 1959 graduate of Middlebury College, Schosberg began his career as a reporter then eventual bureau chief of Gannett's Reporter Dispatch in Westchester County, N.Y. He then became chief of staff for Representative Richard L. Ottinger (D) and Representative Herman Badillo (D). During this time, he co-authored a book, "See How They Run: The Making of a Congressman" under the pseudonym Paul Allyn.

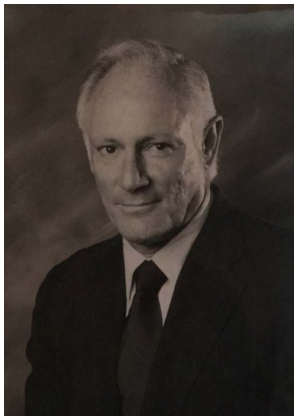
In 1974 Schosberg came back to New York from Washington to head the New York League of Savings Institutions and in 1992 became CEO of America's Community Bankers.



Paul Schosberg

His love of horses led to a two-term stint as President of the New York Thoroughbred Breeders Inc. and 12 years as a director. He and his wife of 58 years, Jane established a very successful breeding operation, Pine Lane Farm in Katonah, N.Y., and bred stakes winners both here and abroad.

He is survived also by his wife, daughter, Dr. Jill Stoller; son Richard; three grandchildren, Jenna, Travis and Ryan and a brother, Peter.

Services will be private. Donations can be made in Schosberg's name to the Mayo Clinic, the Thoroughbred Aftercare Alliance and White Plains Hospital.

PA Horse Racing Commission Outlines New Medication & Testing Regulations:

New Pennsylvania regulations instituted by the state Horse Racing Commission are proving effective in strengthening the integrity of the state's equine racing industry, Agriculture Secretary Russell Redding reported.

"When we set out to reform the state's racing industry, two of our goals were to secure the long-term funding of our oversight work, but also to enable the state Horse Racing Commission to better protect the integrity of the sport," said Redding, who serves as chairman of the state's Horse Racing Commission. "This year, the commission has taken a number of significant steps to meet that second objective, approving a trifecta of regulations that will better protect horses and the legitimacy of racing outcomes. The three new measures have outlined significant consequences for trainers, veterinarians and owners from Pennsylvania and other states who violate our regulations."

The first regulation, approved at the commission's January 2017 meeting, is designed to enhance penalties for repeat offenders by assessing points for violations of Class 1 through Class 5 medication guidelines established by the Association of Racing Commissioners International (ARCI). The new Multiple Medication Violation regulation assigns penalty points when a horse tests positive for foreign substances. Those assessed penalty points are tracked by racing stewards and judges for two or more years in the official ARCI database.

The second new provision, which established an out-of-competition testing program, launched in May 2017 and allows commission employees to collect biological samples from horses in training for gene, blood-doping, and anabolic steroids. All of the out-of-competition testing samples are analyzed by the Pennsylvania Equine Toxicology Research Laboratory (PETRL).

"The commission is strictly enforcing penalties for individuals who violate out-of-competition testing regulations," Redding added. "If a horse tests positive for anabolic steroids, the trainer will be subject to a $5,000 fine, plus a suspension of 180 days and forfeiture of any purse money earned in that race. If a horse tests positive for blood doping agents, the trainer will be fined $10,000, forfeit any purse money, and be suspended from racing for two years. In addition, horses that test positive for either anabolic steroids or blood doping agents will be placed on the steward's list or the judge's list for a minimum of 90 days, and the horse must test clean to be released from the list. We have received overwhelming support and cooperation on this initiative from horsemen's groups, breeders and racetrack operators."

The most recent regulation, approved at the Aug. 31 commission meeting, makes Pennsylvania the first state in the nation to implement horse-positive regulations and penalties. Any horse that tests positive for Class 1 or Class 2 drugs will be ineligible to race for 90 days from the date a split sample confirms the presence of a banned substance. For Class 3 drugs or high blood gas levels, the horse will be ineligible to race for 30 days from confirmation.

If a horse receives a positive test or is declared positive for prohibited substances from a jurisdiction outside Pennsylvania, the same penalties apply. This rule encourages owners to do their due diligence and carefully consider who is training their horses.

Celebration of Life for Lee Parker Oct. 21:

Ocala horseman Elmer Leland "Lee" Parker, Jr., passed away Aug. 31 at the age of 78. A celebration of life will be held in his honor Oct. 21 at Plantation on Crystal River at noon.

A longtime horseman, Parker entered the Thoroughbred industry in 1974 and developed Don Dee Farm and Training Center. He raced under the name Horses of Course and was a longtime shareholder in the Ocala Breeders' Sales Company.

Parker retired in 2001, but remained active in the racing industry until 2015, when he sold his last horse.

In lieu of flowers, donations can be made to Florida Thoroughbred Charities or the Michael J. Fox Foundation for Parkinson's Research.

A GALILEO FILLY FOR GODOLPHIN

Lot 35, €1.2-million Galileo filly | Sarah Farnsworth

By Emma Berry

Kildare, IRELAND--It only took an hour from the start of play for the Goffs Orby Sale to burst into life as a Ballylinch Stud-bred daughter of Galileo took to the ring and sparked an old-fashioned bidding war between Coolmore and Godolphin. An offer of €1.2-million from the Godolphin team was enough to secure the first foal of the Group 2 winner L'Amour De Ma Vie (lot 35), whose first appearance in a sales ring had been in utero when her dam was sold for €600,000 at Arqana's December Sale two years ago. MV Magnier, standing in company with the Mayfair Speculators buying team of Peter Doyle and Derek Brugman, made much of the early running, but John and Thady Gosden, Anthony Stroud and David Loder had positioned themselves on the balcony right above them as the filly had entered the ring and it was apparent that it was only a matter of time before Gosden senior signalled his intent to become involved in the chase. Magnier was the first to bid seven figures but had no answer as Gosden stretched to €1.2-million.

"The choke was out, we wouldn't have gone much further," said Anthony Stroud after signing the docket for the filly. "David, John and I all thought that she was a very athletic filly. Of course she's out of a very good racemare and comes from an excellent farm. She's the sort of filly who is a lovely addition to what we already have at Godolphin."

Plenty has been made of the fact that Godolphin's policy of overlooking Coolmore-sired young stock is no more--a change in strategy which became apparent in Lexington a few weeks ago and will doubtless be welcomed by breeders and consignors.

"It can only be good for the business," agreed Ballylinch Stud manager John O'Connor, who had bought L'Amour De Ma Vie for John and Leslie Malone's operation back in 2015 and was delighted with such a decent return on their investment. He said, "She was such a nice filly that we expected her to sell well. She's really light on her feet and a proper athlete. All the good judges with the appropriate budget were interested in her and we saw the type of duel that we haven't seen in a while. Our ethos has always been one of independence so we are able to deal with everybody."

The Godolphin team later added a colt by Showcasing (GB) to the day's purchases at €460,000.

SARACEN HORSE FEEDS

Sold by Lady O'Reilly's Hollyhill Stud, lot 165 is the second foal of the Group 3-placed Roseraie (Ire) (Lawman {Fr}), herself a daughter of G3 International S. winner and G1 Moyglare Stud S. runner-up Red Feather (Ire) (Marju {Ire}).

Also on the list was lot 179, Mountain View Stud's Dark Angel (Ire) filly out of a winning half-sister to G1 Irish 1,000 Guineas winner Nightime (Ire) (Galileo {Ire}). The first foal of Seagull (Ire) (Sea The Stars {Ire}) brought the hammer down at €375,000.

The sale of a seven-figure filly, along with 65 six-figure yearlings on the day, led to a 2% rise in turnover from the equivalent session last year to €21,140,000. The average remained pretty much on a par at €108,410, while the median dropped 4% to €67,000. Despite a feeling early on that the market was patchy, the clearance rate for the first session was a respectable 85%, with 195 of the 228 yearlings offered finding a buyer.

Kilcarn's Prima Donna...

Two years ago, Emmaus (Ire) (Invincible Spirit {Ire}) made €580,000 at the Orby Sale when bought by China Horse Club and his full-sister (lot 138) brought the exact same amount this time around, passing from one noted nursery to another.

The Kilcarn Stud-bred filly will eventually join the broodmare band at David and Patricia Thompson's Cheveley Park Stud after being tested on the track, but even before she adds form to the book she has plenty to recommend her. Her dam Prima Luce (Ire) (Galileo {Ire}) won the G3 Athasi S. for Jim Bolger and John Connaughton, and Prima Luce's half-sister Bloomfield (Ire) (Teofilo {Ire}) has enhanced the appeal of the immediate family this season by winning on debut and twice finishing runner-up at stakes level, most recently in the G3 Give Thanks S. Their dam Ramona (Desert King {Ire}) is in turn a half-sister to the late Verglas (Ire) and top-flight spriner Cassandra Go (Ire), whose burgeoning dynasty includes the three-time Group 1 winner Halfway To Heaven (Ire) (Pivotal {GB}). Goffs Orby Tuesday cont.

"She's a gorgeous filly with great bone, depth and balance," said Cheveley Park Stud manager Chris Richardson, who outbid Sheikh Hamdan Al Maktoum. "The fact that Halfway To Heaven is in the family and is by Pivotal is of obvious appeal to us."

Chris Richardson signs the ticket | Sarah Farnsworth

Towards the end of the session, Richardson had his bidding boots back on when going to €390,000 for lot 238, Yeomanstown Stud's homebred filly by Dark Angel (Ire) out of the Listed Hilary Needler Trophy runner-up The Hermitage (Ire) (Kheleyf). The mare has been mated exclusively with Yeomanstown's prized stallion, producing G2 Mill Reef S. runner-up Perfect Angel (Ire) among her two winners to date. Kilcarn Stud and Pat O'Kelly's most celebrated family was later represented via lot 213, an Invincible Spirit son of the blue hen Spirit Of Tara (Ire) (Sadler's Wells), who will make his way to America after being bought by Justin Casse and Justin Zayat for Zayat Stables.

His price of €120,000 will represent terrific value if he has inherited any of the abundant talent of a vast range of family members, which include half-brother Echo Of Light (GB) (Dubai Millennium) and grandam, the former champion race filly Flame Of Tara (GB) (Artaius), whose offspring include Irish Derby and Oaks winner Salsabil (GB) (Sadler's Wells) and G1 St James's Palace S. winner Marju (Ire) (Last Tycoon {GB}).

"When you're buying fillies in Europe you can think outside the box a little but with colts you have to stay within quite strict rules," said Casse. "This colt has a real stallion's pedigree which is really important for us--it speaks for itself. It's hard to buy into a yearling with that type of pedigree, by such a good stallion at that price. This is good value for us."

Mayfair Make A Splash...

Markus Jooste and Derek Brugman of Mayfair Speculators are making their first visit to Goffs this week and they made their presence felt on Tuesday when once again partnering the Coolmore team to buy a colt and a filly through Peter Doyle. The agent was pushed to €380,000 in pursuit of lot 144, a daughter of Camelot (GB) who had also caught the eye of Shawn Dugan. With her first-season sire starting to fire in winners with increasing regularity, the filly proved to be a good pinhooking result for Eddie O'Leary of Lynn Lodge Stud, who paid 115,000gns through Mags O'Toole to buy her as a foal. The daughter of the Listed Bosra Sham S. runner-up Question Times (GB) (Shamardal) received a good update early this season when her half-sister Diamond Fields (Ire) (Fastnet Rock {Aus}) beat Alice Springs (Ire) to win the G3 Gladness S. for Fozzy Stack. The Mayfair-Coolmore partnership also went to €300,000 for a first-crop son of No Nay Never (lot 39). Bred by RJB Bloodstock and offered through Glenvale Stud, the colt of out of Law Of The Jungle (Ire), a Catcher In The Rye half-sister to dual Group 3 winner Eastern Appeal (Ire) (Shinko Forest {Ire}). There are 21 yearlings by the son of Scat Daddy in the Orby catalaogue and eight sold through the first session for an average of €159,000. These included lot 71, a Camas Park Stud-consigned son of G3 Princess Margaret S. winner Mixed Blessing (GB) (Lujain) who was bought by Stephen Hillen for €280,000.

Dugan Digs In For Le Havre Relative...

Having been outdone earlier for a Camelot filly, American-based agent Shawn Dugan was successful in her quest for Mount Coote Stud's Sea The Stars (Ire) colt out of Scarlet And Gold (Ire), a winning Peintre Celebre half-sister to G1 Prix du Jockey Club winner and leading French sire Le Havre (Ire). Lot 177, bred by the Tsui family's Sunderland Holdings, was bought for €380,000 on behalf of an unnamed client. Cont. p6

"He'll most likely be trained in France," said Dugan. "He's an absolutely stunning colt who had a lovely way about him. He was very calm and collected."

The agent also struck for lot 45, Camas Park Stud's colt by Kodiac (GB), who fetched €270,000. The first foal of a winning daughter of the multiple listed scorer Sweet Lilly (GB) (Tobougg) was bought as a foal for 130,000gns from breeder Tibthorpe Stud.

Elusive Wave's Half-Sister To Japan...

Agent John McCormack was full of praise for Ballylinch Stud sire Lope De Vega (Ire) after signing for one of his daughters (lot 84) for the sum of €350,000. The filly is already a half-sister to the G1 Poule d'Essai des Pouliches heroine Elusive Wave (Ire) (Elusive City) and is set to follow her celebrated sibling to Japan.

"She's a half-sister to a Classic winner by a really up-and-coming sire," he said. "I don't mean Lope De Vega hasn't already done it but I think he's just going to get better and better. The offspring of the better mares are coming through now and I feel Ballylinch could be sitting on a goldmine with him."

Elusive Wave was sold privately to Northern Farm after being bought for 800,000gns by MV Magnier at Tattersalls in 2010. Whatever her price was in the private transaction looks to have been pretty good business for Katsumi Yoshida as her last two foals have both topped the JRHA Sale in Hokkaido, with this year's offering bringing a world record price for a colt foal at public auction when selling for ¥580 million (approximately €4.4-million). McCormack continued, "This filly was really good physically and with Elusive Wave having already worked so well with Deep Impact there was obviously plenty of interest in this filly in Japan. My feeling is that she will race there but that has not yet been confirmed." Cont. p7

Iffraaj, sire of Champion miler Ribchester, is doing even better than Exceed And Excel, Dark Angel and Kodiac at the same stage of their careers, with a higher percentage of Stakes winners to runners than them. His stock also have a higher average Timeform rating than theirs and in 2016 he was either more profitable at the sales or had a bigger yearling median than all of them, too.

The filly was offered by her breeder Pier House Stud and the Morrin family is likely to agree with McCormack's views on Lope De Vega as they also bred his recent GI Natalma S. winner Capla Temptress (Ire), who was sold at last year's Orby Sale for €26,000. The Rainbow Quest mare Multicolour Wave (Ire) has also been kind to them, having produced six other winners besides Elusive Wave, including the stakes-placed Million Waves (Ire) (Mull Of Kintyre). The 19-year-old mare was purchased from her breeder Stavros Niarchos for 11,500gns back in 2001.

Brace Of Galileos For Gerrardstown...

Eamonn Reilly of BBA Ireland has been charged with the task of helping Frank Fahy assemble a broodmare band at his recently purchased Gerradstown House Stud and the County Meath farm will eventually welcome two daughters of Galileo (Ire) bought from the first session of the Orby Sale.

First on the list was lot 75, the first foal Irish National Stud's G3 Pinnacle S. winner Moment In Time (Ire) (Galileo {Ire}), a grand-daughter of the Gerald Leigh homebred Ahead (GB) (Shirley Heights {GB}), who sold for €320,000. She was later joined by lot 156, the half-sister to G3 St Simon S. winner Hazel Lavery (Ire) (Excellent Art {GB}), who was sold through the Castlebridge Consignment for €380,000.

The Croom House Stud draft provided an early market-leader when selling lot 125 to Shadwell for €350,000. The Invincible Spirit (Ire) colt is out of a dual-winning half-sister to G1 Ascot Gold Cup and dual G1 Irish St Leger winner Order Of St George (Ire) (Galileo {Ire}).

Tidy Profit For Farrier-Turned-Pinhooker...

Liam McAteer is a man of many talents. The former trainer is also a practising farrier and he can also add successful pinhooker to his list of achievements after selling lot lot 130 for €310,000 to Alastair Donald.

Bloodstock agent Anthea Gibson Fleming assisted McAteer in his purchase of the colt for 85,000gns at Tattersalls last December and, on behalf of his business partner, Turkish owner-breeder Kemal Kurt, McAteer prepared the son of the listed-placed Pop Art (Ire) (Excellent Art {Ire}) with daughter Pamela at their Woodtown House Stud in Navan.

"He was a small foal but we always thought he was going to grow and he's done very well through the year," said McAteer, who also sold subsequent G1 Nunthorpe S. winner Margot Did (Ire) (Exceed And Excel {Aus}) as a yearling.

"It's been a great team effort and we have a nice Garswood colt to sell in Newmarket," he added, before dashing off to shoe a yearling for a friend.

Sun Out Again In Kildare

Australian-based Sun Bloodstock has a son of Frankel (GB) (lot 188) to race for them after going to 300,000gns for Camas Park Stud's half-brother to the black-type-earning duo of Disegno (Ire) (Fastnet Rock {Aus}) and Psychometry (Fr) (Danehill Dancer {Ire}). The son of Lingfield Oaks Trial runner-up Seven Magicians (Silver Hawk) hails from the dynasty of the Niarchos family's Myth To Reality (Fr) (Sadler's Wells).

Other Australian interests active at the sale included Lloyd Williams, a regular buyer of European horses in training as potential Melbourne Cup prospects, who bought two middle-distance yearlings. Lot 31 is a first-crop son of dual Derby winner Australia (GB), bought for €65,000 from Flash Conroy's Glenvale Stud, while lot 41 is the Camelot colt out of Lesson In Life (GB) (Duke Of Marmalade {Ire}), bought for €85,000 from Camas Park Stud.

GOFFS ORBY YEARLING SALE DAY ONE

Lot	Sex	Sire	Dam	Price (€)
11	f	Motivator (GB)	Jomana (Ire)	180,000

Consigned by Tinnakill House
Purchased by Ebonos

Jomana (Ire) (Darshaan {GB}), winner of the G3 Prix Corrida and G3 Prix Exbury, had failed to produce a stakes horse with her first seven foals, and thus Dermot Cantillon and Meta Osborne of Tinnakill House Stud were able to scoop her up for €7,500 at Goffs November in 2013. The Manduro (Ger) filly she had produced earlier that year, Jollify (Ire), would go on to be listed-placed in France, thus making the page look a bit more promising. This filly, bred on the same cross as Motivator's Group 1-winning filly, provided a good return for the Tinnakill team on Tuesday. The cross of Motivator's sire, Montjeu (Ire), over Darshaan mares has also produced Derby winner and sire Pour Moi (Ire) and Australian Group 1-winning stayer The Offer (Ire).

45 c Kodiac (GB) Lilly Junior (GB) 270,000

Consigned by Camas Park Stud
Purchased by Shawn Dugan

The Hydes at Camas Park Stud took a punt on this son of the highly sought after Kodiac when spending 130,000gns on him at Tattersalls December last year, and they enjoyed a good return when pinhooking him on Tuesday. He is the first foal out of the winning Lilly Junior, who was bought by BBA Ireland for €48,000 carrying him at Goffs February in 2015. Lilly Junior has a filly foal by another promising young sire in Poet's Voice (GB).

49 c Dark Angel (Ire) Love In The Desert (GB) 280,000

Consigned by Grangemore Stud
Purchased by George Moore Bloodstock

Guy O'Callaghan of Grangemore Stud paid $55,000 for the British listed-placed Love In The Desert (GB) (Lemon Drop Kid) at Keeneland November in 2014. O'Callaghan brought the filly back home to Ireland and put her in foal for her first mating to Dark Angel (Ire) at a fee of €27,500 at the time. O'Callaghan was able to capitalize on that sire's meteoric rise on Tuesday when selling the resulting foal to Hong Kong agent George Moore for €280,000.

131 f Showcasing (GB) Poppet's Lovein (GB) 130,000

Consigned by Kildaragh Stud
Purchased by Clive Cox Racing

Peter Kelly's Emerald Bloodstock spent just 33,000gns on Poppet's Lovein (GB) (Lomitas {GB}), a half-sister to the popular Hungarian champion Overdose (GB) (Starborough {GB}), in foal to Makfi (GB), at Tattersalls December in 2013. That resulting foal was sold by Kildaragh Stud for 60,000gns at Tattersalls October and added valuable black-type to the page when she finished second in the G3 Bonhams Thoroughbred S. in August. Kildaragh sold a Lawman (Fr) colt out of the mare for 72,000gns the following year and, likely benefitting from that recent update, this is the mare's first produce to make six figures. She produced a Mukhadram (GB) filly this year.

183 f Dutch Art (GB) Semblance (GB) 135,000

Consigned by Glidawn Stud
Purchased by Joe Foley

Gerry Burke of Glidawn Stud spent 22,000gns on this first foal of Semblance (GB) (Pivotal {GB}) at Tattersalls December last year, and that price was made to look like a bargain on Tuesday. The filly comes from the productive Cheveley Park family of champions Hooray (GB) and Danehurst (GB).

Buyer: BBA Ireland
Price: €85,000

"This colt by Lawman, from the Castlebridge Consignment, was bought by Eamonn Reilly of BBA Ireland. Eamonn has had a very good record buying from this sale," said Colm Sharkey of CDS Bloodstock. "The colt is an Apr. 28 foal who is going to improve a lot. He was very athletic with a good pedigree. He had a lovely top line and a lovely walk also. I just thought at that price he was great value."

PLUS 10 OPPORTUNITIES AT NAAS

On Oct. 4, Naas Racecourse will host a meeting of seven races for 2-year-olds which all carry a Plus 10 bonus.

Connections, therefore, have the opportunity to boost their winnings by €12,500. The addition of the Plus 10 bonus funds increases the prize money available by 91%, and should all winners be qualified for Plus 10, an additional €87,500 will be collected by owners, breeders and trainers.

Almost 270 Plus 10 bonuses have been won across Britain and Ireland in 2017, paying out over €3.3-million in additional prize money. This takes the total amount paid out to date to over €13-million in under three years.

3rd-TIP, €17,700, Mdn, 9-26, 2yo, c/g, 7f 110yT, 1:45.58, s/h. ZABRISKIE (IRE) (c, 2, Frankel {GB}--Moonlight's Box, by Nureyev), a half-brother to the Arc-winning champion Bago (Fr) (Nashwan) and the G1 Prix du Moulin hero and fellow sire Maxios (GB) (Monsun {Ger}), was 10th on debut over this seven-furlong trip at The Curragh Aug. 20 and broke well this time to lead. Hassled by stablemate Spanish Point (GB) (Frankel {GB}) for the entire length of the straight, the €750,000 GOFORB yearling who traded at 9-1 refused to buckle and hit the line with a head to spare and the rest strung out behind. The unraced Moonlight's Box had all the right credentials to excel as a broodmare, being a daughter of the Niarchos flagbearer Coup de Genie (Mr. Prospector) who captured the G1 Prix Morny and G1 Prix de la Salamandre at two before finishing third in the G1 1000 Guineas. A daughter of the G3 Prix d'Aumale winner and top producer Coup de Folie (Halo), she produced four black-type scorers headed by Denebola (Storm Cat) who captured the G1 Prix Marcel Boussac and placed in the G1 Prix de la Foret and G1 Prix Morny before becoming the dam of this year's TDN Rising Star Ratiocination (Ire) (Excelebration {Ire}). Moonlight's Box got off to a flying start, with Bago establishing himself as one of the operation's classiest performers with successes in the G1 Grand Prix de Paris, G1 Prix Jean Prat, G1 Prix Ganay and G1 Criterium International as well as his career-defining victory in the Arc in 2004, Ch. 3-y-o colt-Eur, Hwt. 3yo-Fr at 11-14f, Hwt. 2yo Colt & MG1SW-Fr, MG1SP-Eng, G1SP-Ire, $2,317,015. Gradually getting the better of that rival from just before the furlong marker, the bay asserted to score by 3/4 of a length. The winner, who was the sixth highest-priced yearling and third highest-priced filly at the 2015 October Part 1 Sale, is a half-sister to Ladys First (GB) (Dutch Art {GB}), who dead-heated in the G3 Atalanta S. and was placed in the G2 Duke of Cambridge S. and G2 Middleton S., GSW-Eng, $249,080.
