LEGAL LANDSCAPE SHIFTING AROUND BEDROCK RULES

The Week in Review, by T.D. Thornton

From a legal standpoint, these are interesting times in the Thoroughbred industry, particularly if you lean toward the “question authority” mindset.

Racing’s “absolute insurer” rule, which places the ultimate responsibility for anything having to do with the care of a Thoroughbred squarely on the shoulders of its licensed trainer, was declared unconstitutional last month by a circuit court judge in Kentucky because its rigidity deprives trainers who are accused of improper equine treatment of their due process rights.

The decision is currently being appealed by the Kentucky Horse Racing Commission, and even though the ruling does not directly affect absolute insurer regulations in other states, the final outcome is being watched closely because that long-accepted trainer responsibility standard forms the basis for anti-doping and medication control rules in most United States jurisdictions. More challenges in other states could be in the pipeline.

Next month, the United States Supreme Court is scheduled to hear a case from New Jersey challenging the constitutionality of the Professional and Amateur Sports Protection Act of 1992 (PASPA), which is the backbone for the nationwide prohibition on sports betting in all but four grandfathered states (Nevada, Oregon, Montana and Delaware). Cont. p3

‘BUCKET LIST’ SPARKS A DEFERRED DREAM

by T.D. Thornton

For most people, crossing an item or two off a “bucket list” is enough to yield an enormous amount of personal contentment.

Patricia Akiona goes about her goals a little bit differently.

The effervescent 50-year-old law enforcement retiree--a new grandmother who cares for two ex-racehorses on a small farm in Snohomish, Wash.--belongs to that subset of uniquely driven bucket-listers whose achievements instead serve the purpose of sparking deeper involvement into lifetime aspirations.

In May, Akiona finally checked off her bucket list a long-planned trip to attend the GI Kentucky Derby and a tour of a Bluegrass breeding farm.

A ruling on the PASPA case could be expected a few months later. But as a pre-emptive strike in case some sort of federal action nullifies the near-nationwide ban on sports betting, this past Wednesday a Kentucky state senator filed a bill to establish a framework to allow sports wagering at any horse track or off-track wagering facility in the commonwealth.

Without such a regulatory framework in place, sports betting might become legal at the federal level anyway, depriving Kentucky (and its racing industry) of a slice of the revenue stream while simultaneously providing daunting competition to pari-mutuel horse betting.

Also last Wednesday, a federal judge in Indiana struck down a version of the Thoroughbred industry’s long-standing “jail” rule that prohibits claimed horses from racing outside the state for 60 days. As of this writing, no appeal has been filed by the defendant, the Indiana Horse Racing Commission.

Theoretically, a federal precedent is now on the books striking down the jail restrictions for claimed horses, meaning owners should be free to race horses they purchase via claims whenever and wherever they choose. But in practice, expect that few, if any, state racing commission regulations or “house rules” at racetracks will change as a result of this court order.

The federal court’s specific directive not to enforce the jail rule (because it is an unfair restriction of interstate commerce) only applies within Indiana, and trainers who wish to challenge similar jail rules in other states should expect that they will have to initiate their own lawsuits in order to do so, at which time they could cite the Indiana federal ruling as a precedent to bolster their cases.

California could be the first jurisdiction where the jail rule first gets batted around like a legal pinata.

In July, a proposed amendment to California Horse Racing Board (CHRB) rule 1663 to provide that a claimed horse in ineligible to race in any other state than California (except in a stakes race) until 60 days after the close of the meeting was pushed off the agenda for further study by the CHRB’s Legislative, Legal and Regulations Committee before being potentially brought back before the full board for action.

At the time, that measure was presented as a commission-level way to improve short fields by cutting down on the number of horses being claimed in California that end up being transferred to other states where they are lured by gaming-enhanced purses. Del Mar Thoroughbred Club and Santa Anita Park currently have house rules that call for similar jail restrictions, but the CHRB does not have a direct say in enforcing those house rules. Cont. p4

CHRB officials testified at that July meeting that the legal landscape might be ripe for instituting a commission-mandated jail rule because, in their opinion, the federal scope pertaining to interstate commerce had narrowed, thus making a jail regulation better legally defensible.

But the Sep. 20 federal ruling out of Indiana seems to contrast sharply with the above-stated CHRB reasoning.

The CHRB has an agenda item pertaining to discussion and action on rule 1663 scheduled for its meeting this Thursday. Yet the CHRB also posted a notice on its website announcing that Wednesday's Legislative, Legal and Regulations Committee has been canceled, and the claim-jail rule change had been agenda item No. 1 for that committee meeting.

Now it remains to be seen whether the claim-jail rule will come up for a vote at all on Thursday, or if it will resurface in some different structure.

Sophomores jinxed?

The year's final graded two-turn stakes for male 3-year-olds were run over the weekend. If you were holding your breath for either the GI Pennsylvania Derby at Parx or the GIII Oklahoma Derby at Remington Park to produce a dominant, bust-out winner to carry the divisional flag as a serious threat against older rivals in the GI Breeders' Cup Classic, you'd best exhale right now.

This is not so much a knock on Pennsylvania Derby victor West Coast (Flatter) as a frank assessment of the lack of depth within the 3-year-old male division as a whole.

West Coast, after winning his fifth consecutive race (and second straight Grade I route), appears to be peaking at just the right time to factor in the Classic. But he has yet to face a stern, deep-stretch, battle-searing test to get a true read on how he would stand up to the likes of Arrogate (Unbridled's Song) and Gun Runner (Candy Ride {Arg}) over 10 furlongs.

In the July 15 GIII Los Alamitos Derby, West Coast dropped far back, gave up significant ground on both turns, and looped a subpar group of stakes horses at 2-5 odds. The Aug. 26 GI Travers S. shaped up to be a corker of a race on paper, but West Coast was really the only horse who brought his "A" game. After establishing a moderate early pace, no other horse--including all three winners of this year's Triple Crown races--mounted realistic challenges to either soften up West Coast's lead or cut him down late in the Saratoga lane.

On Saturday, West Coast settled willingly, alternated heads down the backstretch with 18-1 pacemaker Outplay (Bernardini), shrugged off that rival just prior to the quarter pole, then had the length of the Parx stretch all to himself for an unchallenged 7 1/4-length win. His next closest competitors were Irap (Tiznow), who raced erratically and was subsequently vanned off with a fractured sesamoid, and Giuseppe the Great (Lookin At Lucky), a 47-1 long shot.

At Remington, 7-5 favorite Battle of Midway (Smart Strike) encountered similar early traffic woes that hampered his effort in the GI Haskell Invitational back in July. But in the Oklahoma Derby he settled enough down the backstretch to remain poised to pounce off the far turn.

His Haskell nemesis Girvin (Tale of Ekati) was briefly pocketed three-eighths out but thereafter failed to rally when roused, and the horse who got clear run after a stalking, mid-pack trip in the Oklahoma Derby ended up being Untrapped (Trappe Shot), a capable sort who has picked up minor awards in graded stakes since January but needed until Sunday night at Remington to record his second lifetime victory.

Ladies first?

In contrast, the filly 3-year-old division looks as if it will provide a bit of intrigue at the Breeders' Cup when its top-seeded sophomores square off against older distaffers.

Mike Smith's slingshot move up the rail aboard 4-5 favorite Abel Tasman (Quality Road) proved to be a premature tactic in the GI Cotillion at Parx, allowing It Tiz Well (Arch) to be the main beneficiary after that filly rated kindly behind the fully engaged Abel Tasman and pacemaker Lockdown (First Defence).

But don't make the mistake of chalking up It Tiz Well's Parx win to circumstances of attrition. After winning the GIII Delaware Oaks in July, It Tiz Well turned in a much-better-than-it-looks performance when setting solid fractions and holding for second behind Elate (Medaglia d'Oro) in the GI Alabama S. at Saratoga Aug. 19, and she has quietly been building a capable, under-the-radar resume heading into the championship time of the year. Cont. p6

As for Abel Tasman, neither Smith nor trainer Bob Baffert expressed post-race doubts about how the loss on Saturday will affect her readiness for the GI Breeders' Cup Distaff. The extra half-furlong stretchout from the Cotillion to the Distaff will work in Abel Tasman's favor, and a blinkers-off change might also result in less keyed-up antics that have required Smith to move early in both of her last two tries.

Elate will get her first taste of older competition this Saturday in the GI Beldame at Belmont Park. Right now she's the queen of the 3-year-old filly division based on her emphatic Alabama victory and her gutsy, close-quarters stretch battle in the Grade I Coaching Club American Oaks when beaten a head by Abel Tasman.

And even though her complete-control win at 1-5 odds in Sunday's Remington Park Oaks amounted to little more than a rousing public workout, last year's 2-year-old filly champ Champagne Room (Broken Vow) signaled that she too might have a say in the Distaff fray. The win represented her first start since February (ankle chip surgery), and was only her second outing since Champagne Room won last November's GI Breeders' Cup Juvenile Fillies.

Thanks to a fortuitous confluence of circumstances--and Akiona's charismatic ability to connect with people and make requests that others might consider beyond feasibility--she later managed to parlay that visit into a two-week, fully immersive experience as a hands-on horse worker for Lexington's Mill Ridge Farm during the just-completed Keeneland September yearling sale.

She paid her own way in terms of travel, lodging, expenses, and meals, and neither asked for nor received compensation for her labor at a time when Thoroughbred farms in the region are having difficulty attracting quality help.

"The first couple of days, it was so surreal. I kept thinking I'm going to wake up from a dream," Akiona said in a phone interview last Friday after completing another day of chores and shadowing Mill Ridge personnel, which she has treated like a mid-life internship. "It was like all the stars just lined up. And I've had the goofiest grin on my face the whole time I've been here."

Akiona traces her attraction to Thoroughbreds to age six, when she was enthralled by the televised pageantry of Secretariat's 1973 Triple Crown triumph. Her grandmother introduced her to live racing at the now-defunct Longacres racetrack in the Green River Valley of Washington, where the grade-school girl was able to get up close to racehorses in person for the first time.

After several years of "begging and pleading" to hang around with horses her neighbors kept, Akiona announced at age 16 to her parents that she was intent on making a career out of working with racehorses at the track.

Her mortified mom and dad gave her the “not under our roof” rebuttal, which only made Akiona more determined to follow through.

“So I packed my bags, caught a bus, and went to Longacres thinking I would just march in there and somebody would see what a great talent I was with no experience and let me start riding their horses,” Akiona said.

She made it as far as the stable gate, where a gruff security guard told her to go back outside, sit on the bench, and wait for the next bus back home.

Later, when the guard saw the stubborn teenager still lingering outside, he had a change of heart and said Akiona could have a half-hour inside the barn area to find a job. But if she didn't find one in that time frame, he promised to yank her back outside by the ear.

That was all Akiona needed to hear. She immediately struck up a conversation with an older couple training a small outfit. They gave her a hotwalking job, protectively took her under their wing, and later got her started galloping horses.

“But then life takes over,” Akiona said, matter-of-factly compressing the next three decades of her existence into a single sentence. “I went off to college, got a job, got married, and had kids.”

Settling in Snohomish (“it's about 40 miles north of Seattle, but light years away if you know what I mean”) to raise a family, Akiona scaled back her racehorse dream to taking in two off-track Thoroughbreds and the possibility of attending the Derby one day. After retiring from 20 years of police work three years ago, she took a part-time job at a local equine hospital, “but I just knew I needed to finish what I started back when I was 16.”

So in 2017, Akiona and her husband, Jon, finally booked that trip to the Derby. They also bought Mill Ridge tour tickets via Horse Country, the central booking outlet for stud farms, nurseries, and equine veterinary clinics that connects tourists with horse destinations in the Bluegrass.

The day the Akionas went to Mill Ridge, Headley Bell, the managing director of his family's 55-year-old farm, happened to be conducting the tour.

Bell and his son, Price, have been instrumental in the formation and development of the non-profit Horse Country as a way to promote Thoroughbred tourism. Bell told TDN that one or the other of them usually likes to lead the Mill Ridge tours because, “we end up getting more out of the experience than the people on the tour. They're so gracious and appreciative, and it reminds us how very, very fortunate we are.”

The Akionas and Bell got to talking as they toured the property, and their conversation extended beyond horses, lasting long after other tourists had drifted away.

Akiona went back home, happy she had experienced the Bluegrass. But over the next two months, she couldn't get Mill Ridge out of her thoughts, because she had the nagging feeling she had left an important question unasked in her interaction with Bell.

Around July 1, Akiona contacted Bell, thanked him again for his kindness during and after the tour, and asked him outright if Mill Ridge ever would consider taking her on as a worker--for free--so she could better learn the business while getting to spend time with young, developing racehorses.

“Let me ponder it,” Bell told her. Akiona thought this might be code for Bell needing time to come up with a tactful deflection.

Yet the Mill Ridge boss phoned back a few days later with an entire itinerary--an equine curriculum, if you will--planned for September.

“And so here I am,” Akiona beamed last Friday, glee evident in her voice.

“I remembered her and her husband, Jon,” Bell said in a separate interview. “He was so accommodating of her. I remember that very, very well. It was just like, ‘This is her world,’ and he was so supportive of her.”

But still, Akiona's request gave Bell pause. She had horse experience, but stud farms in the Bluegrass can't just allow any volunteer enthusiast who asks to take a turn at handling stallions, mares, and yearlings during the busy part of the sales season.

“My reaction to her request was sensitivity,” Bell said. “Here was somebody that [the tour experience] touched her like that, and it was the least I could do to try to facilitate her. I remembered meeting her, and she was speaking very much from the heart. I had observed her during the tour, and she was taking it all in, and I was sensitive to that.”

Akiona arrived Sept. 12 and started tagging along with farm manager Marc Richardson, doing turnouts, changing bandages, and holding horses for blacksmithing work. Eventually, she was tasked with handling a yearling filly at the Keeneland sale.

"I actually ended up going into the sales ring, which was just thrilling. I had only seen it live-streamed online. In person it's completely different. If you look closely at the pictures, my eyes are like saucers because it was so surreal," Akiona said.

"She was different from the get-go," said Bell. "She had enough experience--and I wouldn't have done it if she hadn't--to be able to show the yearling with a level of expertise that I felt comfortable with allowing her to go through with the entire process."

The Mill Ridge crew members who did similar jobs were polite and helpful, even though they initially didn't know what to make of her.

"First they were kind of like, 'Who is this chick?'" Akiona recalled with a laugh. "But after a couple of days, they must have heard through the grapevine, and they were like, 'So you flew out here on your own dime and you're not getting paid?' I said, 'Yep.' Then they started speaking to each other in Spanish. I only caught a few words, but I know what 'loco' means. But they were so kind to me, especially considering how green I was."

After the sale, Akiona wrapped up her crash course with trips to training barns at Keeneland and a night of racing at Churchill Downs.

Anne Sabatino Hardy, the executive director of Horse Country, said in the two years since the tour-selling service started selling tickets, Akiona's query and Mill Ridge's response stand out.

"She's the first one to my knowledge that's made that type of request," Hardy said. "While experiences like Patricia's are a long way down the road [from being regular Horse Country offerings] it's kind of cool to see how the members really care about how the guests perceive the experience. They want to invest in it, and it's been really cool to see them put their time, effort, energy, and dollars into making those things happen with their guests."

Bell said, "the whole Horse Country experience is going to continue to evolve. We feel that you grow the relationship with the horse starting on the farm. Our goal is to totally allow that opportunity to connect the fan with the horse and understand where the horse comes from and how they're cared for."

Bell emphasized that this commitment to agri-tourism isn't limited to Mill Ridge.

"Claiborne now has a visitor center. I mean, who would have thought Claiborne would have a visitor center?" Bell said. "And Taylor Made has a restaurant and a golf course. WinStar and Darley have trams that shuttle fans when they come through. We're going to have 40,000 people through [Horse Country-booked tours] this year. What I see occurring in time is the racetracks will do something similar to this. And it can be a worldwide thing, this model, for different countries to utilize and start seeing the impact."

As for Akiona, she's already made it known that she'd gladly pay again for a similar immersive experience. "I mean, what's a dream cost?" she said.

Yet even if a return trip to the Bluegrass doesn't materialize, Akiona said she has now achieved a sense of fulfillment that extends beyond just checking an item off her bucket list.

"Look, I want to leave no stone unturned when it's time for me to go to my final resting place," she said. "The only thing that would have been terrible is if I had this opportunity and didn't take advantage of it. I guess the moral is 'It doesn't hurt to ask.'"

"I've lived a blessed life. I have such a great family, such a great husband. I've got my horses, a little farm, and I've got a wonderful job that I absolutely love going to. But there was still that little piece left unfinished. And this experience has made me whole. It's now come full circle from when I was 16 years old." \(Click here to return to p1\)

PAOLA QUEEN CONSIGNED TO KEENOV

Grade I winner Paola Queen (Flatter) has been consigned by Elite Sales as a broodmare prospect to this year’s Keeneland November Breeding Stock Sale, Keeneland announced Monday.

Bred in Kentucky by CFP Thoroughbreds LLC, the bay captured the GI Test S. in a 55-1 shocker last summer at Saratoga and was second earlier in the year in the GII Gulfstream Park Oaks. Originally bought by Grupo Seven C Stable for $180,000 as a Keeneland September yearling, she hammered to SF Bloodstock for $1.7 million at last term’s KEENOV sale.

“She is a beautiful specimen,” Tom Ryan of SF Bloodstock said. “The Test has always been an indicator of class and brilliance. All combined makes her very special.”

Paola Queen joins ‘TDN Rising Star’ Cathryn Sophia (Street Boss) and Her Emmynency (Successful Appeal) as Grade I winners being offered by SF at Keeneland November, which runs from Nov. 7-18.

IRAP HAS SUCCESSFUL SURGERY

Reddam Racing LLC’s multiple graded stakes winner Irap (Tiznow), who sustained a fractured front left sesamoid when finishing second in Saturday’s GI Pennsylvania Derby at Parx, had successful surgery on the leg at the University of Pennsylvania’s New Bolton Center Monday morning, trainer Doug O’Neill announced on his stable’s Facebook page.

“Dr. Dean Richardson and Dr. [Chris] Ryan said that Irap was/is a 10 out [of] 10 in terms of a patient,” O’Neill relayed. “They were both very happy with how the 3-hour surgery went. His coming out of anesthesia [in a pool of water] went ‘flawless,’ according to both vets. Once out of the pool, he calmly walked right back to his stall. He’s such a classy colt.”

Irap, who upset the GII Toyota Blue Grass S. at 33-1 in April, was 18th in the GI Kentucky Derby before coming to hand in the summer months, annexing the GIII Ohio Derby and GIII Indiana Derby and running third in the GI Travers S.

Memorial Services Announced for Penny Chenery:

A public celebration of Helen “Penny” Chenery’s life will be held at 1:30 p.m. Monday, Oct. 9, at the Keeneland Sales Pavilion in Lexington, the Tweedy family announced Monday. Friends of the late “First Lady of Thoroughbred Racing” will reminisce and honor her contributions to the sport. All are invited to attend.

“One of mom’s great passions was to strengthen the sport of Thoroughbred racing,” Chenery’s daughter Kate Tweedy said. “It is only fitting that we would remember her by going to beautiful Keeneland, where Riva Ridge set the stage for Meadow Stable’s Triple Crown hopes when he won the 1972 Blue Grass Stakes.”

Preview of Thoroughbred Makeover Horses Tuesday:

Local equestrians will be showing off their Thoroughbred ex-racehorses Tuesday at Masterson Station Park Equestrian Complex in Lexington before competing in the Retired Racehorse Project’s $100,000 Thoroughbred Makeover, the RRP announced Monday. The Thoroughbred Makeover, presented by the Thoroughbred Charities of America, is an international competition that highlights and champions the many different performance-based competition opportunities for Thoroughbreds after their racing careers conclude.

The preview, which goes from 1-2:30 p.m., will showcase horses readying to compete in the Oct. 5-8 event at the Kentucky Horse Park. Demonstrations from each of the 10 divisions trainers can choose from will be conducted.

Roman, O’Neill Take Los Al Meet Titles:

Apprentice jockey Evin Roman earned his second consecutive Los Alamitos riding title, while the training crown went to Doug O’Neill as the Los Angeles County Fair meet concluded Sunday at the Cypress oval.

Roman, the 19-year-old sensation who also tied for the Santa Anita winter/spring meet riding crown and took home the Los Alamitos Summer Thoroughbred Festival title, paced the meet with 17 victories, five more than runner-up Brayan Pena. He also notched his 100th tally since coming to America in February aboard Phil D’Amato trainee Meet and Greet (Tribal Rule) Sept. 15.

O’Neill finished with six wins, one more than both Jeff Bonde and Molly Pearson. The title was the seventh that O’Neill has either shared or won outright at Los Alamitos since daytime Thoroughbred racing returned in July 2014.

Los Alamitos will resume its Thoroughbred dates Nov. 30, with the start of the 12-day Winter Meet, which runs through Dec. 17 and will feature the GI Los Alamitos CashCall Futurity S. and GI Starlet S. for juveniles Dec. 9.

INTERNATIONAL CAST IN PLACE FOR ORBY

Goffs's Kill Paddocks ahead of the Orby sale | Emma Berry

By Emma Berry

When the sun is filtering through leaves on the turn to shades of red and gold and some of the finest of Ireland's young Thoroughbreds are strolling past, it's hard to feel that there's too much wrong in the world.

Welcome to the bloodstock bubble that will envelop many breeders, vendors and buyers for the next month as the elite sales of Ireland and Britain steal the limelight back from North America.

This week it's the turn of Goffs, which stages its two-day Orby sale Tuesday and Wednesday from 10 a.m., swiftly followed by the Sportman's Sale on Thursday, which returns to a single session after being held over two days last year.

This is an important week for Henry Beeby and his team and they are entitled to feel cautiously optimistic as the first yearling enters the ring on Tuesday.

"It's the old story: the closer we get to the sale, the more I walk my box, but as long as it's only me and not the horses doing that we'll be fine," joked Beeby at a sun-drenched Kill Paddocks on Monday.

MAHER SUSPENDED SIX MONTHS

Australian trainer Ciaron Maher has been suspended six months and fined A$75,000 after Racing Victoria stewards deemed he should have known about the involvement of a notorious criminal in the ownership of five horses in his stable.

The 36-year-old Maher pleaded guilty to a charge of conduct prejudicial to racing's image, and his suspension will begin on Oct. 2, giving the trainer a week to make arrangements for the horses under his care. Racing.com printed a letter allegedly issued by Maher to his owners, which read, "As you have probably just heard, I have pleaded guilty to section 175A and today the [Racing Appeals and Disciplinary] Board has suspended me for six months and fined me $75,000. The suspension begins on Oct. 2. While I am disappointed to find myself in this situation, I am relieved a decision has been finally made. I would like to thank the RAD Board for their consideration of my case."

The letter continued, "The past 12 months have certainly taken a toll on my health, however, I have an incredibly supportive team at Ciaron Maher Racing who will be able to ensure the smooth running of the operation in the interim."

The issue involved five horses under Maher's care, including G1 Coolmore Legacy S. winner Azkadellia (NZ) (Shinko King {Ire}). The horses were registered to the ownership of Ben Connolly, Maher's former racing manager, and Maher first became aware of other potential involvement in the ownership in late 2014. He notified stewards at the time and told Connolly to rectify the situation, but in September 2016 stewards were not satisfied it had been resolved, and slapped the five horses with a ban from racing while the inquiry was in progress. That ban is still in place.

The convicted criminal involved in the ownership was Peter Foster, and his niece Arabella Foster was also involved.

Maher had been a rising force in the Australian training ranks in recent years. In addition to Azkadellia his flagbearers included G1 Caulfield Cup and G1 Crown Oaks winner Jameka (Aus) (Myboycharlie {Ire}), another Crown Oaks winner in Set Square (Aus) (Reset {Aus}) and dual Group 1 winner Srikandi (Aus) (Dubawi {Ire}).

Recent graduates have continued to advertise the sale's merit. The four-time Group 1-winning miler Ribchester (Ire) (Iffraaj {GB}), bought for €105,000 here in 2014, has been the standout poster boy of late but Capla Temptress (Ire) (Lope De Vega {Ire}), a €26,000 selection for trainer Marco Botti just a year ago, added to the roll of honour with her impressive victory in the GI Natalma S. earlier this month, while her contemporary Beckford (GB) (Bated Breath {GB}), a €55,000 purchase, won the G2 Railway S. and has twice been runner-up at Group 1 level. He heads to Saturday's G1 Juddmonte Middle Park S. at Newmarket.

John and James Ferguson at Orby | Amy Lynam

Twelve months ago it was a colt by Dubawi (Ire) out of French Classic winner Beauty Parlour (Jpn) (Deep Impact (Jpn)) who led the Orby proceedings, becoming not just the star of the Wildenstein Stables Dispersal but of the whole sale when selling for €1.4-million to John Ferguson. Named Being There (Fr), the colt won a Newmarket maiden in July for Charlie Appleby. Ferguson is back in harness at his first sale since his resignation from Godolphin in June and is at Goffs this week with son James and Sam Haggas, who will be working alongside him in his return as an independent bloodstock agent.

A full-brother to one of Ferguson's previous purchases, Godolphin's multiple Group 2 winner and young Darley stallion Bow Creek (Ire) (Shamardal), is one of the colts drawing plenty of attention at Goffs this week. Selling as lot 333 through his breeders Bobby and Honora Donworth of Roundhill Stud, the March-born colt is a son of the G3 Dahlia S. winner Beneventa (GB) (Most Welcome {GB}), whose winners also include the Group 3-placed Dare To Dance (Ire) (Danehill Dancer {Ire}). He goes through the ring just three lots after another colt who has attracted plenty of admirers, Marlhill House Stud's Frankel (GB) half-brother to G2 Herbert Power S. winner Adjusted (Ire) (Montjeu {Ire}) (lot 330). Cont. p3

"He's been very busy, in and out of his box constantly over the last few days, but he's taken it all really well. I'm delighted with him," said Marlhill House manager Brian McConnon.

The fact that the sales grounds have been packed since Saturday has pleased Beeby, who said, "On Saturday I had one complaint from a vendor saying he was too busy too far away from the sale and I thought that was a pretty good complaint. We're delighted with the number of people who have come over. There's particularly strong representation from England and many overseas faces, which is great. What's really pleased me is the number of buyers who have worked through the two days and said that the catalogue has taken another step forward, both on paper and physically. So we're hopeful and we think there are some very nice horses here."

He added, "We've been well supported by Irish breeders. I've said over the last few years that what we need to do is to encourage increasing numbers of Irish breeders to sell an increasing share of their best yearlings at Goffs and I think that's happening. We're very grateful that the buyers are coming and seeing that too. We have Markus Jooste and Derek Brugman from Mayfair Speculators here for the first time, Justin Zayat has come back and we have a number of Japanese and Australian buyers here, as well as the Hong Kong Jockey Club."

Here Come The Girls...

The all-female owners of dual Australian Group 1 winner Global Glamour (Aus) (Star Witness {Aus}) are on the hunt for the next representative for the It's All About The Girls syndicate and have charged BBA Ireland agent Patrick Cooper with the task of finding them a pair of horses to race in Ireland.

The truly international partnership consists of 40 women from seven countries, including Goffs's International Director Elaine 'Legs' Lawlor, who manages the syndicate. Fittingly, Global Glamour is under the care of Australia's leading female trainer Gai Waterhouse, and the Irish purchases will head to the stable of Jessica Harrington.

"We are absolutely thrilled to be setting up It's All About The Girls in Ireland and to be doing it with Jessie Harrington is a no-brainer," said Lawlor. "Importantly, we want all the syndicate members to have a lot of fun and the process starts now as we head to the Orby sale in hope of purchasing a couple of yearlings. Choosing your horse at the sales can be so exciting and we will have some of the signed-up syndicate members with us this week to be part of that process."

She continued, "We have been so incredibly lucky with Global Glamour and for her to be awarded New South Wales 3-year-old of the year was quite incredible, but it's the group of 40 women who have been involved right from the start which has made it such a lot of fun. Since the syndicate first started, it has now become a real community and we would love to see it grow."

The Irish partnership, which hopes to race two horses, will consist of up to 20 women, with each member paying an initial buy-in price of €6,000, including training fees for the first year before a supplementary fee of €2,500 for the second year.

"I think this is a terrific idea and I am not only delighted to have been asked to train for the syndicate but really looking forward to it," said Jessica Harrington. "Any unique and innovative ways in which to attract new owners into our sport should be embraced and I am in no doubt we will be having a lot of fun along the way. The process of becoming an owner should be the most brilliant experience from the moment you sign up and Its All About The Girls is a great example of this. I only hope that we can find a horse half as successful as Global Glamour."

Dark Angel (Ire) is a sure-fire ratings hit, the Yeomanstown Stud's star burning brighter than ever in 2017 with six-figure sales on the European circuit so far and sizzling son Harry Angel (Ire) burning away the fastest of sprinters. Unlike the television series with which he shares his name, the 12-year-old stallion has made the leap from cult classic to network stalwart, a hit with critics and viewers alike.

The success of Harry Angel in winning the G1 Darley July Cup and G1 32red Sprint Cup, adding to last season's G2 Mill Reef S. triumph for trainer Clive Cox, alongside the emergence of another hotshot son of Dark Angel in Battaash (Ire), also bred by Philip and Marie McCartan at their Ballyphilip Stud in Co Tipperary, has ensured that demand for offspring of Yeomanstown Stud's flagbearer is at a fever pitch.

Dark Angel | Yeomanstown Stud

The O'Callaghan family of Yeomanstown's select draft of nine yearlings for the Goffs Orby Sale includes some choicely bred progeny of their grey wonder.

"We have put together another strong draft for the Goffs Orby Sale this year, a mix of homebreds and pinhooks, fillies and colts. Dark Angel out of Secret Key (Ire) is a lovely colt and a full-brother to the smart Ger Lyons trained Exoegenesis, who won at Group 3 level as a 2-year-old. He is a late foal but looks sharp and moves well," said David O'Callaghan of lot 181.

Another son of Dark Angel who catches the eye on pedigree is lot 354 out of Capulet Montequ (Ire), a winning daughter of another smart Yeomanstown sire in Camacho (GB). The pedigree boasts a number of star sprinters under the second dam Family At War, including champions G Force (Ire) (Tamayuz {GB}) and Lethal Force (Ire) (Dark Angel {Ire}) as well as Classic-winning filly Flotilla (Fr) (Mizzen Mast). There could be further updates to come with a 2-year-old full-sister to this colt due to tackle the G2 Rockfel S.

O'Callaghan describes the colt as "an absolute belter. A big, strong, mature colt and a full-brother to Juliet Fair (Ire) and Juliet Capulet (Ire), who was second in the G3 Sweet Solera S. for John Gosden and Cheveley Park on her latest start and will step up to Group 2 level next time."

A pair of well-related Dark Angel fillies are among the draft

Yeomanstown will be selling at Kildare Paddocks. The first of these is lot 86 out of Muzdaan (Ire) a daughter of Exceed And Excel (Aus) out of Ireland's joint champion juvenile filly in 1994 Belle Genius, winner of that year's G1 Moyglare Stud S. Belle Genius is also the dam of multiple Group 1 winner Lucky Nine (Ire) (Dubawi {Ire}). Her full-sister Northern Angel (Ire) was set to run in Saturday's G3 Firth of Clyde S. at Ayr before that meeting was abandoned.

"She is a very racy filly. She oozes quality and we'd hope she attracts plenty of attention," said O'Callaghan.

Lot 238 is a full-sister to Perfect Angel (Ire), placed in the G2 Mill Reef S. and the G3 Hackwood S for Andrew Balding, and to Where's Sue (Ire), also a winner. Their dam The Hermitage (Ire) is a half-sister to listed winners Alboostan (GB) and Crown Of Light (GB), who in turn is the dam of listed winner Balkan Knight (GB). O'Callaghan said he thinks this filly has all the right attributes to succeed on the track.

"The Dark Angel filly out of The Hermitage is very sharp looking, she looks like she'd run through a wall for you and I just love her," he said.

The O'Callaghans are responsible for the first yearling by three-time Group 1 winner Charm Spirit to sell at the Orby Sale, in the shape of lot 18, a colt whose half-brother helped establish Dark Angel's reputation.

You had to go back to Oasis Dream to find a better European Champion sprinter. Now Slade Power is the top first-crop sire at the sales.

COOLMORE

"The Charm Spirit colt out of Kelsey Rose (GB) is very smart and a ringer for his sire, whom we had been keen to try and buy and stand ourselves, but having failed to get him, we sent Kelsey Rose to him instead," O'Callaghan said. "This colt is a half-brother to Group 2 winner Sovereign Debt (Ire) (Dark Angel), Puff (Ire) (Camacho {GB}), who won the G3 Fred Darling S., and several other smart winners."

Capla Temptress (Ire) provided her sire Lope De Vega (Ire) with a timely boost during yearling sales season with her success in the GI Natalma S at Woodbine on Sept. 17, and at Orby Yeomanstown offers a filly by Ballylinch Stud's Classic-winning sire. Lot 153 is the first foal of Relation Alexander (Ire), a daughter of Dandy Man (Ire) who won twice as a 2-year-old.

"She is a very strong, good-moving filly from a smart family, so I would hope she will prove popular especially following on from the success of Capla Temptress recently," O'Callaghan said of the chestnut filly.

Yeomanstown Stud will also sell the only yearling in the sale by Whitsbury Manor Stud's Foxwedge (Aus), a pinhooked colt who has strong connections to the farm.

David O'Callaghan | Alayna Cullen

"We have plenty more including a great-moving son of Foxwedge from the family of Showcasing (GB) and our own Camacho (GB). He is a wonderfully topped colt and just floats across the ground," O'Callaghan said of the colt out of an unraced half-sister to the aforementioned stallions.

A busy week at Goffs awaits the O'Callaghans and all the team at Yeomanstown Stud, but it is one they enjoy.

"We always like selling at Goffs, it is a great venue to show horses and the team work hard to attract a wide range of both domestic and international buyers," said O'Callaghan. "So they deserve to be supported by Irish breeders and vendors."

BRAMETOT WARMS UP FOR THE ARC

By Emmanuel Roussel

Brametot (Fr) (Rajsaman {Fr}), the main French sophomore hope for Sunday's G1 Qatar Prix de l'Arc de Triomphe, and G1 Qatar Prix Jean-Luc Lagardere fancy and 'TDN Rising Star' Olmedo (Fr) (Declaration Of War) each cantered alongside sparring partners over very soft turf in Deauville on Monday morning.

Interviewed by Equidia after the exercise, trainer Jean-Claude Rouget discussed Brametot's Arc challenge, which comes almost seven weeks after he ran fifth in the G2 Prix Guillaume d'Ornano at Deauville.

"He won both the French 2,000 Guineas and the Prix du Jockey Club, which is great. He saved our season, really," said the trainer whose stable was struck by an outbreak of Equine Herpesvirus in the spring. He continued, "Today's piece of work was only routine. He's fit to race but that's not the only issue. He was beaten in the Ornano mostly because of his bad start."

Rouget continued, "He lost five to six lengths there instead of his usual two lengths. Brametot accelerated the way he used to but [jockey] Cristian Demuro didn't want to give him a hard race when he realised that victory was out of reach. Whether or not he'll do well over 12 furlongs is another question mark. This is far from a formality against older horses."

The next forfeit stage for Sunday's big race is Tuesday, while supplementary entries, at €120,000 apiece, are accepted on Wednesday. Final declarations and draw will take place on Thursday.

Jean-Claude Rouget | Zuzanna Lupa

Waldgeist (GB) (Galileo {Fr}) and Recoletos (Fr) (Whipper), who were second and third to Brametot in the Prix du Jockey Club, have both been taken out of the Arc entries. The former worked at Maisons-Laffitte racecourse on Monday and will be aimed at an "easier target than the Arc sometime in October," according to trainer Andre Fabre, while G3 Prix du Prince d'Orange winner Recoletos, trained by Carlos Laffon-Parias, is entered in the G2 Prix Dollar on Saturday.

SPILL THE BEANS TO SHUTTLE TO BRITAIN

Spill The Beans (Aus) (Snitzel {Aus}-Miss Dodwell {Aus}, by Falbrav {Ire}), a triple Group 3-winning sprinter in Australia for Arrowfield and trainer Gerald Ryan, will shuttle to the National Stud in Newmarket in 2018. Spill The Beans will be the first son of Snitzel, Australia's record-breaking champion sire of 2016/17, to stand in Europe.

Spill The Beans was Australia's busiest first-season sire in Australia last year, covering 202 mares at Aquis Farm in Queensland. Unbeaten at two, Spill The Beans won the G3 Eskimo Prince S. over six furlongs at three before adding the seven-furlong G3 Hawkesbury Guineas and the 6 1/2-furlong G2 QTC Cup. He defeated Group 1 winners Pride Of Dubai (Aus) (Street Cry {Ire}), Stratum Star (Aus) (Stratum {Aus}) and Holler (Aus) (Commands {Aus}) during his career.

Arrowfield Bloodstock Manager Jon Freyer said, "Spill The Beans is a highly talented, good-looking son of Snitzel. He had dazzling early pace, a high cruising speed and great tenacity. Sound and genuine, he has all the attributes owners, trainers and breeders most admire."

National Stud Chairman Ben Sangster said, "This is a great opportunity for European breeders to have access to one of the most sought-after stud lines in the business, and we are delighted to be standing such a good-looking and talented young sire." A stud fee will be announced at a later date.

QUIET REFLECTION TO TATTERSALLS

Quiet Reflection | Racing Post

Cartier champion sprinter Quiet Reflection (GB) (Showcasing {GB}–My Delirium {GB}, by Haafhd {GB}) will be offered at Tattersalls December this year.

Trained by Karl Burke, Quiet Reflection was a Group 3 winner at two and opened her 3-year-old campaign last year with wins in the G3 Prix Sigy and G2 Sandy Lane S. before taking Royal Ascot’s G1 Commonwealth Cup. Third in the G1 Darley July Cup the following month, she added the G1 32red Sprint Cup last September. The dark bay returned to the winner’s enclosure in Sunday’s G3 Renaissance S. at Naas, and she is set to line up in the G1 Qipco British Champions Sprint S. prior to her trip through the ring, where she will be consigned by Jamie Railton.

“Quiet Reflection is very special,” said Burke. “She was my first Group 1 winner in Britain when she won the Commonwealth Cup at Royal Ascot and is without doubt the fastest filly I have trained. She has a very high cruising speed as well as an extraordinary turn of foot and we are looking forward to the Group 1 British Champions Sprint before heading to the Tattersalls December Sale.”
