JUSTIFY BREEZES TOWARDS BELMONT

Justify at Churchill Downs Monday | Coady Photography

GI Kentucky Derby and GI Preakness S. winner Justify (Scat Daddy) turned in a five-furlong work in 1:01.40 (video) ahead of his Triple Crown bid in Saturday's GI Belmont S. Martin Garcia was aboard for the work, which took place over a fast track and in front of a crowd of a few hundred fans.

"It was a really nice breeze and exactly what we were looking for," trainer Bob Baffert said. "He relaxed nicely and seemed very happy. Martin was very happy with him, as well, so I was happy, too. He was a little fresh earlier in the week, so it was good to see him relax nicely."

Justify broke away from the stable pony Sunny and assistant trainer Jimmy Barnes at the 4 1/2-furlong pole and began his breeze at the half-mile marker, working through splits of :12.80, :24.80, :37 and :48.80 before galloping out six furlongs in 1:13.60 and seven-eighths of a mile in 1:27.20.

Justify is scheduled to ship to New York Wednesday ahead of his attempt to become the 13th horse to sweep the Triple Crown in Saturday's 1 1/2-mile Belmont S.

"I think the Triple Crown brings a lot more people into the game," Baffert, who also trained 2015 Triple Crown winner American Pharoah (Pioneerof the Nile), said. "It also brings a lot of new owners. I saw a lot of new faces in the game after Pharoah won the Triple Crown."

BELMONT STAKES Q&A WITH MIKE REPOLE

by Steve Sherack

For native New Yorker Mike Repole, it doesn't get much bigger than the GI Belmont Stakes. Born and raised in the Middle Village neighborhood of Queens and a graduate of nearby St. John's University, Repole will be looking to play the role of spoiler with Vino Rosso (Curlin) and Noble Indy (Take Charge Indy) as the unbeaten 'TDN Rising Star' Justify (Scat Daddy) heads to Long Island with a Triple Crown bid on the line. Vino Rosso followed a win in the GII Wood Memorial S. with a ninth-place finish in the GI Kentucky Derby while the narrow GII Twinspires.com Louisiana Derby winner and 'TDN Rising Star' Noble Indy was 17th on the First Saturday in May. The co-founder of Glaceau (the company was sold to Coca-Cola for $4.1 billion in 2007) has campaigned standouts such as champion Uncle Mo, Overanalyze, Outwork, Stopchargingmaria, etc., and came within 3/4 of a length of upsetting the 2011 Belmont with MGISW Stay Thirsty. Cont. p3

"It's no walk in the park to win, but it's very important to our sport when we have a Triple Crown possibility on the line," Baffert concluded.

The Baffert-trained Restoring Hope (Giant's Causeway), third in the GII Wood Memorial S., also worked at Churchill Downs Monday in preparation for the Belmont. The Gary and Mary West homebred worked six furlongs in 1:13 under jockey Florent Geroux.

"Restoring Hope went really well," Baffert said. "He's always been a really good work horse. He's sort of a one-paced horse. He went a little faster than Justify, but I thought overall the work was very good."

The post position draw for the Belmont will be held prior to Tuesday's New York Mets baseball game. Baffert is scheduled to throw out the ceremonial first pitch before the game.

"I threw at Dodger Stadium [after American Pharoah's Triple Crown run]," Baffert recalled. "I could have hit a bird, I threw it pretty high. I asked [wife] Jill, 'How was that?' She goes, 'It was good, for a girl.' When you pass 60, you don't feel the pressure. When I was younger, I felt, 'Don't bounce it.' You don't want to bounce it, that's the worst you can do."

Q: You've always made it very well-known that the Belmont S. is at the top of your list of races that you really want to win. What would a victory in the third leg of the Triple Crown mean to you?

MR: Listen, I've never made it a secret how important the Belmont is to me. That's the one race, growing up, and especially once I became an owner, that I've always said that I wanted to win. When my team is out there looking at horses, whether it's a 2-year-old sale or at the yearling sales at Keeneland, I'm always asking the question, 'Can they get the mile and a half?'

It's definitely the first time any of these 3-year-olds will ever run that distance and most likely the last time, too. It's a very funny race. Just being a kid from Queens and going to Aqueduct and Belmont and never even being able to make it up to Saratoga because I don't think I had a car that could go that far growing up, it was the race.

Being in the Kentucky Derby now four times in the last eight years is special. Trust me, I wouldn't be disappointed if I won the Kentucky Derby. But if I could choose between the Kentucky Derby and the Belmont S., I've said numerous times, I would take the Belmont.

Q: Is playing the role of spoiler and potentially silencing the capacity crowd at Belmont with a Triple Crown on the line something you embrace?

MR: Just to be in the race is amazing and I'm going to have two shots. It's exciting. Usually the Derby is the biggest stage, but when you have a Triple Crown on the line, it becomes the Belmont.

I was rooting for Justify in the Preakness. I knew that if he won, the Belmont would be seen by probably 20-25 million people and we would have 90,000 people there with the attendance capped. If he lost the Preakness, they would probably get 40,000-45,000. So I was rooting for Justify, there was no doubt about it.

Q: What have you thought of Justify's unprecedented run this spring?

MR: He's amazing. He checks every single box out there and is undefeated. Probably one of the greatest 3-year-olds of all time, no doubt, win or lose this race. What he's done in the last 12 weeks has been amazing. He's the Golden State Warriors and Lebron [James] and someone else will be trying to take him down. He's had a lot of races in a short period and he's done everything right.

Q: Partnerships between high-profile owners continue to become increasingly popular. You own Vino Rosso with Vinnie Viola of St. Elias Stable and you also campaign Noble Indy with Kenny Troutt's WinStar Farm. Thoughts on this trend?

MR: At the beginning, I kind of fought against it, but with the right partner, I think it works out perfectly. I think there's a really cool aspect of it where some of the biggest owners with the biggest money in the sport are getting together and becoming partners.

2018 KEENELAND
SEPTEMBER
YEARLING SALE

Monday, September 10 – Saturday, September 22

KEENELAND

I'm very blessed where I get to choose partners like WinStar, where two of my stallions Outwork and Overanalyze stand, my foals are born, and have 60-65 horses on the farm.

I've known Vinnie for six or seven years now. My wife grew up in Brooklyn, Vinnie grew up in Brooklyn. His wife grew up in Queens, I grew up in Queens. I love his story, and he loves mine. We're all about family first and big, Italian families. Winning the Wood with Vinnie was probably one of the best wins I've ever had. It was so awesome having both of our families there. After the race, we went back to my house with about 60 other people and we drank a lot of Vino Rosso and had a good time.

Q: Vino Rosso is certainly bred for a race like this and has always been held in high regard by trainer Todd Pletcher. Between the wide trip and off going in the Derby, a case can be made for him as a potential upsetter in the Belmont. What's your confidence level like heading into the race?

MR: There's no doubt that he has the talent to win this race along with his incredible pedigree to get the distance. His dam Mythical Bride is a half to Commissioner, who barely lost the Belmont and his sire Curlin also lost a photo to Rags to Riches in the Belmont. He's bred to go two miles, never mind a mile and a half. He's a horse that's going to go at one pace and I think that last quarter of a mile, he might be going two seconds faster than everybody else and just grind it out.

Noble Indy is going to have Javier [Castellano] aboard and Vino Rosso will have Johnny [Velazquez]. To have two chances at the Belmont with two great partners and both trained by Todd Pletcher, I really like my chances.

Q: Even going back to your early days as a racing fan, any Belmont S. memories that stick out to you?

MR: When I was younger, I was awed by Easy Goer. That was really big. Bet Twice dethroning Alysheba--I was probably 17-18 years old when that happened. More recently and even going back 10 years, being there and watching Da' Tara upset Big Brown. There have been some great moments and just being a part of it--and probably not until the Big Brown one--I was lucky to just be in the grandstand or in the backyard with a bunch of friends.

When one of my horses has a race, I'm there as a fan, too. I'm always going to be Mike from Queens. You're not going to change me. Whether it's Aqueduct on a Wednesday or Belmont on a Saturday, you won't see me in the Trustee's Room with a jacket and tie. It's who am I and where I come from. To be able to be in a position to win a race like this, I've been so blessed.

Q: Stay Thirsty gave you a huge run finishing second at 16-1 in the Belmont seven years ago. Can you reflect on his performance and that experience?

MR: Coming in second with Stay Thirsty was probably one of my biggest racing accomplishments and also probably one of the worst losses of my life. My wife jokes that I didn't come out of my basement for two weeks. It was tough because you don't know how many chances you'll ever get to be in the race again. I don't come in here thinking that I'm definitely going to win. I'm coming in here wanting to win, but not everybody in life gets what they want.

Vino Rosso (outside) and Noble Indy work for the Belmont | Sarah Andrew

Q: Are your Belmont S. day plans set yet? How big of an entourage will you have with you at the races this year?

MR: I was smart enough to book for 75 people--friends and family--before the Triple Crown was on the line. If it wasn't a Triple Crown, it probably would've been 200. As much as NYRA loves me, and I love them--they treat me really well--75 was the max that they felt comfortable with.

Q: With your blue-and-orange stable colors a tribute to the New York Mets, how excited are you about the draw coming to Citi Field Tuesday? Bob Baffert is also expected to throw out the first pitch at that night's game.

MR: My silks are blue and orange after the Mets, so it's kind of ironic that the draw this year coincidentally happens to be at Citi Field and my silks will be represented in the Belmont S. I think it's a pretty cool experience. My 91-year-old grandmother and my 2-year-old daughter will be there. We're excited.

Q: Any restaurant recommendations for people coming into town for the Belmont? Do you have a favorite spot that you like to go to after a big day at the races?

MR: I'm gonna go three Italian, Queens restaurants--Barosa, Park Side and Piccola Venezia. And if you want some Long Island recommendations--Chris and Tony's, Rare 650 and Rothmann's Steakhouse. Three in Queens and three on Long Island. Nobody's going to be disappointed. If they are, tell them to bill me!

LARGE TURNOUT AT SERVICE FOR BILL GRAVES by Sue Finley

Hundreds of Thoroughbred industry participants from all over the country turned out for the celebration of the life of Bill Graves at the Fasig-Tipton pavilion Monday. Graves, a longtime Fasig-Tipton senior vice president, died May 30 at the age of 70. Attendees listened to more than a half-dozen eulogies, including many from Graves's Fasig-Tipton coworkers. Terence Collier served as the host for the event. He recounted how he met Graves when both were in their early 20s and how they came to work together when Graves joined the company in 1992 at the invitation of then-owner John Hettinger.

"In rode Bill," said Collier, "our shining knight in heavily starched jeans and expensive cowboy boots to reorganize our selected-sales yearling process. It was a new beginning."

Collier noted that at Graves's first Saratoga sale in 1992, there were 22 consignors and 165 yearlings.

"By 2017, Bill's imprint on Saratoga in August produced record sales of nearly $70 million," said Collier. "Not bad for a skinny kid from Lynchburg, Virginia."

Walt Robertson, one of Graves's closest friends for the past 25 years, was next to speak, and he said, "He will be sorely missed, by each and every person in this room, but how lucky are we all to have Bill Graves as a friend and a big part of our lives?"

Like Collier, he gave Graves credit for shaping Fasig-Tipton and turning it around, gaining the respect of the entire Thoroughbred community.

"As with many things that he has been involved with, Bill has left this company and the community far better than he found it," said an emotional Robertson.

Graves's son Brian said, "What a touching tribute to my father this gathering of people truly is. Since my father's passing, I have received countless messages from friends and family. Superlatives such as mentor, friend, gentleman, impeccable horseman, great man, class, and legend have been used. I knew at a very young age how special my father was. I have always wanted to be by his side. We didn't have much money growing up, but I felt like the richest kid in the world. My dad could just make you feel like that."

Fasig-Tipton President and CEO Boyd Browning delivered his eulogy in a series of letters to Graves, thanking him for teaching him about conformation, for always thinking of the safety of the horse, for his attention to detail, his loyalty and support. Most poignantly, Browning thanked him for being kind to Browning's own late father, a frequent visitor to Fasig-Tipton, who Browning said would often get so caught up chatting with Graves in his office that he would forget to visit his own son.

"Sorry, I didn't have time to see you today," the senior Browning would tell his son as he was on his way home. "I was busy hanging out with the boys."

Mike Levy recounted his long friendship with Graves, and told stories about their travels fishing, golfing and going to horse sales, and about Bill's delight in being mistaken for Richard Gere by a woman on a plane. He concluded with a story about how Graves had watched him give copious instructions to a jockey riding one of the horses they owned together.

Levy recalled his friend saying, "Michael. Let me explain something to you. That jockey doesn't speak a word of English, and he didn't understand what you said. And even if he did, he ain't going to listen to you." Levy answered, "Billy, what should I have said?" Graves answered, "Simple, son. Just tell him to hurry home."

"Hurry home, Billy," Levy concluded. "It was one hell of a ride."

All of the speakers told humorous tales about Graves, about practical jokes played by him and on him, about his storytelling and often-told jokes, about his smile and enthusiasm.

"I thought this was going to be one of the toughest days of my life," said Collier as the service wound down. "It has turned out to be one of the most uplifting days of my life."

The service is available on YouTube, at https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=T3g1EfoB5C8 and starts at the 1:06 mark of the video.

NORTHERN AFLEET EUTHANIZED AT 25

Taylor Made Stallions's Northern Afleet (Afleet--Nuryette, by Nureyev) was euthanized Friday at the age of 25, the farm reported Monday. According to Dr. Charles Scoggin, DVM, the stallion had experienced acute abdominal pain Friday evening and was transferred to Rood and Riddle Equine Hospital. After being evaluated by specialists, it was determined Northern Afleet had severe gastrointestinal disease and the stallion was subsequently euthanized.

Northern Afleet, who was actively breeding this year, was the sire of 14 Grade I winners, including 2017 champion turf horse World Approval. Among his most successful progeny was dual Classic winner Afleet Alex, champion 3-year-old colt of 2005 and winner of the GI Preakness S. and GI Belmont S. Cont. p8

Northern Afleet was also responsible for champion sprinter Amazombie and Canadian champion and Grade I winner Negligee, as well as 2015 Brazilian Horse of the Year Barolo.

"Northern Afleet was like part of the family at Taylor Made and he was truly a unique stallion within the industry," said Ben Taylor of Taylor Made. "Not too many stallions have sired a Classic winner and a Breeders' Cup winner, not to mention numerous Grade I winners over varying surfaces and distances of ground. Northern Afleet was the definition of versatility and was always considered one of the best value stallions around. He provided every breeder the opportunity to produce a top-class racehorse, regardless of the quality of their mare."

Additional Grade I winners sired by Northern Afleet include Denman's Call, Teaks North and Evening Jewel, while his GSW millionaire War Story remains a factor in the handicap division in 2018.

On the racetrack, Northern Afleet won the GII San Fernando Breeders' Cup S., GII San Carlos H. and GIII San Diego H. while under the care of trainer David Hofmans for owners Gregg Anderson and Ronald Waranch. He was bred in Kentucky by Hermitage Farm.

Northern Afleet entered stud in 1999 at Double Diamond Farm in Ocala and was relocated to Taylor Made after Afleet Alex captured the 2004 GI Hopeful S.

SENTIENT JET EXTENDS TENFOLD SPONSORSHIP

Sentient Jet will continue to raise awareness for Homes for Our Troops--a nonprofit organization that builds specially adapted custom homes for severely injured post-9/11 veterans--with the extension of its partnership with Winchell Thoroughbreds LLC and sponsorship of contender Tenfold (Curlin) in Saturday's GI Belmont S. The Directional Aviation company sponsored Winchell Thoroughbreds' Combatant (Scat Daddy) in the GI Kentucky Derby and added Tenfold for the GI Preakness S. After garnering attention in local and national media, the campaign has already generated $40,000 in direct donations.

"No matter how Tenfold finishes June 9, he will be winning for veterans everywhere through the awareness and funds he is raising for this noble cause," said Andrew Collins, president and CEO of Sentient Jet. "We are proud to do our part to honor the achievements of both the organization at large and the heroic men and women that it serves."

As part of the partnership, Sentient Jet will once again host U.S. veterans for a day at the races, offering them a personal introduction to the Belmont field and seating in the luxurious G.H. Mumm Champagne Room. Among the list attending will be Veteran Marine Staff Sergeant Charlie Linville. An inspiring and avid mountain climber, Staff Sergeant Linville is the first amputee veteran to reach the top of Mount Everest.

"We are thrilled to have the continued support of Sentient Jet and Winchell Thoroughbreds LLC at the 2018 Belmont S.," said Tom Landwermeyer, President and CEO of Homes For Our Troops. "Beyond the important awareness we are raising for the work that we do, we are also offering a deserving group of veterans a very special day of once-in-a-lifetime fun at the races. We are looking forward to another spectacular day at the races."

HAYES SELECTED ONTARIO RACING CHAIRMAN

John Hayes was unanimously elected the Independent Chairman of the Board of Ontario Racing, a non-profit horse racing industry association recognized by the provincial government as the authority for horseracing in Ontario. Hayes has over 25 years of experience as a Standardbred race horse owner. He previously served as Gaming Director with Ontario Lottery and Gaming, with operational responsibilities at Georgian Downs, Ajax Downs, Grand River Raceway, Woodbine and other racetracks across the province. He most recently served as an At-Large Director of Ontario Racing.

"I am honored to be appointed to the Independent Chair of Ontario Racing," said Hayes. "I have a passion for horse racing and am confident in the direction and approach of Ontario Racing. I look forward to working with the industry's diverse group of stakeholders to create a sustainable future for the sport in Ontario."

In addition to Hayes, there are 10 seats, five from industry associations and five from racetracks, on Ontario Racing's Board of Directors.

Bill O'Donnell (President, COSA, on behalf of Standardbred Horsepeople), Sue Leslie (President, HBPA, on behalf of Thoroughbred Horsepeople), Bob Broadstock (President, Quarter Horse Racing Owners of Ontario, on behalf of Quarter Horse Horsepeople), Walter Parkinson (President, SBOA, on behalf of Standardbred Breeders) and Bernard McCormack (President, Cara Bloodstock, on behalf of Thoroughbred Breeders) will represent the Associations on the board.

Jim Lawson (CEO, Woodbine Entertainment, on behalf, of Premier Thoroughbred Racetracks), Jim Thibert (CEO, Fort Erie Live Racing Consortium, on behalf of Signature Thoroughbred Racetracks), Jessica Buckley (President, Woodbine Mohawk Park, on behalf of Premier Standardbred Racetracks), Hugh Mitchell (President, Western Fair District, on behalf of Signature Standardbred Racetracks) and Ian Fleming (General Manager, Clinton Raceway, on behalf of Grassroots Standardbred Racetracks) will represent the racetracks.

Three years after Triple Crown win, American Pharoah didn't turn around racing's fortunes

Three years later, every human being there and perhaps millions who weren't remember the roar. It started to build from a nervous silence about 40 seconds before the finish of the Belmont Stakes, the turquoise and yellow silks of American Pharoah pulling clear from a pack of horses that were about to chase history for the final quarter-mile.

Dan Wolken, USA Today

Remembering Chic Anderson's Legendary Call of Secretariat's Record Run at 1973 Belmont Stakes At a few minutes past 5:30 on the afternoon of June 9, 1973, Charles (Chic) Anderson raised binoculars to his eyes and prepared to call the 105th running of the Belmont Stakes. He was 41 years old, married with five children, living an itinerant life that took him away from the family home in Evansville, Ind., for weeks at a time, but one which he clearly loved. He had been calling races since the late 1950s; in 1961 he became the regular caller at Churchill Downs and eight years later was hired by CBS to call the Triple Crown races on its telecasts. He was at the pinnacle of his career. Yet he couldn't have known in that instant—because who does?—that words he spoke in the ensuing two-and-a-half minutes would outlive him by decades and help frame one of the seminal moments in sports history. Tim Ladyen, *Sports Illustrated

TDN NORTH AMERICA REGIONAL REPORT

NORTH AMERICAN MAIDENS

IN ORDER OF PURSE:

4th-Delaware, $34,635, Msw, 6-4, 3yo/up, 5 1/2f, 1:04.02, ft. SPEIGHTSFORD (c, 4, Speightstown--Baghdaria {MGSW, $725,433}, by Royal Academy) was fourth at odds-on debuting at Laurel in December of 2016 and dropped a spot next out at Parx before being shelved for over a year. Returning in the meet opener May 5 at Monmouth, the $100,000 Fasig-Tipton October graduate fought tenaciously on the front end before just getting nipped by a nose on the wire. Hammered down to 2-5 to break through in this spot, the chestnut dueled three-wide through a sharp :21.63 quarter, started to edge away outside the eighth pole and pulled clear from there to score by 5 1/2 lengths. Longshot firster Odds On (Despite the Odds) did well to hold second after being badgered on the lead. The winner's dam, who captured a trio of Grade III events as a sophomore in 2006, is a half-sister to MGISW and sire Shackleford (Forestry) and GISW Lady Joanne (Orientate). She is responsible for a yearling colt by Lemon Drop Kid and produced an American Pharoah filly Mar. 21. Lifetime Record: 4-1-1-0, $31,500. Click for the Equibase.com chart or VIDEO, sponsored by Fasig-Tipton.

O-Jeremiah Kane; B-CASA Farms I, LLC (KY); T-Benjamin W. Perkins, Jr.

7th-Belterra, $22,500, (S), Msw, 6-3, 2yo, 4 1/2f, :54.36, ft. DIAMOND DUST (g, 2, Paynter--Radiant Sky, by Leroidesanimaux {Brz}), made the narrow 2-1 second choice as part of an entry in this debut, came away in midpack and traveled fourth behind a contested :23.23 quarter. Saving ground on the turn, the homebred swung four deep at the head of the lane and wore down stablemate Galactic (Gemologist) in the final furlong to score by three-quarters of a length. The winner's second dam is a half to champion Arazi (Blushing Groom {Fr}) and G1SW Noverre (Rahy). Radiant Sky produced a colt by Fed Biz last spring before being paired with Tourist. Lifetime Record: 1-1-0-0, $13,500. Click for the Equibase.com chart.

PEDIGREE INSIGHTS: STUDY OF MAN & WEEKEND CLASSICS

Study Of Man en route to the post of the Prix du Jockey Club | Scoop Dyga

by Andrew Caulfield

In the build-up to an exciting three days of middle-distance Classics in Europe, it looked a pretty safe bet that I would end up writing about Deep Impact or Galileo or a combination of the two (as represented by Saxon Warrior). After all, there were four daughters of Galileo in the G1 Oaks field and Deep Impact appeared to poised for a major breakthrough, with Saxon Warrior and Study of Man respectively being among the leading contenders for the G1 Derby and the G1 Prix du Jockey-Club.

Although it was highly disappointing to see Saxon Warrior's Triple Crown hopes fizzle out with his lacklustre fourth behind the bold Masar, Galileo duly claimed his third Oaks victory, thanks to Forever Together. Galileo also emulated another of the all-time greats, Mill Reef, when Masar followed in the footsteps of grandsire Galileo and sire New Approach in becoming the third generation of his male line to triumph in the Derby.

Deep Impact also confirmed his status as one of the world's truly elite stallions, with Study of Man becoming his second European Classic winner of 2018, and third Classic winner of the year, the other being the recent G1 Tokyo Yushun winner Wagnerian.

Yet it wasn't all about Galileo and Deep Impact. They had to share the limelight with a few other deserving participants, both equine and human.

For example, as I wrote in my Sept. 5th column last year following Masar's impressive victory in the G3 Solario S., the colt was the first group winner inbred to that astonishing mare Urban Sea. Bearing in mind the huge influence that Urban Sea's descendants have exerted on Europe's mile-and-a-half Classics, I wasn't too surprised when Masar followed up his impressive G3 Craven S. win and his perfectly respectable third behind Saxon Warrior in the G1 2000 Guineas with a victory in the half-mile-longer Derby. He is inbred 3 x 4 to Urban Sea (and also to Ahonoora), and we can surely expect to see inbreeding to Urban Sea becoming very fashionable.

Urban Sea wasn't the only exceptional racemare and broodmare to make her presence felt over the Classic weekend. Only a week after the Niarchos Family had won the G1 Irish 1000 Guineas with Alpha Centauri, a great-granddaughter of the wonderful Miesque, they pulled off a second Classic victory with Miesque's grandson Study of Man in the Jockey-Club. Cont. p2

PEDIGREE INSIGHTS

Of course Classic success is nothing new for the Miesque family. Bred by Stavros Niarchos's Flaxman Holdings in 1984, the brilliant daughter of Nureyev won the 1000 Guineas and the G1 Poule d'Essai des Pouliches before lack of stamina contributed to her defeat by Indian Skimmer in the G1 Prix de Diane.

A demanding 16-start career, which also featured a brace of victories in both the G1 Prix Jacques le Marois and the GI Breeders' Cup Mile, certainly didn't have any adverse effects on Miesque's broodmare career, as she was to produce 14 foals in the space of 16 years. Her first foal was the G1 Poule d'Essai des Poulains winner Kingmambo, who was to become a prolific sire of European Classic winners, and her second was East of the Moon, the Poule d'Essai des Pouliches and Prix de Diane winner who ranks as Alpha Centauri's second dam.

Alpha Centauri | Racing Post

Instead of writing about Deep Impact's burgeoning partnership with Galileo's broodmare daughters, which currently boasts three group/graded winners from 13 foals of racing age, Study of Man's win turns the spotlight onto Deep Impact's impressive results with daughters of Storm Cat.

The Prix du Jockey-Club winner is no less than the ninth black-type winner to emerge from Deep Impact's 60 foals of racing age out of daughters of the two-time champion American stallion. Indeed he is the seventh Group 1 winner to represent the Deep Impact--Storm Cat alliance, which equates to nearly 12%--a terrific achievement.

Kizuna | Scoop Dyga

The enormity of this achievement only becomes fully apparent when you read through a list of Study of Man's predecessors. Top of the pile is Kizuna, the 2013 Tokyo Yushun (Japanese Derby) winner who travelled to Europe to defeat the Derby winner Ruler of the World in the G2 Prix Niel. Kizuna also finished a creditable fourth behind Treve, Orfevre and Intello in the Arc.

Europe also got to see another impressive representative of the cross when A Shin Hikari trounced the opposition in the 2016 G1 Prix d'Ispahan, five months after he had taken the G1 Hong Kong Cup over a mile and a quarter. The other Group 1 scorers were Ayusan, winner of the 2013 G1 Oka Sho (Japanese 1000 Guineas); Satono Aladdin, conqueror of the Classic-winning Logotype in the 2017 Yasuda Kinen over a mile; and Lachesis, who took the 2014 G1 Queen Elizabeth II Cup over 11 furlongs.

However, the one with the most relevance to Study of Man is Real Steel, as his dam Loves Only Me is out of Miesque's daughter Monevassia, a sister to Kingmambo and to the Group 1 sire Miesque's Son. Real Steel became a Group 1 winner when he travelled to Meydan in 2016 for the Dubai Turf over nine furlongs and he finished a respectable third to Benbatl in the same race two years later. Although Real Steel has gained all three of his group victories over nine furlongs, he is much more versatile than that suggests. He also finished second in the G1 Japanese 2000 Guineas and the G1 Japanese St Leger, in the latter being beaten only a neck by Kitasan Black, a two-time Japanese Horse of the Year sired by Deep Impact's brother Black Tide. Study of Man should therefore stay a mile and a half.

It is interesting to speculate about the reasons why Deep Impact is so effective with Storm Cat mares. I think the explanation is similar to that for Galileo's success with mares by the likes of Danehill and Storm Cat. Like Galileo, Deep Impact possessed plenty of stamina. He never tackled a distance shorter than a mile and a quarter and his victories included the Japanese St Leger over 15 furlongs and the Tenno Sho over two miles. Like many a stayer, Deep Impact is a quality individual, comparatively refined with rather light bone. He therefore benefits from a muscular, strongly-made mare with speed in her background. Cont. p3

Not that Study of Man's dam Second Happiness showed the ability expected of one of her immaculate bloodlines. Two of her three appearances as a 3-year-old came at Compiegne, her best effort being a 3 1/2-length third in a seven-furlong newcomers' event. Second Happiness also put in an appearance later in the year at Keeneland's November Sale, but she was unsold at $1.2 million. Her next destination was Japan, where she was sent originally to support the Niarchos family's Arc winner Bago. Second Happiness was returned to Europe while carrying Study of Man and has since produced a 2016 colt and a 2018 filly to Galileo.

Second Happiness is the second of Miesque's three daughters by Storm Cat. The first, Angel's Nest, never raced and produced just one winner, while the third, the twice-raced Ama, was sold to Darley for 1.8 million gns as a 3-year-old. Ama has yet to justify her price but has young daughters by New Approach and Dubawi, so may yet come good--Study of Man is comfortably the best winner out of Second Happiness and he was foaled when his dam was 13.

Karakontie | Horsephotos

Alpha Centauri and Study of Man are the fourth and fifth Group 1 Classic winners descending from Miesque, following Kingmambo, East of the Moon and Karakontie. The last-named won the 2014 Poule d'Essai des Poulains, in addition to the Prix Jean-Luc Lagardere and the Breeders' Cup Mile.

Interestingly, Karakontie's pedigree features some of the same elements as Study of Man's. His grandsires are Storm Cat and Sunday Silence, whereas Study of Man's are Sunday Silence and Storm Cat, and his third dam is Miesque, the second dam of Study of Man. Karakontie is available for only $10,000 at Gainesway this year, even though his first-crop weanlings sold for $250,000 (to Flaxman Holdings), $130,000 and $110,000. The 250,000-dollar youngster is inbred 4 x 3 to none other than Miesque, so it will be interesting to follow his progress.

LET'S HEAR IT FOR THE MARES

Two superpowers of the east and west traded blows on Sunday. No sooner had Frankel (GB) notched a second Group 1 winner in Japan with victory in the G1 Yasuda Kinen of Mozu Ascot, than Japanese supersire Deep Impact (Jpn) fired back a riposte with a second Classic winner in Europe courtesy of Study Of Man (Ire) in the G1 QIPCO Prix du Jockey Club. The racing world has never felt smaller: an American-born son of a British superstar winning in Tokyo while a Japanese-conceived, Irish-born colt triumphs in Chantilly.

So much focus is centred on stallions' offspring but there were some mighty mares in play over the weekend, particularly perhaps the mightiest pair seen in Europe and America for many a generation. Urban Sea (Miswaki) has already achieved the rare feat of producing two Derby winners, both of whom have appeared as sires of Derby and Oaks winners. In the case of Galileo (Ire), he now appears as grandsire of Masar (Ire) (New Approach {Ire}), while his half-sister Melikah (Ire), by another Derby winner in Lammtarra, is his great grandam. Thus we find Urban Sea's name twice in the pedigree of the 2018 G1 Investec Derby winner and this is unlikely to be an unusual occurrence in major race winners of the future.

However much Urban Sea is feted, her great rival as both top-class racemare and broodmare, Miesque (Nureyev), has also loomed large in the Classic picture this season, with her great granddaughter Alpha Centauri (Ire) (Mastercraftsman {Ire}) having won the G1 Tattersalls Irish 1000 Guineas, followed a week later by the success of her grandson Study Of Man.

Mozu Ascot | Yuki Shimono

Green Is The Colour...

Forever Together | Racing Post

Vimal and Gillian Khosla's star broodmare Green Room (Theatrical {Ire}) is another to have taken a major step up the ladder within blue hen territory when represented by her third Group 1 winner, the Investec Oaks winner Forever Together (Ire) (Galileo [Ire}). She and her full-sister Together Forever (Ire) are destined to be forever confused with one another, but in one sense it matters not, as they are both winners at the highest level and both were darlings of the sales ring even before their racing days.

Born three years ahead of her Classic-winning sibling, the G1 Dubai Fillies' Mile winner Together Forever sold for €680,000 to the Coolmore team, and she was followed a year later by Signe (Ire) (Sea The Stars {Ire}), the sole yearling of Green Room to bring seven figures at €1.1 million, though the subsequent Oaks heroine wasn't far off in 2016 when selling for €900,000. All three were offered at the Goffs Orby Sale by Ballylinch Stud, where Green Room is a permanent boarder.

Ballylinch manager John O'Connor reports the 16-year-old to be in good form, having foaled her latest daughter of Galileo on Apr. 25 and recently been covered by Sea The Stars. For the preceding four years she has only visited Galileo and was barren the season after she produced Forever Together, but she also has a yearling filly by the champion sire on the ground.

"Vimal and Gillian Khosla are delightful clients and this is another wonderful result for them as breeders," O'Connor said. "They will be visiting the farm in the coming weeks and will make a decision on whether or not to sell the yearling then."

Green Room already has a son at stud, the G1 Prix Jean Prat winner Lord Shanakill (Speightstown), who is now at Pennsylvania's Pin Oak Lane Farm and is the sire of G1 Prince Of Wales's S. winner My Dream Boat (Ire).

The chances of her establishing a dynasty in her own right are enhanced by the fact that she also has two of her daughters at Ballylinch Stud for company. Cont. p5

The Khoslas, who are based in Scotland and currently have six mares, retained maiden winner Black Ruby (Ire) (Dansili {GB}), who is now in foal to Lope De Vega (Ire). Meanwhile Signe, who is in foal to Siyouni (Fr), is boarded at the farm by her owner Fiona Carmichael.

"The mare has been incredibly versatile in that her Group 1 winners have won at a mile and a mile and a half, and she produces lovely stock," O'Connor added.

Masar Meets The Press...

The gates of Moulton Paddocks were swung open for members of the Fourth Estate on Monday morning as Masar, the first horse to win the Derby in Godolphin's royal blue silks, was paraded around the yard.

"I'm still not through half the messages yet to be able to reply to all the wellwishers," admitted Charlie Appleby as he showed off his star colt with some of his 160 staff members on hand for a group photo.

"We hit the ground running in the spring—even through the really bad weather we didn't miss a day and we're very lucky to have the staff and the facilities to be able to do it," he said.

Masar is of course not just the first Derby winner for home stallion New Approach, who won the blue riband back in 2008, but he is a third generation homebred following the purchase of Melikah as a yearling 20 years ago. His dam Khawlah (Ire) is by the late Darley sure Cape Cross (Ire) and won the G2 UAE Derby and G3 UAE Oaks for Godolphin at Sheikh Mohammed's home track.

"I'm the lucky one who is given these horses to train but it's really heartfelt back at the stud for Liam [O'Rourke] and Sam [Bullard]. It's great for the stallions and the mares," Appleby added.

"We're in a little bit of a bubble up here but I try not to get too sucked into it and I like to know what's going on outside it. Twenty years I've been here and it's home for me. Half my life has been dedicated to Godolphin. The support I receive from His Highness is phenomenal. We talk twice a week when we're working horses and from January onwards we're always talking about hopefuls for the Classics. It's a huge operation and I have a wealth of experience I have around me—I'm not doing this single-handed."

He continued, "One hopes it's a new chapter for Godolphin. It's taken us five years to get that Classic winner, but we were very lucky in the first season with Outstrip (GB) winning at Santa Anita [at the Breeders' Cup]." Cont. p6

All smiles. Team Godolphin celebrate Masar's Group 1 Investec Derby triumph. | Godolphin

"I felt like last year we took another step up and we had the strongest team of 2-year-olds to go into the winter with," he said. "Saturday has put us where we wanted to be. Sport is all about confidence and it's given us that. We have the right players now to be competitive. We're a global team and it's been amazing. People want to see competition and Coolmore have been our competitors for many years, but honestly we haven't been competitive enough and we know that. I know what people are saying outside these gates but that just gives us more determination. After His Highness, Coolmore were the next people on to congratulate us. They want the competition too."

Lindop Signing Off In Style...

An agreeable feature of modern-day racing is the rise of the number of women in the weighing-room and this is particularly so in Australia. The country is about to lose one of its leading lights, however, with the impending retirement of Clare Lindop, who in 2003 became the first female to ride in the G1 Melbourne Cup.

Five years later, she recorded another 'first' when winning the G1 VRC Derby aboard Rebel Raider (Aus) (Reset {Aus}) for the man whom she credits as giving her the most support throughout her career, trainer Leon Macdonald.

Lindop, a native of Warrnambool, Victoria, has spent much of her career riding in South Australia, where she has won the jockeys' championship three times, most recently in 2015 after returning from serious injuries sustained in a fall on Adelaide Cup day.

Jockeys Clare Lindop & Michelle Payne | Emma Berry

As well as being a first-rate jockey, Lindop is also a first-rate individual whose easy charm and committed work ethic has seen her blaze a significant trail for those who follow in her wake.

As she prepares to step down at the end of the current SA Racing Festival, Lindop has written an open letter to her fans, published last week on her website. It's well worth reading in its entirety as its fulsomeness in praising others also speaks volumes for Lindop herself.

She credits her first Melbourne Cup ride on Debben (Aus) as career-changing: "The media exposure that becoming the first Australian female to ride in our greatest race brought me set me onto a path full of opportunities which I may never have otherwise gained. That season, after riding in the Cup, I had my biggest year in the saddle, riding 111 winners for the season, a new record for a female jockeys and one which was only just broken by Jamie Kah last year, and looks to be smashed again and set even higher this year by a flying Linda Meech. The fact that both of these jockeys don't really want this to be a 'female record' and are looking to break the record full stop also makes me proud of the long way that female jockeys have come."

Lindop won't be drawn on the exact date of her final departure from the weighing-room but ends her letter by saying, "I'll be out on the track racing amongst the pack, doing my utmost to keep up somewhere in contention, copping a face full of mud and stones to boot, and then saying, 'Well lads, I'm out. Good luck to you all!'"

Good luck to you too, Clare.

STRONG FINANCIAL YEAR AT ASCOT

Ahead of the 2018 Royal Meeting Ascot Racecourse has released an impressive set of financial figures for the year that ended in December 2017. A 6.7% increase in turnover yielded a pretax profit of £6.2 million, up over £1.1 million on the previous year, while the successful trading year also lead to debt being reduced by almost £11 million to just under £60 million, with the track on target to be debt free by 2023. Around 300,000 racegoers attend Royal Ascot every year, about half of the total annual attendance of the track and by the end of this year at Ascot, horses will have competed for a total prize-money pool of £13.45 million, up 10% on last year. Cont. p7

Guy Henderson | Racing Post

Commenting on the business performance and on future plans, Ascot chief executive Guy Henderson said, "2017 was another year of progress in our financial performance, with Royal Ascot performing particularly well. The opening of the new Village Enclosure on the inside of the track, in which we have further invested, was positively received and has generated strong sales for 2018."

He continued, "Operational improvement and site maintenance remained a key focus for us last year and that continues to be the case. We have just embarked on an extensive 10-year Planned Preventative Maintenance project, it now being 12 years since our £220 million redevelopment, under which mainly through our P&L we will be investing around an additional £2 million per annum into maintaining our core racecourse facilities. We are delighted that the Hong Kong Jockey Club will be simulcasting a fourth day of Royal Ascot this year and look forward to the launch of Bet With Ascot, our pool betting operation, in partnership with Totepool, in July. We thank all our partners, sponsors, customers and staff for their continued support in delivering another year of improvement all round."

CUP TOUR KICKS OFF IN EUROPE

For a 12-day period beginning July 10, the 2018 Lexus Melbourne Cup trophy will be touring Britain and Ireland with promoters no doubt hoping to lure even more foreign participation for this year's race which will be worth a record A$7.3 million. The almost four-month long tour will take in 37 destinations, mostly in Australia, but will be kick started in London, July 10.

From there, the Cup will be brought to Newmarket, Somerset and Newbury over the following week before hopping across to The Curragh on July 18 to begin a five-day tour of Ireland which culminates back at The Curragh for G1 Darley Irish Oaks weekend. In between, it will stop off at the yards of Joseph O'Brien and Willie Mullins who provided the first and third home in last year's Cup with Rekindling (GB) (High Chaparral {Ire}) and Max Dynamite (Fr) (Great Journey {Jpn}). A new feature of this year's tour will be a stop off in Korea to celebrate the running of the Korean Cup in Seoul in September.

Commenting on the dual hemisphere tour Victoria Racing Club chairman Amanda Elliott said, "The appeal of our illustrious race stretches far beyond Flemington. The Lexus Melbourne Cup Tour gives us an important opportunity to share the magic of the Cup with people everywhere. It has become one of the most important things we do at the VRC. We are custodians of something that means so much to so many--a day of national unity symbolised by the iconic three-handled Cup."

CORONATION AIM FOR WIND CHIMES

The G1 Coronation S. at Royal Ascot on June 22 could bring together the winner of each of the three main European 1000 Guineas. In addition to this fascinating prospect, a number of fillies that were narrowly beaten in those events will also be targeting the race and among these is the Andre Fabre trained Wind Chimes (GB) (Mastercraftsman {Ire}) who was beaten just a neck when third to Teppal (Fr) (Camacho {GB}) in the G1 The Emirates Poule d'Essai des Pouliches at ParisLongchamp.

"She will go for the Coronation S.," her trainer said on Monday. "She's training well and I'm very happy with her. I thought she ran a good race in the Pouliches and she took a big step forward from her trial, like I thought she would do." Cont. p8

Wind Chimes, owned by the Coolmore partners, was unbeaten in two starts as a juvenile including in the Listed Prix Herod at Chantilly in November and she bounced back from an underwhelming seasonal debut in the G3 Prix la Grotte at ParisLongchamp to establish herself as one of the better 3-year-old fillies over a mile in Europe.

Meanwhile Andre Fabre is struggling to get last year's G1 Qatar Prix de l'Arc de Triomphe runner-up Cloth Of Stars (Ire) (Sea The Stars {Ire}) back firing on all cylinders after the 5-year-old entire's tame effort in sixth behind stablemate Waldgeist (GB) (Galileo {Ire}) in the G2 Grand Prix de Chantilly on Sunday.

"Nothing has really shown up," said Fabre. "I put the hood on him but unfortunately it worked too well and he was asleep. Perhaps he's a bit jaded, I don't know. I'll discuss plans with his owner [Godolphin], he might have a break or even be retired, we'll see."

NEW SALE FOR GOFFS UK

Goffs UK will hold a new, single session mixed sale this year in December. The sale, scheduled for Dec. 7, will cater for both disciplines with National Hunt horses-in-training to be offered alongside flat bred breeding stock and foals. Goffs UK Managing Director Tony Williams commented, "We place great importance on our Horses-in-Training and Point-to-Point Sales, and the December Sale will provide another viable outlet for trainers following the early season headline NH meetings, such as the Ladbrokes Winter Carnival at Newbury. The sale also reacts to feedback from a number of breeders last year requesting that we offer a flat foal session given the increasing size of the foal crop and the pressure for places at the traditional outlets for the category. The date will allow breeders to prep foals for this sale alongside drafts for the major foal sales and offer their horses before Christmas."

HOLIDAY TIME FOR BOWMAN

Hugh Bowman aboard Winx | Bronwen Healy

Between a riding suspension and a desire for some down time, jockey Hugh Bowman will sit out the majority of the month of June and will focus on a return to Australian competitive action in July. "My plan will be to start riding in Sydney from very early July and I'm actually really looking forward to it," Bowman told Racing And Sports on Monday. "I'm suspended at the moment so unfortunately I'm missing the signature weekend of the Queensland racing carnival this Saturday. So I've got a little bit of time off now and I will freshen up for a return in the saddle in early July."

Bowman fell foul of the Japanese stewards for careless riding during a recent stint riding in Japan but he may be returning to that country later this month to take the ride on the John Moore-trained Werther (NZ) (Tavistock {NZ}) in the G1 Takarazuka Kinen at Hanshin June 24, should the horse take up that option. Cont. p11

Any mention of Bowman must also include an obligatory inquiry about his high profile partner Winx (Aus) (Street Cry {Ire}) and by all accounts the Queen of Australian racing is in fine shape as thoughts begin to turn towards her next phase of training in preparation for a return to the track in August.

"From all reports she spelled very well and I guess once she gets back into her program at the Chris Waller stables at Rosehill he'll start to assess where she's at mentally and physically," Bowman said.

He continued, "Physically she's fine but I guess mentally we're not going to know until we start putting the pressure on her again. She's such a fine athlete and we're expecting her to come back just as well as she went out. She went out on the top of her game after winning the Queen Elizabeth S. and we're expecting her to come back in the same form, and we're looking forward to it."
