

MUCHO MACHO MAN RETIRED TO ADENA

Last term's GI Breeders' Cup Classic hero Mucho Macho Man (Macho Uno--Ponche de Leona, by Ponche) has been retired from racing and will stand the 2015 breeding season at Adena Springs Farm in Paris, KY. His stud fee will be announced at a later date.

Bred in Florida by John and Carole Rio, Mucho Macho Man was campaigned for the majority of his career by Dean and Patti Reeves and trained by Kathy Ritvo. The 6-year-old retired with a record of 25-9-5-6 and earnings of $5,625,410. Winner of the 2011 GII Risen Star S., the Kathy Ritvo pupil was third in that year's GI Kentucky Derby. In 2012, the strapping bay captured the Florida Sunshine Millions Classic, the GII Gulfstream Park H. and Belmont's GII Suburban H. before finishing a valiant second to Fort Larned (E Dubai) in the Breeders' Cup Classic at Santa Anita. Mucho Macho Man captured the GI Awesome Again S. in Arcadia last September before scoring a thrilling nose victory over eventual 3-year-old champion Will Take Charge (Unbridled's Song) in the Breeders' Cup Classic. He kicked off this term with a 14-length score in the Sunshine Millions Classic Jan. 18, and had last been seen finishing fourth in a strong renewal of the GI Santa Anita H. Mar. 8.

"Mucho Macho Man was so tough and genuine," said Ritvo, who became the first female trainer to win the Breeders' Cup Classic last year. "He gave his all every time. After five seasons of training and racing, he shows signs of some minor wear and tear. He is still sound and happy, but we have decided that it is in his best interests to retire him. He has nothing more to prove to any of us."

Dean Reeves added, "Mucho Macho Man gave Patti and our team enormous pleasure. He has generated so many fans, both in the state of Georgia and nationwide. We are extremely excited about him joining the star-studded roster at Adena Springs, and look forward to supporting him as a stallion and racing his progeny." Cont. p3

AZERI REIGNS AGAIN IN JAPAN

Story and photos by Michele MacDonald

With the sizzle in the ring matching the torrid sun outside, the Japan Racing Horse Association Select Sale of yearlings and foals blazed to record levels in gross, number of horses sold and clearance rate after the final hammer fell on yesterday's foal session.

For the second consecutive year, a colt foal by Japan's leading sire Deep Impact (Jpn) out of 2002 American Horse of the Year Azeri (Jade Hunter) (hip 403) ruled the foal session, eliciting a bid of ¥250 million ($2,450,981) from Riichi Kondo.

"I understand the American people are missing Azeri," Kondo said. "But I want to tell the Americans that Azeri is doing very well, and this son of hers is so valuable. Now I would like to prepare him in the very best way [for a racing career] and give him the best trainer."

Hip 403: Deep Impact--Azeri colt

Azeri was purchased by Katsumi Yoshida of Northern Farm for $2,250,000 at Keeneland November in 2009 in foal to Distorted Humor. That resulting foal, a filly name Amelie (Jpn), has won three times and is the chestnut mare's only starter in Japan to date. Last year's Deep Impact--Azeri colt made ¥240,000,000 ($2,359,709). Cont. p3

Frank Stronach's Adena Springs--which also stands Stronach homebred and champion juvenile Macho Uno--purchased an interest in Mucho Macho Man in February of this year for both racing breeding. The operation already stands four other Breeders' Cup Classic winners: Alphabet Soup, Awesome Again, Fort Larned and Ghostzapper. Adena Springs was responsible for the breeding of Mucho Macho Man's dam Ponche de Leona and sold her with Mucho Macho Man in utero in 2007. Ponche de Leona most recently sold to Brushwood Stable for $775,000 in foal to Distorted Humor at this year's Keeneland January sale.

"The Breeders' Cup Classic is a true Championship race, and a forecaster of the industry's future top sires," Stronach commented. "Mucho Macho Man campaigned against the best every year ages two through six, and consistently excelled around two turns on the dirt. He will be an important addition to our roster." JRHA SELECT SALE
July 14 and 15

Three other sons of Deep Impact sparked bidding that reached over ¥100 million during the foal session, joining five from the yearling session and fueling the market.

Overall, a record 404 horses were sold over both JRHA sale days, generating a record total in sales of ¥12,575,050,000 ($123,284,803), up a remarkable 6.9% from last year's turnover, which also was a landmark. Deep Impact's offspring contributed ¥3,017,500,000 to the gross, or 24% of the overall sales, while the number of his offspring sold equaled only 7.9% of those offered.

The foal session was, as predicted, extremely strong, with 189 sold from 220 offered for a gross of ¥6,547,050,000 ($64,186,764), up a massive 16.8% from the 2013 total. The average price climbed 3% to ¥34.64 million ($339,607), the median was up 4% to ¥24,000,000 ($235,971) and the clearance rate was a stout 85.9%.

After reviewing the results, including the numbers showing Qatari Sheikh Fahad Al Thani ranked as the top buyer after spending ¥870 million ($8,529,411), JRHA Vice Chairman Teruya Yoshida declared that a new era has begun in Japan. Cont. p4

"We feel that this is the beginning of a trend in which Japanese horses will be more popular around the world. This sale is very much established now," said Yoshida, whose Shadai Farm sold ¥3.09 billion (about $29.5 million) worth of yearlings and foals at the sale, ranking second only to the perennial leader, Katsumi Yoshida's Northern Farm, whose sales totaled ¥3,045,500,000 ($29,857,843), and whose affiliated entities added even more yen to that number.

"We are very happy with the results--we couldn't have expected such big figures," Yoshida added.

More foreign-based buyers will follow Sheikh Fahad to Japan to buy horses at next year's sale, and Japan's Sunday Silence-based bloodlines will spread across the globe, he predicted. Meanwhile, the Yoshidas will continue to buy top-class mares from around the world to breed to their stallions, generating more big sales and more big runners, Yoshida added.

Building an Empire...

Sheikh Fahad indicated he has been not only following the development of Japanese breeding, but has been most impressed by the quality of Japanese international runners in the past several years.

Sheikh Fahad

Arriving at the Northern Horse Park sale grounds early to inspect foals, Sheikh Fahad stayed for nearly the entire session, sometimes bidding himself or chatting with Japanese breeders and sale-goers. He clearly is a believer in Deep Impact, buying the sale-topping yearling colt Monday for ¥260 million ($2,549,020) and following up with six foals by the sire yesterday--four colts and two fillies.

"Deep Impact is a great sire--He is as good as any of the sires around the world," Sheikh Fahad said of his interest in obtaining more horses by the sire and eventually developing a son good enough to warrant standing at stud in Europe.

Sheikh Fahad's foal purchases were topped by hip 326, a bay colt by Deep Impact sold early in the day from the Northern Farm consignment and out of French Group 2 winner Musical Way (Fr) (Gold Away {Ire}). Redvers signed the ticket at ¥180 million ($1,764,706).

"He has good size and strength about him," Redvers said, noting that Musical Way has already produced two winners by Deep Impact.

Sheikh Fahad's other acquisitions by the sire were hip 463, a filly out of Australian champion Shamrock (NZ) (O'Reilly {NZ}) at ¥92 million ($901,961); hip 430, a filly out of Love and Bubbles (Loup Sauvage), and thus a full-sister to G1 Tokyo Yushun (Japanese Derby) winner Deep Brillante (Jpn), for ¥78 million ($764,706); hip 339, a colt out of multiple American Grade III winner May Day Rose (Rockport Harbor), paying ¥66 million ($647,059); hip 363, a colt who is the first foal out of multiple Japanese Group 3 winner Keiai Gerbera (Jpn) (Smarty Jones) for ¥66 million and hip 450, a colt out of Rumba Boogie (GB) (Rainbow Quest) from the family of Japanese champions Dance in the Mood (Jpn) (Sunday Silence) and Dance Partner (Jpn) (Sunday Silence) that cost ¥35 million ($343,138).

Speaking upon conclusion of the sale, Sheikh Fahad revealed a glimpse into Qatar Racing's aspirations when joking that their long-range goals include racing and breeding on the moon. Cont. p6

A MAN BEHIND A SUCCESS...

TODAY
Henri Bozo tells us about Charm Spirit's victory in the Gr.1 Prix
Jean Prat and Ecurie des
Monceaux

Located in Normandy, where it was created in 1925, Haras des Monceaux was bought by Lucien Urano in 2003. Within a decade, it has become one of the leading yearling vendors in France. Horses bred at Ecurie des Monceaux have won 7 Group races since the start of 2014.

What does this Gr.1 success mean for Ecurie des Monceaux?

This 4th Gr.1 victory in three years is a fantastic reward for the stud, the team, and means a lot to Mr. Urano, who made the decision back in 2003 to set up a commercial breeding operation aiming at the highest level. Freddy Head and Sheikh Abdullah Bin Khalifa Al Thani's team also deserve praise for selecting and buying Charm Spirit as a yearling.

Can you tell us the story of Charm Spirit's dam, L'Enjoleuse? Why did you keep her as a broodmare?

L'Enjoleuse was among the first thoroughbreds bought by Mr. Urano. She was consigned by Haras du Mézeray at Arqana's August sale in Deauville, and cost €85,000. Her subsequent trainer Carlos Lerner signed the docket. She won first time out in promising style, and remained unbeaten in the Prix de la Chapelle en Serval, a conditions race that can serve as step up for the Prix de Diane. Unfortunately, she subsequently had some health issues and had to be retired from racing. We kept her as a broodmare for several reasons: she had showed some ability, she has a fabulous pedigree – one of the best families in the studbook – and she is a beautiful mare. She has a good size, plenty of scope and substance, and looks a lot like her sire Montjeu, who is really making his mark as a broodmare sire.

What is your policy when it comes to buying broodmares?

We buy 3 or 4 mares every year. We are always looking for opportunities, mainly in Europe. As the market is so competitive, it is very difficult to buy a Gr.1 winner. Therefore we focus on the previous generations and look for families that have produced Gr.1 winners. It is the case with L'Enjoleuse, who has several Gr.1 winners under her third dam Ciboulette, a Gr.1 winner herself.

How do you choose stallions for your matings?

National boundaries are no longer relevant nowadays and we don't hesitate to send our mares abroad if we feel that it is necessary. We would obviously prefer to have them all covered in France but above everything else, we are looking for the right stallion for each mare. Our goal is to produce racehorses. We put a lot of thinking into the physical match between a mare and a stallion – and perhaps even more in the mental one. L'Enjoleuse is a rather nervous mare and we were looking for a mating with the Danzig line, which had worked in the past with the family. Invincible Spirit, a son of Danzig, was on our short list for L'Enjoleuse, and the resulting offspring is Charm Spirit.

Tell us about Charm Spirit's half-sister, by Kendargent, who will be offered at Arqana's August sale.

This filly will carry lot 132. As all the yearlings that we sell at auctions, she was born and raised on the farm. Kendargent is one of the most exciting stallions in France and we have sent him some of our good mares. The mating with a daughter of Montjeu has already proved successful with Restiadargent, who won a Gr. 2 in France and was 3rd to Black Caviar in the Diamond Jubilee Stakes. She was born early, on 5th February, and is already very mature as can be seen on the picture, taken in early July.

"We want to be better and better," Sheikh Fahad said more seriously when asked about his plans in the Thoroughbred world. "We try to improve year upon year."

At just 25 years of age, Sheikh Fahad is taking initiatives unlike anyone else at this point in time. It was his idea to dive into Japan's complex and expensive bloodstock market, recognizing the power of Deep Impact as a sire and aiming to tap into that line.

"I love Japan," Sheikh Fahad said while buying foals at the sale. "I had come here many times before we started racing horses."

Not only did Sheikh Fahad buy seven sons of Deep Impact at the JRHA sale--one yearling and six foals--he also is boarding three mares in Japan that now are in foal to that premier stallion: Goodwood March (GB) (Foxhound), Ripples Maid (GB) (Dansili {GB}) and Common Knowledge (GB) (Rainbow Quest).

He is also cleverly playing all his options. The Qatar Bloodstock entity formed by he and his brothers to annually make a profit decided to offer a filly foal by Frankel (GB) (Galileo {Ire}) out of Goodwood March yesterday--and she realized ¥96 million ($941,177), well over their reserve price of about $550,000.

One of Sheikh Fahad's goals is to take a son of Deep Impact to Europe, race him and stand him at stud, carrying on the legacy of Sunday Silence, which Redvers described as one of the most prepotent lines in the world.

"You can't ignore it," he said of Sunday Silence's genetic power.

Rising Trainer Has Great Ambitions...

You may not have heard of Mitsumasa Nakauchida yet, but chances are you will. The 35-year-old Japanese trainer is just getting his career underway, but is already poised to become a force in racing with clients most trainers will never even get close to in their lifetimes.

Nakauchida is a key member of Sheikh Fahad's team in Japan and will be training the sheikh's runners that he races under his newly granted Japan Racing Association license. Sheikh Fahad this week bought nine well-bred recruits for his Japanese operation, and even if some eventually are sent to other countries to race Nakauchida will be overseeing many of them.

Mitsumasa Nakauchida

"I'm really excited to train for Sheikh Fahad," Nakauchida said in his soft-spoken manner. "He has a great operation and he is just a nice person. I'm really honored to be training for him."

Sheikh Fahad would be a dream client for any trainer, but Nakauchida also has been hired by two of the strongest ownership interests in Japan and, indeed, the entire world: Sheikh Mohammed bin Rashid al Maktoum's Darley and the Shadai Group of the Yoshida family. Cont. p7

"I have been so lucky with all the people around me," Nakauchida said deferentially.

While it might initially seem a difficult proposition to keep such competitive owners all satisfied, Nakauchida said he currently has about 45 horses at his base at the Ritto training center on the outskirts of Kyoto, including 10 for Darley.

Sheikh Fahad, who bought the JRHA sale-topping yearling colt by Deep Impact (Jpn) from the family of Henrythenavigator (Kingmambo), has great admiration for Sheikh Mohammed and thus anything but the friendliest kind of rivalry is unlikely between the two Middle Eastern powerhouses, Nakauchida said.

There also is likely to be no problem with the Yoshidas, he added. As Japan's top breeders, they value owners who can maintain large stables, and thus have reason for buying horses.

Nakauchida also can offer these international racing operations an unusual depth of background. In his role as an assistant for several trainers including, Katsuhiko Sumii--who has won the G1 Dubai World Cup and the G1 Melbourne Cup--he has traveled the globe and learned what it takes to keep elite horses healthy and at their best for races.

Plus, he has a will to succeed that is as sharp as his voice is soft, a surprising contrast of style that is unexpected.

"I don't set any goals for myself--I've just got to keep going until I die," Nakauchida declared. "I want to win everything; I won't be happy with second or third. I want to be in the [G1] Epsom Derby and the [G1] Prix de l'Arc de Triomphe and the [G1] Kentucky Derby," he continued, already imagining those kind of top events for the pair of juveniles Sheikh Fahad bought in Japan last year as yearlings--a Neo Universe (Jpn) (Sunday Silence) filly and a King Kamehameha (Jpn) (Kingmambo) colt.

"I hope they will get on the Classic road and you will see them in the [Japanese] Derby and Oaks," he said.

Deep Pockets...

Sheikh Fahad was not alone in seeking the offspring of Deep Impact. Kondo battled with other Japanese owners, including Yoshio Kubota, for the right to own Azeri's colt, and he was braced to take on Sheikh Fahad, if necessary.

"This is the pick of the day--the best individual in the foal session," Kondo said of the colt out of Azeri. "So I really wanted to buy him. He added, "I thought my strongest competition might be a foreign buyer, so I was ready to bid on until ¥300 million without any hesitation. This price was within my reach." Cont. p8

The amiable Takaya Shimakawa, who, like Kondo, is a longtime big spender at the JRHA sales, also stepped into the Deep Impact fray, outbidding Kondo to lasso hip 352, a colt out of Admire Kirameki (Jpn) (End Sweep) for ¥220 million ($2,156,863). The colt is a full-brother to Shimakawa's excellent 3-year old Tosen Stardom (Jpn), a Group 3 winner.

"What an expensive purchase I've made!" Shimakawa declared in interviews, feigning shock and adding, while chuckling, "I am a foolish person."

Another colorful buyer, youthful Ryouichi Ootuka, successfully bid on hip 436, a colt by Deep Impact and the first foal out of GI Del Mar Debutante and GI Oak Leaf S. winner Weemissfrankie (Sunriver), paying ¥140 million ($1,372,550).

Ootuka joined the dark bay colt after he jogged out of the ring, wrapping his arms around the foal and kissing him with visible emotion while posing for photos.

"I have been a racing fan since I was a teenager and at one time I seriously considered getting a job in the horse racing business," said Ootuka, a relatively new owner who is in his mid-30s. "I applied for a jockey's license, but I changed direction to become a businessman. But it has been a dream of mine [to become a big owner] for years."

Ootuka added, "I was looking for a very nice Deep Impact colt. I tried but I could not buy the one out of Azeri, so I am very happy to buy this one."

Ryouichi Ootuka with his new Deep Impact colt out of Weemissfrankie

Frankel Fever Adds Flavor...

While the JRHA sale was mostly about Deep Impact and Sheikh Fahad, the foal session also featured the first offspring of Frankel (GB) (Galileo {Ire}) to sell individually anywhere around the world, after a Frankel colt sold along with his dam, Crystal Gaze, back in foal to Frankel for £1.15-million at the Goffs London Sale in June.

Hip 376: Frankel filly

A weaned half-sister to Hong Kong star Gold-Fun (Ire) (Le Vie Die Colori {GB}), hip 376 was consigned by Mishima Farm on behalf of Sheikh Fahad and his brothers' Qatar Bloodstock, and was sold for ¥96 million ($941,177) to Toshio Terada, whose family bought Azeri's 2013 colt foal by Deep Impact.

"I thought the price would be more," said Terada, who came to the sale specifically seeking a well-bred filly as a future mate for the outstanding colts he owns, including Azeri's, that he hopes one day will become stallions. "I've bought my dreams for the future."

David Redvers added, "We're happy with the price" for the Frankel filly. He noted that Qatar Racing has about a dozen foals by Frankel this year. They intend to race most of them, but may sell one at the Tattersalls December sale.

Redvers added, "We're all very excited about Frankel. I didn't want to sell [the filly], to be perfectly honest, but Sheikh Fahad wanted to be commercial here, and it's great we made a Frankel available to the Japanese market."

JRHA officials reported a surge in new buyers during the sale, and results also show a return to action by some previous buyers.

Sheikh Mohammed's bloodstock advisor John Ferguson, who once regularly signed big tickets at this venue, was back on the scene with Darley's Olly Tait to inspect foals. Darley Japan bought two colts, led by a son of Stay Gold (Jpn) (Sunday Silence) out of American Grade III winner Medaglia d'Amour (Medaglia d'Oro) (hip 338) for ¥43 million ($421,569). Yoshida pointed to Stay Gold and Heart's Cry (Jpn) (Sunday Silence) as two stallions who have risen to international recognition through the racing exploits of their respective sons, Japanese Triple Crown winner and two-time G1 Prix de l'Arc de Triomphe runner-up Orfevre (Jpn) and G1 Dubai Duty Free record-breaking winner Just a Way (Jpn). Each of those sires had a foal sell for over ¥100 million, proving that Japanese breeding has more depth than just Deep Impact, Yoshida noted. Next year, he predicted, the JRHA sale will be "even better" than the record-breaking editions of 2013 and 2014. Not only will there be more foals by Deep Impact, Heart's Cry, Stay Gold and G1 Dubai World Cup winner Victoire Pisa (Jpn) (Neo Universe {Jpn})--who sired a yearling colt that brought ¥135 million--there also will be the first foals of Orfevre, champion sprinter Lord Kanaloa (Jpn) (King Kamehameha {Jpn}) and multiple European Group 1 winner Novellist (Ire) (Monsun {Ger}).

"We are looking forward to presenting these horses to the world," Yoshida concluded. CLICK HERE TO SHARE THIS STORY

ROLAPP, EGAN TO BE FEATURED SPEAKERS AT ROUND TABLE Edited Press Release

Brian Rolapp, the executive vice president of NFL Media and the president and CEO of the NFL Network, will share insights into the National Football League's wide-ranging media strategies and Denis Egan, the chief executive of the Irish Turf Club, will provide an update on jockey safety and welfare initiatives when The Jockey Club hosts its 62nd Annual Round Table Conference on Matters Pertaining to Racing on Sunday, August 10, at the Gideon Putnam Resort in Saratoga Springs, N.Y.

The program will also provide updates on medication reform efforts in the United States, a study on equine drug testing and enforcement, an analysis of racing trends and horse inventories and a report on new fan and owner development initiatives.

The Jockey Club will once again provide a live video stream of the two-hour conference on jockeyclub.com. It will begin at 10 a.m. EDT.

Rolapp is responsible for managing the National Football League's media businesses, including NFL Network, NFL.com, NFL Mobile and the newly created NFL Now as well as NFL sponsorships and advertising sales. He also leads the development and implementation of strategy for the NFL's media assets, including television contracts and digital media rights, and he has spearheaded some of the largest and most comprehensive arrangements with major corporations in NFL history.

Brian Rolapp

Egan has been an active advocate for jockey safety and served as the chairman of the International Conference for the Health, Safety and Welfare of Jockeys that was held under the auspices of the International Federation of Horseracing Authorities at Monmouth Park in Oceanport, N.J., in 2013 and 2012. Founded in 1790, the Irish Turf Club is the regulatory body for horse racing in Ireland and is responsible for the integrity and the reputation of Irish racing both in Ireland and internationally.

Denis Egan

"On the marketing and branding front, the National Football League is widely viewed as the gold standard in professional sports, and we're extremely fortunate to have Brian Rolapp share some of his experiences with us," said Ogden Mills Phipps, the chairman of The Jockey Club. "The safety of our athletes should always be a top priority and Denis Egan will be able to enlighten us about practices throughout the world."

The Round Table Conference agenda will feature a report on the activities of The Jockey Club by Laura Barillaro, the executive vice president and chief financial officer of The Jockey Club, and a review of the recent Welfare and Safety of the Racehorse Summit, delivered by Matt Iuliano, the executive vice president and executive director of The Jockey Club. Cont. p10

Dr. Dionne Benson, the executive director of the Racing Medication & Testing Consortium, will discuss new ways that data is now being used to enhance horse safety.

Dan Singer, senior partner and leader of the Sports and Gaming Practice, McKinsey & Company, will share the findings of a recent study that quantifies the practices and costs of equine drug testing and enforcement in the United States and identifies the steps and expenditures needed to implement a uniform set of standards and practices among all racing jurisdictions in this country.

The Jockey Club has collaborated on two previous projects with McKinsey & Company. In 1991, the company produced a report entitled, "Building a World-Class Drug Detection System for the Racing Industry: A National Strategic Plan," and in 2011, the organization conducted a comprehensive economic study of the sport, entitled, "Driving Sustainable Growth for Thoroughbred Racing and Breeding."

Brad Kimbrell, the president of InCompass Solutions Inc., a subsidiary of The Jockey Club, will discuss racing trends and horse inventory at American racetracks, and a report on new fan and new owner development efforts will be delivered by Jason Wilson, president of TJC Media Ventures.

In addition to the live video stream, a replay will be available on jockeyclub.com later that afternoon and an official transcript of the proceedings is expected to be available on The Jockey Club website the following day.

G1 Investec Oaks heroine Taghrooda (GB) (Sea the Stars {Ire}) and G1 Irish 1000 Guineas winner Marvellous (Ire) (Galileo {Ire}) feature amongst the 15 sophomore fillies left in contention for the G1 Irish Oaks July 19 at yesterday's declaration stage. Taghrooda, who will travel by ferry from trainer John Gosden's Newmarket base Friday, could be joined by fellow Sheikh Hamdan silkbearer Tarfasha (Ire) (Teofilo {Ire}), trained in Ireland by Dermot Weld and second in the Oaks. Marvellous is one of six fillies engaged for trainer Aidan O'Brien, and she could be joined by G2 Ribblesdale S. winner Bracelet (Ire) (Montjeu {Ire}); last year's G2 Debutante S. winner Tapestry (Ire) (Galileo {Ire}) and Monday's Listed Cairn Rouge S. winner Palace (Ire) (Fastnet Rock {Aus}). Paddy Power has installed Taghrooda as the 4-5 favorite, followed by Marvellous and Tarfasha at 6-1.

French Option for Rizeena...

Sheikh Rashid Dalmook Al Maktoum's G1 Coronation S. heroine Rizeena (Ire) (Ifraaj {GB}), second most recently in the G1 Falmouth S. at Newmarket July 11 in her first try against elders, could take in the G1 Prix Rothschild at Deauville Aug. 3. "She ran very well [in the Coronation]," said Bruce Raymond, racing manager to Sheikh Rashid, of the Clive Brittain-trained 3-year-old. "Perhaps a stronger pace might have helped her, but I think the winner was just too good for her on the day and is a progressive filly." Raymond hinted that Rizeena, also the winner of last year's G1 Moyglare Stud S., could stay in training next year. "Rizeena might stay in training as a 4-year-old, in which case she'd have every chance of doing better things," he said.

Ward Preparing for York Invasion...

Trainer Wesley Ward, known for his often-successful juvenile raids on Royal Ascot, continues to increase his participation in Europe's biggest races, and that trend will persist next month when he saddles Wes Welker's Undrafted (Purim) in the G1 Nunthorpe S. at York Aug. 22.

Undrafted, winner of the GIII Jaipur S. at Belmont June 7, ran on well to claim fourth in the G1 July Cup in his first European voyage and Group 1 debut July 12, and Ward said he is pleased with how his charge exited that effort.

Undrafted
Racing Post

"He came out of the race in fantastic shape," Ward noted. "We have no issues at all and he is staying with [trainer] Robert Cowell for a week before he comes home."

Ward noted that the rain-softened July course likely hampered Undrafted's chances. "We were very happy with how he performed and were unlucky with the ground," Ward said. "I am told if the race was taking place this coming weekend we'd have been in better shape weather-wise, but that would probably be the case for a few other horses. All in all we are very proud of him--he ran a valiant race on ground he doesn't care for and it was a wonderful trip and an unbelievable experience for me and his owner. All being well, he'll be coming back for the Nunthorpe and hopefully [Frankie] Dettori will take the call again."

Why I Support the TAA

"The TAA takes aftercare to another level because everyone is in it together, from stallion farms and sales companies to racetracks and individuals. Because we're a united front, this can be done the right way. It's the right thing to do and we're proud to be part of it."

Undrafted is likely to be accompanied to York by stablemate Hootenanny (Quality Road), winner of the Listed Windsor Castle S. at Royal Ascot June 17. Derrick Smith, Michael Tabor and John Magnier's colt will aim for the G2 Gimcrack S. Aug. 23.

"With Hootenanny coming over for the Gimcrack, hopefully we'll have a great couple of days at York," said Ward. "I can't wait. Hootenanny is in just fantastic shape at the moment and I wouldn't expect the step up [to six furlongs] to be an issue."

Dettori to Make Saratoga Appearance...

Jockey Frankie Dettori is set to make an appearance at Saratoga during the track's opening weekend after trainer Wesley Ward noted that he would use the Italian-born, British champion jockey on "eight or nine" horses. "Hopefully Frankie is going to come over for racing on Friday and will ride through until Monday," Ward said. "I should have eight or nine horses for him to ride over the weekend, including an unbeaten 2-year-old called Bessie's Boy [Smoke Glacken] who is down to run in [Saturday's GIII] Sanford S. We'll have a few other stakes horses running, so it should be a good weekend." Dettori partnered the Ward-trained Undrafted (Purim), owned by Wes Welker, to a fourth-place finish in the G1 July Cup at Newmarket July 12. He is named on three Ward trainees on Saratoga's Opening Day card Friday, including main track only entrant Pablo del Monte (Giant's Causeway) in the Sir Cat S.

WAR FRONT, GALILEO TOP APEX SIRES

At the end of 2006, a total of 1,156 sires which stood or had stood in North America, Europe, and Japan qualified for APEX ratings, meaning, basically, that they had 10 or more 3-year-olds in the last year covered (in that case, foals of 2003 and 3-year-olds of 2006). By midyear 2014--The Jockey Club Information Systems (TJCIS) ran the data on July 8--the number of sires which qualified was down to a record low of 821. By that measure, there has been a 30% decline in the viable 'commercial' stallion population since 2006.

There are actually 17 different APEX ratings, as veteran readers will know (but may not be able to recite by heart), but the 'signature tune' is the A Runner Index. Here's a very brief recapitulation. To calculate APEX ratings, we collect all the runners by all qualifying sires (10+ 3-year-olds of the final year covered) for each year, in each of five racing jurisdictions covering three regions. The three regions are: North America (USA and Canada); Europe (GB/Ireland, France and Germany); and Japan. For each jurisdiction, for each of the last seven years, we find the top 2% of earners, which are designated 'A Runners'; the next 2% (B Runners); and the next 4% (C Runners). Combined, they are designated ABC Runners (top 8%). We then simply add up the totals from all five jurisdictions for all seven years (or however many the relevant sire has had runners, if fewer than seven).

The seven-year limit prevents us from assuming once-great sires are still operating at their peak levels: Gone West and Green Desert were examples of once-great sires whose success rates halved toward the end of their careers. Most importantly, though, the APEX ratings measure "the frequency with which" sires prove capable of producing high-level (ABC Runners) or top-level (A Runners) racehorses. The figures aren't skewed by one huge earner, as an average-earnings index can be; African Story (GB) (Pivotal)'s $6-million payday in the G1 Dubai World Cup counted him as just another A Runner in this system.

The A Runner Index is a simple compilation: the average for all qualifying sires is 2% of the runners, so 2.00% A Runners equals an A Runner Index of 1.00. The elite of the elite these days can still top 4.00 A Runner Index, which is 8.00% of their runners. At the end of 2013, the young upstart War Front (Danzig) dethroned nine-time APEX Champion Sire A.P. Indy (Seattle Slew), with the consensus World number one, Galileo (Ire) (Sadler's Wells), taking second spot, and A.P. Indy third. Midway through 2014 the top three retain their positions, in that order: of the 438 sires which had 200+ year-starters (a horse is counted as a 'year-starter' every year it runs, up to seven), Claiborne's War Front is the number one APEX sire, with an A Runner Index of 4.38% (8.76% of year-starters 2008-2014). That's based on his having 40 A Runners from 457 year-starters since 2008 (or, in his case, 2010, since that's when he had his first runners).

War Front

Galileo

Coolmore's Galileo is nearly the world's most prolific as well as its best sire: he's had 1725 year-starters since 2008--nearly four times the number War Front's had. Galileo has had 144 A Runners since 2008, miles ahead of any other North American or European sire (Giant's Causeway {Storm Cat}, also a Coolmore sire, is a distant second, with 108), which means Galileo has an A Runner Index of 4.17 (8.34% of Runners). The former Lane's End sire and nine-time APEX champion A.P. Indy remains in third (3.59). Cont. p13

We specify North American and European sires (at least originally) in this context because we do also compile and publish APEX ratings for Japanese sires. These lists are invariably dominated by Yoshida family stallions, of which two in particular, Deep Impact and King Kamehameha, are the stand-outs. King Kamehameha is the sire of 150 A Runners since 2008--even more than Galileo--and ranks second in Japan with a 3.06 A Runner Index (6.12% of year-starters). Deep Impact, meanwhile, whose oldest foals are just six this year, has sired 119 A Runners and is the leading sire anywhere by A Runner Index, with 4.49 (8.98% of runners). But because Japanese racing is very focused in Japan, in spite of their good record when they ship, it's more appropriate to consider Japanese sires separately from North American and European stallions. Weekly Sales Ticker

by Bill Oppenheim

"Fasig's July yearling sale Monday yielded steady results: one fewer yearling sold compared to last year, gross up 4%, average up 5%. Two sires who sold well: Harlan's Holiday, 4 averaged $207,500; Scat Daddy, 8 averaged $112,000. The growth market is in the Racing Age sales: Fasig's version was up 45% in gross Monday; last week Tattersalls' July Sale (mostly racing age) had 92% sell of those which went through the ring, and the gross was up 20%".

Through July 8, and covering racing from the beginning of 2008, there are 30 NA/EU sires with 200+ year-starters and A Runner indexes of 2.50 (5.00%) and above. They're a mixture, as you might expect, of old, new, and 'slots' sires. Horses like Monsun (3.37) and Dynaformer (2.87) still rank high (5th and 13th respectively), not to mention Unusual Heat (3.20), who was claimed for $62,500, but has been the leading sire in California, along with In Excess (Ire), for a decade. Slots state New Mexico provides the now-retired Desert God (3.17), a son of Fappiano who still ranks in a tie for ninth by A Runner Index; while two former Ontario sires, Niigon (2.87, died in 2012) and Philanthropist (2.79, sold to South Africa), by Unbridled and Kris S. respectively, rank equal 13th and 15th.

Otherwise there are a lot of names you know from both progeny earnings and previous APEX lists: European sires Dansili (3.17), Dubawi (3.06), and (deceased) Montjeu (Sadler's Wells) (2.98) rank 9th, 11th, and 12th. F2006 North American sires Speightstown (3.45), Medaglia d'Oro (3.19), Tapit (2.66), and Candy Ride (2.65) are all in the top twenty. Adena Springs's F2007 Ghostzapper (3.23) stumbled at the start of his stud career and now stands for a fraction of where he started, but has climbed back up to achieve a ranking of 6th among the 438 NA/EU sires with 200 or more 2008-2014 year-starters.

Among younger sires, Lane's End's English Channel (2.76) is the highest-rated F2009 sire (first 5-year-olds 2014), ranking 16th, one spot ahead of his veteran sire, also at Lane's End, Smart Strike (2.71). Darley's Teofilo (2.55), Richland Hills' deceased son of Dynaformer, Purim (2.27); Darley's Discreet Cat (2.24) and Hard Spun (2.11) also figure among the top 50 sires overall by A Runner Index. Among F2010 sires (1st 4-year-olds 2014) - and remembering that a good few of those may not yet have 200 year-starters and thus do not yet qualify for this list--Hill 'n' Dale's Midnight Lute (2.63) is top-rated, ranking 21st. Darley's New Approach (2.14) is the only other F2010 Top 50 qualifier at this stage.

We are working away at the formatting and will let you know as soon as we have posted the full details for all 821 sires on the TDN website; and we'll look at some other "Leaders Lists" and younger (F2010 and F2011) sires in next week's column.

TDN & A

Brad Cummings

With the announcement last week that EquiLottery--a new lottery game melding the traditional lottery with horse racing--was available to states and provinces, the TDN sat down with EquiLottery President and CEO Brad Cummings to learn more about this unique potential revenue stream for the horse racing and lottery industries.

TDN: EquiLottery seems to be a win/win situation for horse racing. Is it as much of a win for the lottery? If so, why?

BC: It's an absolute win for the lottery. It's bringing a new excitement to the lottery game. Currently, a lottery player has the option of a scratch off or a lottery ball going down a chute. The infusion and the excitement of horse racing to the lottery process offers some really obvious benefits to the lottery. Additionally, we have polling that shows 10 to 15% new players would join the lottery ranks--people that might not be drawn to the current lottery system, but because of the infusion and the excitement that racing provides they will be more likely to become lottery players. Any game or any product that could add 10 to 15% to the bottom line of a business is something that any business would want to look at. Additionally, we've been getting unsolicited phone calls and emails from lottery corporations around the country. Clearly, all three of those factors show that there is definitely a reason for lotteries to be engaged.

TDN: Will EquiLottery require a lot of money to get going in each region?

BC: It will not require any seed money to get going. It is integrating completely with the pari-mutuel pool at the track that already exists. Within each jurisdiction, we will build an EquiLottery race of the day with one race in one pool that all the lottery money goes into. It will utilize the existing money in that pool from a horseplayer perspective as well as the lottery player money that comes in on top of that. Now, the horseplayer has potentially a reason to look at that pool even more closely because the lottery money will be random money and that will create what we refer to as sort of a "Kentucky Derby Effect" where favorites pay more than usual.

TDN: Depending on which jurisdictions decide to utilize EquiLottery, how will the different races be selected on a daily basis?

BC: We will work with the racetrack and the lottery to plan a race. Every state is different. Some states have night racing only and some states only day racing, so we will have a mixture of it. We will work with different racetracks and lottery corporations to come up with a strategy of a certain pocket of time to choose the largest race field of that day, on a normal day. However, we also will be building a national and regional calendar to generate larger pools. For instance, the Kentucky Derby would be a national race that would be played on that Saturday in any jurisdiction that has EquiLottery. Additionally, on a day when the Santa Anita Derby and the Wood Memorial are running, western states would play the Santa Anita Derby, and eastern states would play the Wood Memorial. There will be national races, there will be regional races and then there will be local races that are played in each state.

TDN: With EquiLottery hopefully widespread, would customers be able to pick which pool to play in, or would they be restricted to their respective regions?

BC: They will be restricted to the race that their local lottery chooses to play that day whether it is a local race, a regional race for that day, or a national race. So there is no selection for the lottery player. That is partially by design. The reason I created this game is because the racing game is a difficult wager to understand initially with so many options, past performances, different kinds of bets, etc. We are simplifying the process. It's a quick pick bet with a pool and a racetrack and a race all predetermined and all we're concentrating on is the excitement of the racing product.

TDN: What happens when a horse is scratched?

BC: Free ticket; it's a common term within the lottery ranks. If you play a scratch off, one of the things you can win is a free ticket. It would just get refunded and hopefully put towards the next race of the day.

TDN: Have there been any responses on an international level?

BC: We have received interest in North America from the U.S. and Canada, which is the target market we've been looking for.

TDN: Since EquiLottery was announced last week, has the response been within expectations, or is it more popular/less popular than you hoped?

BC: It has wildly exceeded my expectations. We've had specific reach-outs from racetracks and lotteries from 14 different states and provinces. We've had over 6,000 people visit the website. Just walking around the Fasig-Tipton sales grounds Monday was a revelation of people who are clearly very interested in what's going on and what this product is. I guess when you think about it, that's on some level to be expected. It's an intriguing idea. It has been an idea people have talked about for years. How do we bring racing and the lottery together? And so the fact that we have this product that we very publicly announced and that we're very publicly advocating for, is drawing a lot of interest makes sense. My dance card is completely booked all of a sudden. I'm flying across the country for the foreseeable future. As you know, we had a really exciting moment in Frankfort on Friday where a couple of representatives--a senator and a representative of Kentucky--asked the CEO of the lottery whether this game would be something they would consider, and they said it was doable and they will continue to consider it. We'll have a pretty exciting announcement here soon about some follow up to that.

TDN: Where has the response been the best/the worst?

BC: We haven't had any bad responses. I suppose those who would not be interested haven't reached out to us. Anybody I've talked to has shown great engagement. The only thing, and it's not even a negative, is that people maybe initially don't understand the full concept of the game. That's to be expected. It's a hard thing to communicate effectively in a full-page ad. It's something that requires a presentation oftentimes. It requires some time to sit and explain the game. It's not a bad response; it's a response of "explain more," which I suppose is actually a sign of positivity because they are interested in the concept. The best response we've received is just the idea that we have 14 racing states and lotteries that have reached out to us. The fact that I am currently booked to fly around the country and present says something. It's been a great response. Cont. p16

TDN: What feedback are you getting from interested parties so far?

BC: We are being asked the right kind of questions, like asking about revenue studies. We have those for several different states and provinces. We will continue to develop more of those. They obviously want to see what kind of revenue impact they can expect from a game like this. When we share those numbers with them, it's never been anything but a positive. For example, we did a study of 10 racing states if they all played the trifecta pool at the Kentucky Derby. The total handle impact would be $97 million. Last Derby, 2014, the entire handle was $124 million. That's an 80% increase in the Kentucky Derby pool with just 10 states involved. Imagine what that looks like now with 30 states and provinces in Canada playing the Derby all at once. Those are the kinds of conversations we're having. Feedback is predictably very positive.

TDN: Anything I haven't asked you that you would like to add?

BC: Just because our dance card is full doesn't mean we can't add somebody else. Whether you are a racetrack executive, or a horsemen's group, or an interested party that feels like you could help bring EquiLottery to your state or province, I hope they'll reach out to us. That they'll reach out to me specifically. We are aggressively pursuing this, and this is something I've been working on it for 4 1/2 years quietly--answering all the questions that need to be answered, getting the patent completed and getting it to look right. All these things have culminated in this moment where we've been able to answer this unanswered question of how do we bring racing to the lottery. We're just over-the-moon excited, and hope that we will continue to get industry support and we continue to look forward to anyone that wants to be engaged. Interested parties can contact me for more information about EquiLottery at brad@equilottery.com.

TVG, NYRA Complete Multiyear Extension:

Edited Press Release

TVG Network and the New York Racing Association announced a multi-year extension of their agreement for TVG to televise, stream and accept wagers on live horse races from Aqueduct Racetrack, Belmont Park and Saratoga Racecourse on a daily basis yesterday. Under the terms of the agreement, TVG will increase the exposure for High Definition telecasts of races from the premier New York Thoroughbred tracks on its network--which is distributed nationally in over 36 million households and simulcast regularly on regional sports networks throughout the U.S., including the Fox family of regional sports networks.

"Both the New York Racing Association and TVG have made significant investments in High Definition television capabilities over the past year and this agreement allows us both to provide the highest quality coverage to the greatest number of people possible on a daily basis," said Kip Levin, CEO of TVG and Betfair US. "We view this as a starting point for the two organizations to innovate in creating new and better ways for customers to enjoy this fantastic racing product."

Programming enhancements will include features on TVG's television network with the New York Racing Association's on-track television hosts as well as significantly increased on-site productions by TVG at Belmont Park and Saratoga Racecourse. TVG will sponsor the GI TVG Diana S. at Saratoga Racecourse July 19 and the Super Saturday card at Belmont Sept. 27.

"Today's announcement is yet another positive step forward for the New York Racing Association; one that will further enhance the experience for the world's greatest fans following Thoroughbred action on television, online or at one of our three historic, world-class racing facilities," said Christopher Kay, President and CEO of the New York Racing Association. "The extension of our agreement with TVG will provide featured, long-term placement through the broadest, most technologically advanced distribution network available. This is a win for everyone."

TVG account holders can wager on all races from Aqueduct Racetrack, Belmont Park and Saratoga Racecourse, including watching live video at tv.com and on the TVG App available for free in Apple's App Store.

All of the coverage will be available to TVG's viewing audience, which recently expanded with the addition of Time Warner Cable (TWC) systems in New York City, upstate New York, Detroit, San Diego, Tampa and Orlando, each of which now make TVG available on their Sports Pass package of programming.

Napravnik to Sign Autographs for TRF's Olivia's Herd:
Edited Press Release

Top female jockey Rosie Napravnik will be signing autographs at Saratoga Racecourse Thursday, July 31 to benefit the Thoroughbred Retirement Foundation's "Olivia's Herd." The fifth race on the Saratoga card that day will be named the "Olivia's Herd" in honor of Olivia Saylor, the late daughter of racehorse owner and breeder Paul Saylor. Saylor is a regular contributor to the Thoroughbred Retirement Foundation. He created the "Olivia's Herd" Fund in 2011 in Olivia's memory to provide for the horses in the TRF program which are most in need of special care or feeding because of age or other physical condition.

Napravnik
NYRA/Coglianese

"Caring for animals was Olivia's passion," said Paul Saylor. "This day at the races will bring awareness to the mission of 'Olivia's Herd' and the work of the Thoroughbred Retirement Foundation. I am thrilled that Rosie will be there to raise the profile of the cause and attract young people to the track and to the mission of 'Olivia's Herd'."

The TRF will be giving away commemorative gifts to anyone who comes and signs up for information about "Olivia's Herd" at the NYRA Charity Booth from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. that day. Napravnik will appear at the NYRA Charity Booth from noon to 12:30 p.m. to sign autographs. Visit trfinc.org for more information.

NYRA Announces 2014 Giveaway Policy:

In an effort to ensure the participation of more guests during Saratoga Race Course's popular giveaway days, the New York Racing Association has made changes to its giveaway policy for the upcoming 2014 meet. As in the past, each visitor to Saratoga on giveaway Sundays will receive one voucher for the day's item upon admission. Those interested in purchasing additional vouchers can do so two at a time at the multiple admissions line beneath the grandstand. Guests could previously purchase up to an additional five vouchers at a time. A limit of three vouchers at a time can be redeemed at the race course's giveaway redemption areas--there was previously no limit. "These policy changes are designed to create a more equitable process for all of our loyal fans and provide an opportunity for more of our guests to enjoy and secure one of our premier Saratoga giveaways," said Lynn LaRocca, Chief Experience Officer for NYRA. Cont. p2

"Giveaway days are part of a long tradition at Saratoga Race Course, and these modifications will ensure that more of our guests can leave with one of these prized mementos." NYRA will no longer count vouchers purchased at multiple admissions line in its daily attendance figures. "We're aware that past attendance numbers may have been inflated on giveaway days due to the practice of incorporating each multiple voucher sold on track as part of our paid admission. These inflated numbers adversely skewed the far more important business metric of on-track per capita spending," said LaRocca. "The New York Racing Association is committed to transparency and will be discontinuing this policy starting on Opening Day." The 2014 giveaway schedule is as follows: July 20, baseball cap; July 27, pilsner glass set; Aug. 10, Toyota tote bag; Aug. 31, short sleeve t-shirt.

CITYSCAPE TO SHUTTLE TO ARGENTINA

Group 1 winner Cityscape (GB) (Selkirk) will shuttle to Haras La Providencia in Argentina for the Southern Hemisphere breeding season in a deal brokered by Blandford Bloodstock. The 2012 G1 Dubai Duty Free winner has just completed his first season at Overbury Stud in England.

"Haras La Providencia is a really top class Argentinian stud farm with world class facilities and a long history of standing successful stallions," said Blandford's Richard Brown. "We are delighted to have assisted in the formation of this partnership between Haras La Providencia and Overbury Stud. Cityscape received a quality first book of 100 mares in the Northern Hemisphere this last season, and we are sure he will receive a very enthusiastic response when he arrives in Argentina."
