AFTERNOON DEELITES INJURED Afternoon Deelites (Private Terms), eighth in the Kentucky Derby, has injured his left front tendon, and his future as a race horse is in the balance. "When we brought him home, he appeared fine after the race," said trainer Richard Mandella. "But then we noticed a slight filling in his tendon. It's a very significant problem. It will just be a matter of whether we decide to rest him and bring him back, or retire him. We'll make that decision next week."

HARAYIR BOUND FOR IRELAND Harayir (Gulch), who gave her sire his second Classic win of the weekend when taking the English 1000 Guineas May 7, will make her next start in Ireland. Said owner Hamdan al Maktoum's racing manager, Anthony Stroud, "She will go for the Irish 1000 Guineas in two weeks time and then, most likely, for the Coronation S. at Royal Ascot."

JUMRON OFF TRIPLE CROWN TRAIL Jumron (GB) (Sharpo {GB}), fourth in the Kentucky Derby, will skip the final two legs of the Triple Crown and return to California to get ready for the Swaps S. at Hollywood Park July 23. "The horse, he talked to us," said trainer Gary Lewis. "He pulled a little muscle behind (Saturday). It's not serious. The owner and I talked about it; we had said if he was not 100 percent, he would not run. He would be 90 to 95 percent, and that's not good enough. He'll probably miss about 10 days of serious training, but shouldn't lose a lot of conditioning. He'll stay (at Pimlico) until next week, when we can get a flight back to California."

Atticus, the crowd's choice and a reluctant leader early, was challenged by the lightly raced Vettori early in the straight and the two battled to the wire with Vettori prevailing in a photo. A famous win for Dubai, where the winner is trained. Making only his third start, the colt from the first crop of Machiavellian (Mr. Prospector) gives his sire his first Classic win. Vettori is engaged in the Epsom Derby, but no decision has yet been made on that race.

A highly controversial outcome, as Matiara was allowed to keep her Classic after appearing to barge her way out from the rail to interfere with Cash Asmussen's mount, PIQUETNOL (Warning {GB}). Matiara was soon clear of the field, but Carling, close to the pace throughout, came with a very strong finish which only just failed. The stewards called an enquiry but allowed the result to stand, suggesting that Asmussen deliberately tried to keep Matiara boxed in on the rail. It was the fifth victory in this event for trainer Criquette Head, and the seventh for jockey Freddie Head. The first three finishers are all headed for the Prix de Diane (French Oaks) June 11.

Margins: 1, NK, 3/4. Odds: 2.70.

Also ran: Beau Temps (GB), Leeds (Ire), Nicosie.

Solar One tried to make all the running, but he was tackled early in the straight by Flemensfirth, who took command inside the final quarter mile and battled on resolutely to win well. The winner is now a probable for the Prix du Jockey Club (French Derby), but he is also entered for the Epsom Derby. Odds-on favorite Solar One is also engaged at Epsom.
