HENNESSY PREPS FOR SAPLING Trainer D. Wayne Lukas was on hand at Monmouth yesterday, keeping a watchful eye on the final Sapling preparations of his budding two-year-old star Hennessy (Storm Cat), who will try to chalk up another one in the win column in next Sunday's GI feature at the Shore. The unbeaten colt worked a half-mile in :49, breezing, Saturday. "He galloped out strong," said Lukas. "He's coming up to the race in excellent shape. He's coming off an excellent race in the Hollywood Juvenile, and I think he'll be a factor--I think he'll be tough."

CRYPTIC BID BACK ON TRACK Three-year-old Cryptic Bid (Cryptoclearance), out since a series of setbacks beginning with surgery to remove chips from both ankles in mid-January, is back in training at Saratoga and will be ready for his first half-mile breeze within the week, according to trainer John Kimmel. A Triple Crown hopeful after showing brilliance at two, the colt developed colic after his ankle surgery and nearly lost his life. "The next day (after surgery), he's got colic," said Kimmel. "By the afternoon he hadn't responded to medication. There wasn't a surgery where we were in South Florida, so we vanned him to the university in Gainesville...they determined he needed surgical intervention." Undefeated in two starts last year, Cryptic Bid underwent colic surgery twice before finally turning the corner towards recovery. "He has responded well since then," said Kimmel. "He's gained weight, he eats well and he's training well. I'm cautiously optimistic that he'll get back to the races by late September. Then maybe, down the road, he'll be able to hook up with the likes of a Thunder Gulch again." Kimmel had both colts under his shedrow last fall.

MORE SURGERY FOR HAWLEY Jockey Sandy Hawley is likely to be sidelined longer than the two-to-three months he predicted Friday. The 46-year-old riding great said Saturday that further tests have revealed major damage to his urinary tract, which will require additional surgery in "about two months time." X-rays have also confirmed a cracked pelvis. "I should have been a doctor," Hawley was able to joke yesterday. "I told the ambulance attendants when they put me on the stretcher that I probably had some broken ribs and about my pelvis. I also told them I had internal damage because the pain was just excruciating." It is expected that Hawley will be out the rest of the season.

Second last out in the Beverly Hills H. after a string of five straight wins, Possibly Perfect gets right back to the winner's circle with a pace-stalking win as the 6-5 favorite despite a troubled trip. "She got stopped three times," said trainer Bobby Frankel, "once going into the turn and she had to take up sharply on the backside and then again coming home." Added jockey Corey Nakatana, "But she did it and she did it in style. That's why she's a champion. Bobby has done a great job with her. She had a foot problem and I think that cost her her last race." Frankel said that she ran in an aluminum pad on her right front foot. "I was trying to protect that foot," said Frankel. "I've run horses in one before, but it's always a concern." Frankel said she would run next in the Beverly D at Arlington Aug. 26.

Giving trainer Scotty Schulhofer his second straight Whitney win on the heels of Colonial Affair's '94 victory, Unaccounted For sat in last during the early running before making his way through horses on the turn and responding with an explosive move when asked by jockey Pat Day. "We got shuffled back a bit coming out of the gate and our early position was not what I had anticipated," said Day. "This was a tremendous effort." Now two-for-two since adding blinkers, Unaccounted For earned his first GI stakes here. Last year's Jim Dandy winner may try for his third Saratoga stakes next out in the Aug. 26 Saratoga Cup at 10 furlongs.

Proving she could, U Can Do It kept her race record unblemished with yet another decisive score. After taking her first three starts by a combined 24 1/2 lengths, the talented chestnut was backed down to 1-5 and made the payoff look generous, taking command after a half and cruising to her second stakes win. Trainer Duke Davis said the filly would now be pointed for the next leg of the Florida Stallion series, the Susan's Girl in five weeks, and then the finale, the My Dear Girl S. September 30. "Then, hopefully, on to New York for the Breeders' Cup," said Davis, who added, "There have been a lot of offers for her, but the owners are enjoying every minute with her. She's not for sale."

Sent off the second choice in his second start back, the dark bay raced in third for a half, then moved up to take a clear lead and held it to the wire to edge the slight choice, Turbo Fan.
