MIDSUMMER OCTETTE A field of eight three-year-old colts was entered yesterday for Saturday's 128th running of the GI Travers S. at Saratoga. The 9-5 morning-line favorite Awesome Again (Deputy Minister), victorious in the Gil Jim Dandy and GIC Queen's Plate, drew post six. The colt is pinch-hitting for stable star Touch Gold, but trainer David Hofmans is confident the lightly raced colt is up to the challenge. "He has filled out even more since the Jim Dandy and he is much more aggressive," Hofmans said yesterday. "In the mornings, you can see him looking to split horses, looking to pass horses. This was the horse (owner) Mr. (Frank) Stronach felt had worlds of ability and this is the one he told me to take my time with and get to the Queen's Plate. To have won that race and the Jim Dandy and have him in position to win the Travers is far beyond our expectations. He is ahead of schedule and it is because of his talent." Trainer H. James Bond is looking for a second straight Travers win after his Will's Way upset Preakness winner Louis Quatorze and three-year-old champion Skip Away to win the 1996 edition of the race. This year, he will be represented by Behrens (Pleasant Colony) who suffered the lone defeat of his four-race career when fourth as the favorite in the Jim Dandy. "It would be a great honor to win the Travers back-to-back, but then I think it is a great honor just to run in the Travers," Bond said. As for his colt, Bond exuded confidence, "I think he is as good a three-year-old as there is this year." Behrens is the 5-2 second choice on the morning line. Also looking to avenge a loss to Awesome Again is Cryptocloser (Cryptoclearance). Awesome Again bested that rival by 3½ lengths when the two Canadian-breds squared off in the Queen's Plate. With Awesome Again absent, Cryptocloser rebounded to capture the second leg of the Canadian Triple Crown, the July 27 Prince of Wales S. The 8-1 fourth choice will break from post position seven in this affair. The Travers will be broadcast live on ESPN from 4:30-5:30 p.m. EDT with a scheduled 5:10 post.

Alex Greaves, on Ya Malak (GB), became the first woman to ride a Group 1 winner in Great Britain when dead-heating with Coastal Bluff (GB) in a dramatic Nunthorpe S. Pacesetter Coastal Bluff snapped a bridle soon after the start, but still led at the eighth pole. He was joined at the wire by the strong finishing Ya Malak. Averti (Ire) came with a late surge to grab third place. Kevin Darley, jockey of Coastal Bluff (GB), said "He just jumped and as soon as he did the bridle went. Thankfully he has a long mane and I had to use it to keep my balance and keep him going. If I had a bridle I would have won outright." David "Dandy" Nicholls, trainer of Ya Malak and husband of winning jockey Alex Greaves, said "Ya Malak needs to be held up, he has got plenty of pace and Alex gave him a great ride. She will settle for a dead-heat and so will I." Both Nicholls and Greaves are former employees of Coastal Bluff's trainer David Barron.

Favored Cape Verdi (Ire) gained her second success from three lifetime starts with a narrow victory here. Embassy (GB) surged to a two-length lead at the eighth pole and looked set to prevail but Cape Verdi, under strong driving from jockey John Reid, came with a late burst to grab victory at the wire. Winning trainer Peter Chapple-Hyam said "I think she is top class, I have always said so. She's got natural speed, there are not many Caerleons that have. She will definitely get further, I am not worried about her going seven furlongs or even a mile." Cape Verdi's dam is a full sister to 1993 Breeders Cup Classic winner Arcangues. Both the winner and runner-up will be aimed at the G1 Shadwell Stud Cheveley Park S. at Newmarket Sept 30. The win improved Cape Verdi's odds for next year's 1,000 Guineas to between 8-1 and 10-1.
