TAKING A FLYER IN THE MALIBU

Unbeaten at seven furlongs, Early Flyer (Gilded Time) will attempt to make it three-for-three at the distance in Wednesday's GI Malibu S. at Santa Anita. But trainer Ron McAnally is anything but certain of victory. "The only horse I ever felt confident about, every time he'd run, was John Henry," trainer Ron McAnally said. "He was the only one. And until that day comes again, you just keep pluggin' along." Early Flyer may not match the achievements of McAnally's two-time Horse of the Year, but he has put together a very respectable record. The three-year-old, never off the board in eight starts, captured the GII San Vicente S. in February and the GIII Laz Barrera Memorial S. in May before going on the shelf for 5 1/2 months. He returned in time for the Nov. 17 GI Frank J. DeFrancis Memorial Dash and finished a solid second, beaten three lengths by Delaware Township. But he faces a tough one in Yonaguska (Cherokee Run). The Team Lukas runner, in the money in 12 of his 13 career starts, began the season with a victory in the seven-furlong GII Hutcheson S. at Gulfstream Park Jan. 27. Third in his next three starts--the Mar. 10 GIII Swale S., Apr. 11 GIII Lafayette S. and Oct. 7 GII Forest Hills H., he returned to his winning ways in his two most recent appearances. The dark bay beat older horses in the Oct. 27 GIII Sport Page H. at Belmont Park and, carrying 131 pounds, the Nov. 22 GII Fall Highweight H. at Aqueduct.

McCOY BRINGS £40 MILLION IN CHEER TO PUNTERS

Champion jumps jockey Tony McCoy, who recently secured his 1,500th career win, delivered a Christmas boost to punters at Ascot Saturday, winning five races on the card. Bookmakers will have to dish out over £40 million in winnings to his supporters after his phenomenal day, achieved against odds of nearly 127-1. William Hill spokesman David Hood said: "I almost wish the meeting hadn't got the go-ahead now. Tony's five winners will mean punters are queuing up on Boxing Day to collect in the region of £40 million in winnings; that's the entire betting industry's turnover for Saturday. Thank goodness Westender (Fr) got beaten or the liabilities would have been nearly half as much again and approaching the same magnitude as Dettori Day. What helped on Saturday was that the prices of Tony's winners were a lot shorter than Frankie's, but his popularity amongst punters who blindly follow a jockey is probably greater than Dettori's, who shared his support at the time with the likes of Kinane, Eddery and Fallon. Boxing Day will be interesting, because punters will be queuing to play up their winnings on McCoy's mounts and another day like Saturday will certainly be a Christmas cracker for them."

ISTABRAQ 1-4 TO MAKE WINNING COMEBACK

Irish bookmaking firm Cashmans has installed reigning champion hurdler Istabraq (Ire) (Sadler's Wells {USA}) as their 1-4 favourite to make his reappearance a winning one in the December Festival Hurdle at Leopardstown next Saturday Dec. 29. It was in the same event last year where Istabraq suffered his first-ever career fall. Trainer Aidan O'Brien told Racing Post: "The plan is to run Istabraq at Leopardstown on Saturday. He is fine and so far everything has gone well with him." Owner J P McManus added: "I spoke to Aidan after Istabraq had done a bit of work and he seemed very happy with the horse."

THE LAKE EFFECT Trainer Scott Lake became only the second trainer in U.S. racing history to saddle 400 winners in a single season when he sent out Skipjack Cove (Concern) to take the first race at Philadelphia Park yesterday afternoon. Lake, the nation's top conditioner in races won this year, follows in the footsteps of Hall of Famer Jack Van Berg, who accounted for 496 winners in 1976. "It's a tremendous thrill, a great feeling--the culmination of a lot of hard work," Lake said. "I was also happy to share it with those closest to me--my three assistants, Steve Krebs, Tim Hooper and Sam Righter all came in. My girlfriend [Jennifer Stisted] was here, and my daughter Emily." But he added, "Our goal at the beginning of the year was 495. We'll retool and give it another shot next year."

New Jersey Gets 141 Dates for 2002:

The New Jersey Racing Commission has awarded 141 dates to Thoroughbred racing in the state next year, but exactly when the Thoroughbreds will run is still up in the air. The New Jersey Thoroughbred Horsemen's Association had believed they had worked out a deal with the New Jersey Sports and Exposition Authority, which operates both Monmouth Park and the Meadowlands, but the deal fell through during Thursday's Commission meeting. Negotiations stalled when Pennwood Racing, which owns Freehold Raceway, a harness track less than 20 miles from Monmouth, demanded that Freehold be allowed to simulcast the racing from Monmouth, a move the NJTHA opposes. Dates for 2002 are expected to be announced during the next Commission meeting on Jan. 30. In related news, a bill containing a purse subsidy for New Jersey racing was approved by the Assembly Appropriations Committee Thursday. If signed by the governor, the bill will raise Jersey Thoroughbred purses by $11.7 million.

TRN to Return:

The Racing Network, run by Magna Entertainment Corporation, will be back on the air early next year, but perhaps not on the same scale as it was before shutting down this summer. After two years of operation, broadcasting at TRN was suspended at the end of July, 2001 because it did not attract the number of subscribers required to make the network a financial success. "What we're trying to do is telecast races, through satellite and cable, but that's not quite the same as bringing back [the Racing Network]," Magna President Jim McAlpine told the Los Angeles Times. MEC failed to work out a deal to get racing from the Magna tracks, including Gulfstream Park and Santa Anita, televised on the TV Games Network.

A HORSEPLAYER TO THE RESCUE

By Bill Finley

Hoping to do little more than figure out the second half of the daily double the other day at Suffolk Downs, Tim Sullivan was captivated by a horse named Lese Majeste. He represented so much of what is good about Thoroughbred racing and so much that is not so good. He was 11 years old and had made 190 career starts, exhibiting the fortitude and durability that are so special in the rare horse that can survive on little more than determination. But with no wins to show from his 31 starts on the year and unable to race competitively lately in the lowest level claiming races at Suffolk, the rugged Lese Majeste, Sullivan knew, was a prime candidate to meet a grisly end in a slaughterhouse.

It wasn't, of course, Sullivan's problem, but that didn't mean he couldn't do something about it. Because he had cashed a big bet a few days earlier and had a few extra dollars in his pocket, he figured he had no excuse to be apathetic. So, Lese Majeste is going to live happily ever after, thanks to a horseplayer with a huge heart.

Sullivan, a 60-year-old resident of Woodstock, New York, says he's a good handicapper, but he normally doesn't bet enough to make serious amounts of money. That didn't matter in the Falls City H. at Churchill. It was one of the most competitive stakes races run this year for older fillies and mares, but Sullivan was confident that Forest Secrets could upset Spain, Caressing, Unbridled Elaine and the rest. When she did just that, crossing the wire in front, at 22-1, Sullivan had the kind of betting afternoon all horseplayers dream about. Just about every ticket in his pocket was a winning one in a race that had played out like he drew it up beforehand on the blackboard. He made about $4,000, a lot of money for anyone, let alone a retired former civil servant.

Four days later, the 11-year-old Lese Majeste was entered in a $4,000 claimer at Suffolk Downs, the bottom of the barrel at the Boston area track but still a race he could not possibly win.

"I saw Lese Majeste [in the Racing Form]," Sullivan said. "He had run 189 times and was 0-for-31 during the year. I suddenly thought that I didn't want this horse to go to the butcher."

Sullivan sent an e-mail to Suffolk Downs management and it came to the attention of track announcer Larry Collmus. Collmus went to the horse's trainer, Carlos Figueroa, who trained Lese Majeste for his wife, Pearl, and helped broker a deal between the owner and the horseplayer. Sullivan bought Lese Majeste for $1,000.

"Everyone at Suffolk Downs was great to me," he said. "This horse, without getting too carried away, was a real sentimental favorite up there. There are a lot of pretty hard people at a place like that, but when they heard how he had been retired a lot of people let it be known how good they felt about it."

Also instrumental in the deal was trainer Lorita Lindemann, a former assistant to Figueroa. She had two other down-and-out horses, one named Dignify, the other Before the Race, and talked Sullivan into buying them, as well. He paid $1,000 total for Lindemann's horses.

Lese Majeste will be going to Tranquility Farm in California. The farm, which is funded by owners Gary and Betty Biszantz, and cares for retired race horses. Dignify and Before the Race will go to a Thoroughbred Retirement facility. The added expense of shipping the horses, estimated at $1,000, will also be paid by Sullivan.

Sullivan traveled to Suffolk Downs to see the horses before they were shipped off and to meet with Figueroa and Lindemann. It was there, though, he realized Lese Majeste, Dignify and Before the Race were not the only ones who had gained something from his deal.

"I didn't think of what I did as being noble," Sullivan said. "I thought of it as being something I should have been doing every year, buying a horse and retiring them. When I was able to give Lese Majeste a pat on the neck it felt better than any bet I had ever cashed."

His good deed done, Sullivan returned to his favorite activity, playing the horses. Cheap horses everywhere can take heart. He's looking to cash another big ticket and save another horse.

"It's something I'm going to do every year till the day I die; a year won't go by where I won't be trying to save a couple of them."

May his future include nothing but winners.
