COULONCES AGAIN TO THE FORE AT DONNY

The session-topping Wootton Bassett colt | Sarah Farnsworth

By Amy Lynam

DONCASTER, UK--The success of top race mare Laurens (Fr) (Siyouni {Fr}) has made the Goffs UK sales ground a very important place for her consignor, Anna Sundstrom of Coulonces Sales. Emotions ran high when the French-based consignor’s final offering of the week, a son of Wootton Bassett (GB), became the subject of an intense bidding battle between Goffs agent Richard Ryan, Shadwell Stud’s Angus Gold and Ross Doyle standing alongside Mick Flanagan. Ryan, on the phone, was finally declared successful with a bid of £280,000 and was quickly congratulated by Sundstrom.

The Swedish-born consignor later revealed that the emotional nature of the sale was increased by the fact that her mother is currently in hospital in France, and that the colt was bred by her parents. "This colt comes from a family we absolutely love, that we really believe in," she explained, adding, "He is such a lovely mover and has a brilliant attitude. He’s been shown so many times and never once said no--not in the heat, not in the rain. All top racehorses share a great mind; Laurens was the same."

Despite being sold by a French-based consignor, lot 438’s page resonated strongly with British buyers. Haras d’Etreham resident Wootton Bassett is himself a graduate of the Goffs UK, where he was bought by Bobby O’Ryan for £46,000. Cont. p2

DUKE OF HAZZARD DONE FOR THE YEAR

Fitri Hay’s progressive Duke of Hazzard (Fr) (Lope de Vega {Ire}) made it a stakes hat trick last weekend with a win in Goodwood’s G2 Celebration Mile, and trainer Paul Cole has decided that rather than take up an entry in the Sept. 8 G1 Prix du Moulin de Longchamp, the 3-year-old colt will be put away for the year.

"I think he has had quite a busy time," Cole said. "We are now thinking of another plan, and that plan is to look at the Lockinge and Queen Anne next year. His last two races have not been run to suit him, but he has still won. On Saturday it looked like he was never going to get a run. But he has what everybody wants: he is a horse with a great turn of foot. He has had a busy time, and I don't want to prejudice his chances next year by asking too much this year."

Duke of Hazzard made seven starts this campaign, finishing third and fifth adrift of Persian King (GB) (Kingman {GB}) in the G3 Prix Fontainbleau and G1 Poule d’Essai des Poulains before going unplaced in a Haydock handicap. He was fifth in Royal Ascot’s G3 Jersey S. before reeling off consecutive wins in the Listed Sir Henry Cecil S., the G3 Thoroughbred S. and the Celebration Mile. Cont. p6

Wootton Bassett went on to win the valuable Premier Yearling Stakes for Richard Fahey, following up in a £300,000 contest at Doncaster and achieving Group 1 glory in the Prix Jean-Luc Lagardere.

The session topper's dam, meanwhile, comes from the family of Kevin Ryan's stable star Brando (GB) (Pivotal {GB}) and top sprinter Reckless Abandon (GB) (Exchange Rate), who was bought at the Premier Sale for £24,000 by trainer Clive Cox.

Laurens was part of Coulonces's very first consignment at Goffs UK and, as several members of the Goffs team congratulated Sundstrom, it was clear that Coulonces is as important to Goffs UK as the sale is to the consignor.

"I love this place," Sundstrom said. "We've enjoyed selling here from day one. We're still learning what type of horse to bring, but most importantly, those we've sold have performed on the track.

"Each year, our consignment has produced a stakes horse." Sundstrom was joined by her daughter Moa at the sale, and her protege in fact offered her own yearling as part of their draft. Family is highly important to Sundstrom, she explained. "Our strength has always been our family bond," she said.

"This is the first time we haven't all been together at a sale and I rely on my parents so much. They will always give me an honest answer and offer constructive criticism on how to improve our product."

Sundstrom was delighted to hear that the colt will go into training with Roger Varian, as confirmed by Richard Ryan, who said, "He's been bought for a client of mine, who is an established English owner with horses in training in both Ireland and the UK. This colt was exquisite, probably the best colt of the day, and we thought he would particularly suit Roger Varian. He comes from a top vendor; hopefully he will be as good as Laurens."

Across the sales ground, the general consensus was that trade was strong and suitably so, with buyers constantly complementing the stock on offer. Strength in depth saw the final clearance rate come to 85%, on par with last year, with the average price increasing by 3% to £46,564. Goffs UK Managing Director Tony Williams said he was delighted with the sale’s final results.

"We have enjoyed another very successful Premier Sale and once again we have set a new record top price, £440,000, which followed last year's £380,000 record," he said. "Every year this sale takes another stride forward, it continues to evolve and attract new people and it's something from which we take immense satisfaction.

"The sale has had an amazing year on the track and that's instilling confidence in everyone to continue to invest in it and its development. Our vendors have taken another step up and sent us some superb individuals and the buyers, who have come to us from around the world, are taking things to a new level in the ring.

"The face of this sale is changing but its heart remains firmly focused on the racehorse and it's something that people are backing and enjoying the rewards that follow. We are indebted to everyone who has supported us, we wish them the very best of luck with their purchases and we look forward to welcoming everyone back to Doncaster for the Silver Yearling Sale tomorrow."

Fast Start For Mehmas

A first crop son of Tally-Ho Stud sire Mehmas (Ire) (lot 319) was widely touted as a possible highlight of the Goffs UK Premier Yearling Sale after receiving a dream update when half-brother Golden Horde (Ire) (Lethal Force {Ire}) took the G2 Richmond S. and followed up with a fine third in the G1 Prix Morny.

Shadwell Stud were keen to secure the Highclere Stud-consigned bay, who also counts listed scorer Exhort (GB) (Dutch Art {GB}) among his siblings, and after auctioneer Nick Nugent taunted Angus Gold with, "Don't look at me unless you are going to bid, as irresistible as that may be," Shadwell's Angus Gold conceded defeat to agent Oliver St. Lawrence.

Found outside the ring alongside Golden Horde’s owner, St. Lawrence revealed that his winning bid of £260,000 was made on behalf of Fawzi Nass. "He's a nice horse with a lovely update. We were the underbidder on Golden Horde so it made us especially keen to get this colt," St. Lawrence said. "Fawzi doesn't have a trainer in mind at the moment, but may eventually train the colt himself in Dubai and hopefully win the Golden Shaheen like Krypton Factor did."
Lady Carolyn Warren | Sarah Farnsworth

Shadwell Stud in no way left Doncaster empty-handed, ending the sale as leading buyers of 18 yearlings for a total of £1,893,000. Their most expensive purchase on Wednesday was lot 257, a son of promising first-season sire Cable Bay (Ire) offered by his base of Highclere Stud for whom Angus Gold went to £175,000. It marked an impressive profit on the colt, who is the first foal out of John and Jake Warren’s 7,500gns buy Bonhomie (GB) (Shamardal) who was covered in Cable Bay’s second year at stud at an advertised fee of £5,000.

Lynn Lodge Stud were another to capitalise on their investments, transforming their €62,000 foil pinhook into a £170,000 yearling. Lot 307 in question boasted a proven pedigree, even last winter, being a full-brother to dual stakes winner Extortionist (Ire) (Dandy Man {Ire}). Their shared sire needs no introduction, his success reaching as far as the U.S. and Hong Kong, and it is the latter where Extortionist’s brother will travel to. He was bought by the Hong Kong Jockey Club, whose buying team is now made up of legendary jockey Michael Kinane and French agent Crispin de Moubray, with the former active at Doncaster.

More of the Same For Murphy

"It’s easier to find gold where you’ve found it before, rather than digging another hole," was how Mick Murphy reasoned with the £170,000 price tag he paid for Longview Stud’s Muhaarar (GB) filly out of Fig Roll (GB) (Bahamian Bounty {GB}) (lot 332). The shrewd pinhooker, who operates under Longways Stables with his wife Sarah, is hoping lightning will strike twice with his latest purchase, a half-sister to talented 2-year-old Al Raya (GB) (Siyouni {Fr}). Murphy paid £90,000 for Al Raya at the 2018 edition of the Premier Yearling Sale and resold her at the venue’s breeze-up sale for £450,000.

Comparing the half-sisters Murphy said, "We were very lucky with the family last year and this filly looks like a bigger version of Al Raya. She has lovely, big, honest ears, which I like." Lot 332 comes from the second crop of Muhaarar, for whom Murphy believes the best is yet to come, explaining, "Muhaarar hasn’t had the fastest start at stud, but he wasn’t the most precocious himself, and this filly’s family are sharp, early types."

Another hoping to emulate previous success is Steve Parkin’s Clipper Logistics, whose best performer this season is Soldier’s Call (GB) (Showcasing {GB}), successful in the Group 2 Flying Childers S. last season and second to Battaash in last week’s G1 Nunthorpe S. at York.

It marked a tremendous result for James Cloney and Michael Nolan, who bred the expensive colt from a nomination fee of €12,500, out of a mare who was bought for 14,000gns by BBA Ireland. It was apt that Mehmas proved popular this week, with the sale known for producing talented juveniles and he one himself, the gutsy son of Acclamation taking two Group 2 contests as a 2-year-old. Placed in two Group 1’s, his form remains very current, as he had lowered the colours of Blue Point when winning the G2 Richmond S. Of his 30 yearlings offered, the Tally-Ho Stud sire closed trade with an average price of over £45,000.
Mick Murphy signing for a £170,000 Muhaarar filly | Sarah Farnsworth

Soldier’s Call was bought by Joe Foley, who went to £150,000 for another son of Whitsbury Stud stalwart Showcasing on Wednesday, in the shape of lot 253 from Rathbarry Stud.

The similarities don’t end with the sire, according to Foley, who said, “This colt reminded me of Soldier’s Call and is out of a similarly-fast mare. He comes from a great vendor in the Cashman and Woods families in County Cork and will now head to Ballyhane to be pre-trained, with a trainer to be decided in the spring.”

The February-born bay was a brave 100,000gns purchase by Abbeylands Farm last winter and on his resale, Abbeyland’s’s Franny Woods said, “He was a nice foal and I think he’s been very well bought today. He’s a gorgeous colt and looks an Ascot type—hopefully he’ll be just that for his new owners." Woods is also a key member of the Rathbarry team, and when questioned on trade over the two days, he said, “Trade has been solid for the right horse and these days, you need a quality horse no matter what sale you bring it to.”

GOFFS UK PREMIER YEARLING SALE DAY TWO

Lot Sex Sire Dam Price (£)
304 f Exceed and Excel (Aus) Dispel (GB) 100,000

Consigned by Whatton Manor Stud
Purchased by Shadwell Stud

This filly is the second foal out of Dispel (GB) (Oasis Dream (GB)), a half-sister to stakes winner Iromea (Ire) (Dansili (GB)) who is in turn a half-sister to Grey Lilas (Ire), winner of the G1 Prix du Moulin de Longchamp and dam of the dual French Classic winner Golden Lilac (Ire). FAH Bloodstock scooped up this April-born filly for €30,000 at Goffs November last year.

333 c Territories (Ire) Filona (Ire) 110,000

Consigned by Mountain View Stud
Purchased by A.C. Elliott, Agent

The fourth foal out of the stakes-placed Filona (Ire) (Motivator (GB)), this colt was a 45,000gn purchased by Good Will Bloodstock at Tattersalls December and thus turned a tidy profit on Wednesday. The 2-year-old out of the mare, Follia (GB) (Toronado (Ire)), has been placed since the catalogue was published.

336 c Adaay (Ire) Flemish School (GB) 115,000

Consigned by Grangemore Stud
Purchased by Shadwell Stud

This second foal out of the dual winner Flemish School (GB) (Dutch Art (GB)) was bought by Grangemore Stud for 38,000gn at Tattersalls last December and was one of a handful of yearlings by first-crop sire Adaay (Ire) (Kodiac (GB)) to sell well at this sale.

431 c Kodi Bear (Ire) Midnight Martini (GB) 90,000

Consigned by Aughamore Stud
Purchased by Clive Cox Racing

The first-crop Kodi Bears have turned some heads this week, and this one proved an excellent pinhook as well, having been bought as a short yearling from Goffs February for €25,000.

Cole suggested the early part of the colt’s season could have gone better if not for a lingering foot injury.

"He had this cavity last year; we treated it, and we thought we got away with it. He was cruising in the French 2000 Guineas, and he flattened out a little bit when he came off the bridle, and the same thing happened in the Jersey.

"I made a rather big mistake of sending him to race at Haydock, and you could say it was lucky rather than unlucky that his shoe came off, because it exposed the cavity. When horses are feeling things they can learn to pull up. So we put the blinkers on when we sorted it to help him concentrate, because he was getting a bit tired in feeling the problem before."

CORBAN’S SUCCESSFUL AFFILIATION WITH CAMBRIDGE

by Jo McKinnon

One of the most respected farm managers in New Zealand, Marcus Corban, has had a challenging month managing the care of now sadly deceased stallion Roaring Lion (Kitten's Joy {USA}). But that’s only one chapter in a long and illustrious career for the General Manager of Cambridge Stud.

After 38 years in the engine room of the well-oiled machine that is Cambridge Stud, Marcus Corban has seen and experienced almost every high and low there is with horses.

But nothing could prepare him for the darkest day in the famed New Zealand stud’s long and illustrious history last week when valuable and much loved shuttle stallion Roaring Lion died after a deadly bout of colic.

“I’m not a sook or one to show much emotion but the Roaring Lion death has blown me away,” said Marcus. “Losing Zabeel I could handle because he died naturally. We tried so many things with him (Roaring Lion) that worked and then to lose him was terrible. With what he went through I cannot imagine any other horse doing what he did.”

Roaring Lion fought for his life just like a lion right until the very end and his eventual passing deeply saddened the many people who were associated with him as a racehorse and stallion.

It was less than 48 hours after the tragedy when I interviewed Marcus for this story and he was busy preparing to host a stallion parade for 250 guests that afternoon.

“You can’t dwell, you have to move forward,” he said.

New chapter for Cambridge Stud

With the breeding season about to begin, the show must go on at the iconic thoroughbred nursery which is also in the midst of a huge redevelopment phase being led by its passionate new owners Brendan and Jo Lindsay.

“The way Brendan and Jo have handled the death of Roaring Lion has been unbelievable. Brendan gave a very emotional speech to staff which was from the heart. They have a real passion and drive to make Cambridge better.”

Marcus admits to having felt nervous about his future there when they first took over the ownership from Sir Patrick Hogan in April last year.

“I found it very hard because of the unexpected, not knowing what Brendan and Jo were going to be like. Once you have been in a one-man institution like Cambridge was, I was scared and nervous about what they were going to do and how I would react to it. It's been a big change for me, it's been incredible.”

Marcus now holds the key position of General Manager at Cambridge Stud. A wise appointment by the Lindsays considering the integral role he’s played in its success story for close to 40 years.

Learning from the best

During that time he learned a lifetime worth of horsemanship and tricks of the trade from one of the shrewdest operators in the global breeding industry.

Sir Patrick entrusted Marcus to run Cambridge for 25 years, a big responsibility for someone who admits he still had plenty to learn when he first started out in the industry.

“I was not a natural brilliant horseman but what I have learnt from him and the systems and eye for detail is amazing. He was methodical. Seven days a week, 24 hours a day, if it had to be done, it was done.”
Marcus was introduced to racing and breeding by his uncle Harry Skinner who was a trainer at Avondale. As a teenager, he helped Harry out by taking horses down to the track for him.

When Harry died, a chance meeting at his funeral set Marcus on the path to a long and successful stud farm career.

"Barney Myers was there and put me in touch with Jim Shannon and I soon started at Waikato Stud when Nelson Bunker Hunt owned it."

From the age of 18, Marcus was working full-time at Waikato Stud and has fond memories of those days that ignited his passion working with horses.

"Waikato was such a beautiful farm and to get up in the morning and walk around the property like that with mares and foals gave me a positive vibe about working and I have never lost that urge."

Early on in his career Marcus made the choice to explore the international world of racing and breeding and had a stint working in Ireland and also spent time working at Gainesway Farm in the US which he particularly enjoyed.

"I loved America. Over there I buddied up with the likes of Peter Orton, Tim Ferriss, Paul Shanahan and Hubie de Burgh. I made very good contacts with guys that have been friends ever since. That was a really good stepping stone for me."

Back home Marcus also worked for a period at Field House Stud under David Benjamin, whom he described as a "real go-getter". During that time he always kept a close eye on what was going on over at Cambridge.

The job of a lifetime

"Cambridge was next to us and in those days it was like an army camp. I thought 'this guy is going to go somewhere'.

“They were the first farm to have uniforms and one of the first farms to have an entertainment area. Patrick was a real showman."

Eventually, a local blacksmith by the name of Laurie Lynch helped set up a meeting between Marcus and Sir Patrick which led to the opportunity of a lifetime.

"I drove out to Cambridge and he said you can start on this day and the rest is history."

Together Marcus and Sir Patrick took Cambridge to unprecedented heights with one of their proudest achievements being the only stud farm in history to top the Magic Millions Yearling Sale, Inglis Australian Easter Yearling Sale and New Zealand Bloodstock Premier Yearling Sale all in the same year.

They also shared the heady days with champion stallions Sir Tristram (Ire) and his son Zabeel (NZ). Marcus got to know both horses like the back of his hand.

"Zabeel was an incredible animal. He had his ups and downs and I remember he kicked out at the end of a breeding season and cut his flexor tendon. He lived in a box for six weeks. A lot of stallions wouldn't get over that and he also had fertility issues that we fixed with treatment. He also had laminitis in his 20s and for an older stallion to show the guts and determination he had was amazing."

He isn't so warm in his words to describe Sir Tristram, a horse that taught him plenty about the challenging and the dangerous side of managing certain stallions.

"He was a grumpy old coot. You couldn't be in a box with him. You could never trust him and had to catch him over a gate. If he had been anywhere else people would probably not have coped but we worked out systems on how to handle it so that he couldn't get us.

"You needed to take your time. He took bits of skin off people. He got me once, but at the end of the day it wasn't life-threatening."

Marcus worked alongside Sir Patrick every single day and during the journey developed his own unique strengths as a horseman.

"I love foaling mares and in the end, I was one of only a few that he would let foal his mares. I did have a good knack for foaling I learned myself, however a lot of the systems--like how you manage a sick foal--were very much instilled by the way he ran things."

To this day, it's still his favourite part of the job.

"When they are born and sitting on the ground and the mares are there, that is what I love. Then the foal gets up and wanders around--it gives purpose to what you have done for the past year. Seeing them in good health gives you really good job satisfaction."
One horse he foaled down that would go on to become a champion racehorse and stallion was Octagonal (Zabeel) (NZ).

“He was a real cruiser. He was one of those horses, he was so relaxed. I always remember him for in those days Eight Carat was the queen of the farm because Patrick had paid so much for her from Robert Sangster. He had a great attitude.

“Then I remember when the Inghams looked at him at the sales. They never gave much away, but I remember old Jack loved him.”

Mentoring young talent

While many famous horses have been linked to Cambridge Stud, many well-known people have also spent time inside the gates there too. Such was the respect for the farm and its leaders that anyone serious about furthering their career would go there to work at some stage.

Marcus says mentoring young racing talent has always been a great passion of his.

“I love mentoring young people, Patrick did that with me when I first started. I have always been big on that. I have had some great people that have come through such as James Cummings, Mike Fleming, Vicky Leonard and Antony Thompson. I get a lot out of seeing these people go on and be successful.”

Mike Fleming credits the guidance of Marcus to making the move to Cambridge Stud, which eventually led to taking an opportunity in the Hunter Valley and establishing Bhima Thoroughbreds.

"If it wasn’t for Marcus I wouldn’t have gone to Cambridge Stud in the first place," said Fleming. "What I learned from Marcus in those four years allowed me to develop the horsemanship skills and management experience to set up on my own.

"Marcus is a wonderful judge of a horse and a very gifted horseman. If I was ever in trouble with a foaling, there is no other person in the world I would want in the paddock with me—he’s a genius when it comes to thinking clearly in a stressful situation."

TDN AusNZ's Vicky Leonard also credits Marcus for having a major role in shaping her career.

"Marcus was my first boss in the industry and the person who opened my eyes to the amazing career opportunities available globally," Leonard recalls. "He encouraged me to think big and gain experience from the best in the world."

"Marcus has been a wonderful mentor and friend for well over a decade now, and is still someone I rely on for honest feedback and advice. I know he has had this impact on the careers of many in the industry."

A survivor in a tough and ruthless industry, Marcus passes on the advice he has heeded himself to anyone that asks for it.

“I tell them to always look to see who is going to be the next big person in the industry and that’s how I chose Patrick. You have got to open your mind and see who is doing things.

“Look forward, don’t look back, and strive for perfection and look to the farms that are going to go ahead like Arrowfield, Newgate, Coolmore, Yulong and Woodside. There are plenty of opportunities if you want to target them.”

But above all that, Marcus says passion and a love of the horse is the key to success and they were the endearing qualities that shone through in the way that he handled recent events with Roaring Lion.

“If you don’t have that passion, well, you can’t be successful. I’m there all the time. I am not a workaholic but I don’t miss much and make sure the horse gets the best of everything,” he said.

ILLINOIS HORSEMEN BLINDSIDED BY DECISION NOT TO PURSUE GAMING AT ARLINGTON

by T.D. Thornton

After working in partnership with Illinois horsemen for over a decade to finally achieve passage of expanded gaming at racetracks, Churchill Downs, Inc. (CDI), the owner of Arlington International Racecourse, stunned the state’s racing community Wednesday by announcing that it intentionally missed this week’s deadline to apply for slot machines and table games at the track, citing the requirement of having to contribute gaming revenues to the Thoroughbred purse account as a competitive disadvantage that it did not want to undertake.

In addition, CDI said in the same press release that it would only be willing to guarantee live Thoroughbred racing at Arlington through 2021, “while longer-term alternatives are explored...including moving the racing license to another community in the Chicagoland area or elsewhere in the state.”

The Illinois Thoroughbred Horsemen’s Association (ITHA) countered with a press release of its own that said ITHA members were “profoundly disappointed” by CDI’s decision, which comes against the backdrop of CDI’s 61% ownership stake in Rivers Casino Des Plaines, a gaming facility about 25 minutes southeast of Arlington that is considered the dominant casino in the region.

TDN Q & A WITH CHAD BROWN by Bill Finley

Chad Brown has steamrolled his way through the sport this year, even more so than what has become normal for the 40-year-old trainer. He has the leading candidate for Horse of the Year in Bricks and Mortar (Giant’s Causeway), swept the four graded races on the Arlington Million Day card, including all three Grade Is, and is running away with the Saratoga training title. The TDN sat down with Brown to catch up on the latest news from his stable and to get his thoughts on how and why he has become the sport’s most successful trainer.

TDN: Bricks and Mortar has never raced at a mile-and-half and is three for three at a mile. His perfect distance appears to be a mile-and-quarter, but with no Breeders’ Cup turf race available at that distance, which direction are you going to go in--the GI Breeders’ Cup Mile or the GI Breeders’ Cup Turf?

CB: I’m unsure at this point. I have not decided. He had his first piece of work back [Monday] and just went an easy half mile.

Illinois Horsemens Blindsided by Arlington

“The company evidently plans to instead abandon its commitment to racing in Illinois and focus solely on its stake in the Rivers Casino and potentially other Illinois casinos not yet developed,” the ITHA release stated. “Churchill has snubbed, not only the working men and women of Thoroughbred horse racing whose collective livelihood depends on live racing, but also all of the elected officials it has so intensely lobbied over the last decade.”

On the national level, a common reaction on social media and in racing-related internet forums was that Arlington is about to become the latest example of CDI maximizing its gaming holdings at the expense of its Thoroughbred racetrack roots.

Under CDI’s stewardship so far this century, Hollywood Park in California was sold and the land was eventually developed, and CDI now runs the former Calder Race Course in Florida as a casino while leasing out the bare-bones racing aspects of the facility to The Stronach Group to fulfill its state-mandated Thoroughbred dates requirement.

David McCaffrey, the executive director of the ITHA, told TDN via phone Wednesday that his organization was blindsided by the sudden switch in plans after working together with CDI for so many years to finally get the sweeping Illinois Gaming Act passed in June.

Asked if he could pose just one question to CDI’s executives about the decision not to pursue gaming at Arlington, McCaffrey did not hesitate in answering: “Do you give a damn about racing?”

The only other two Illinois Thoroughbred tracks, Hawthorne Race Course (35 miles south of Arlington) and Fairmount Park (300 miles downstate in Collinsville), have already met the racino application deadline and are moving ahead with plans for the maximum statutory allotment of gaming amenities at each venue.

R. Alex Rankin, the chairman of the board of directors for CDI, did not return a Wednesday voicemail message prior to deadline for this story requesting the opportunity to ask follow-up questions beyond what the company issued in its press release.

Bill Carstanjen, CDI’s chief executive, said in that release that “the economic terms under which Arlington would be granted a casino gaming license do not provide an acceptable financial return and we cannot responsibly proceed.”

Noting the soon-to-increase competition in the Chicago casino market (which includes CDI’s own interest in Rivers), Carstanjen added that “Arlington would enter this market with an effective tax rate that would be approximately 17.5 [to] 20% higher than the existing Chicagoland casinos due to contributions to the Thoroughbred purse account.
“This disadvantage in a hyper-competitive gaming market, coupled with substantial licensing and reconciliation fees and new, unviable horse racing requirements in the Illinois Gaming Act, makes construction of a casino at Arlington financially untenable.”

Carstanjen continued, “Arlington will conduct horse racing in 2020 and 2021 and also will apply for a sports betting license while longer-term alternatives are explored. CDI and the team at Arlington will continue to work with legislative and community stakeholders.”

One theory reported by several Chicago-area news outlets is that CDI is using its non-application for racino licensure and the threat of closure as leverage to get the Illinois Legislature to make changes to the Gaming Act that would be more favorable to the corporation’s bottom line.

But the ITHA’s McCaffrey said that if it is CDI’s intent to get the law changed, it would have made more sense to apply for racino status first to ensure that the track had a foothold under the current statute.

“If they wanted to do that, they should have at least applied for the license and then tried to [renegotiate the law]. But the fact that they missed the deadline knowingly and completely is very telling,” McCaffrey said.

“Their silence [while Hawthorne and Fairmount were openly announcing their own racino plans] was also telling,” McCaffrey continued. “The conventional wisdom was that they were at least going to apply for the license. Whether they proceeded with it was the unknown. I’m surprised that they didn’t apply for it. Now, per the statute, they’re taken out of the equation. They’ve left themselves no option to turn the place into a racino under current law. They’ve closed the door.”

McCaffrey said the next move for Illinois horsemen is unclear. In the ITHA press release, the organization advocated for CDI to be stripped of current tax breaks and the chance at future gaming privileges.

“Churchill immediately should be denied the enormous financial advantages it enjoys by virtue of its now-annulled commitment to Illinois racing,” the ITHA release stated. “Those include Arlington’s considerable property tax break ($2.47 million this year), the track’s recapture subsidy ($4.47 million in 2019 alone, straight from horsemen’s purses), and the chance to apply for a sports betting license linked to Arlington (a form of gaming that will do nothing to benefit purses).

Added McCaffrey: “I have to think that there are a lot of legislators [who are miffed] after being lobbied for 12 years by Arlington Park to get this thing passed. I have to think there are some legislators who are going to think that they’ve had the rug pulled out from under them.”

The Chicago Sun-Times quoted both the current and former Illinois governors on their takes on CDI’s announcement.

Current Gov. J.B. Pritzker said the move was “a significant reversal” on the legislation he shepherded, which he said was designed to allow “the racing industry to flourish.”

Former Gov. Jim Edgar told the Sun-Times that CDI should sell Arlington to another operator.

“Churchill is a business, and I think it’s pretty obvious they’re in the casino business. They own a big chunk of the casino down the road, and they’d rather do that.”

CB: He went fine, but I haven't reached any decision yet about which direction we'll go, either stretching him out or cutting him back. I'm not sure if he will run again before the Breeders' Cup. We haven't ruled anything out yet, but I'm a couple of weeks away from deciding. Nothing is set in stone.

TDN: One of the most interesting developments over the last few years in your career has been the reintroduction of Peter Brant to racing after an absence of about 17 years. Obviously, you two have been quite successful together. How did this come together? Did he contact you? Did you reach out to him?

CB: He contacted me and I went for an interview with him and we talked quite a bit. I could tell right away that he had a vast knowledge of the game and he was very interested in what had changed and what had stayed the same. And shortly thereafter he contacted me and said he wanted to get together with me and do some business together and it's grown from there.

TDN: Did he tell you why he wanted to get back into racing after all those years?

CB: At the time that I interviewed with him, he was injured in a polo match and he indicated that he probably needed to slow down so far as the amount of his participation in polo and perhaps not play anymore at all. And so he was looking to get back in Thoroughbreds.

He wasn't quite sure at the time of how involved he'd get, but he wanted to shift back to the Thoroughbreds, just start together and to see how it went.

TDN: Having won races like the GI Champagne S., the GI Preakness S., the GI Haskell Invitational, and the GI Alabama S., you're no longer regarded as just a turf expert. However, if you look at your record, the races that are most prominently missing from your resume are races like the GI Kentucky Derby, the GI Belmont S., the GI Travers S., and the GI Breeders' Cup Classic. How important is it to you to win those kinds of races? Or are you just happy to just keep winning races no matter what surface they're on?

CB: No, our business is focused on winning the Derby and some of these other major dirt races we haven't won yet. But those things just take time. We're starting our 12th year in business. We have already won a lot of big dirt races. But we have a huge turf operation and that's something I'm not going to peel back or shift away from. I'm trying to add more dirt prospects. We've been doing that over the last few years and I think it's going to continue to evolve that way.

TDN: You talk a lot about how highly you regard your employees, from the hot walkers to the assistant trainers. How do you attract top quality people? Also, I hear your turnover rate is very low.

CB: I have an enormous respect for our staff from every position. I've gone out of my way to constantly use the platform we've had for the last three years at the Eclipse Awards to try to thank as many people as I can and it's genuine because it's such a team effort. I think it's a two-way street when it comes to developing your teammates, co-workers and, yes, we have some of the most talented people in the country work on our horses. I see some other fellow trainers at the top with the same people working for them for a long, long period of time and I think they're fabulous as well. I see the see this with people like Bob Baffert, Bill Mott, Todd Pletcher, Shug McGaughey, Kiaran McLaughlin. I see some of the same people since I came on the racetrack still with those guys. It's no different from us. I'm very pleased with our team and it takes training them just like I train the horses, and I think they'd say they've learned quite a bit from me. I think we've made them better at their jobs, but you have to have a high learning curve and a lot of talent to receive that information and use it and get better.

Without my team and without their extraordinary skill sets, whether they came to our company with them or learned them or honed them with us, there's no way that we'd be able to have these types of seasons we've been cranking out. And, yes, we have extremely low turnover. One thing I learned from Bobby Frankel is that you should take really good care of everybody who works for you.

1/4% CHECK-OFF PROGRAM ENROLLMENT - CLICK, COMPLETE AND ENROLL TODAY

Breeding Stock sellers may enroll in the voluntary NTRA 1/4% Check-off Program that helps fund the NTRA’s federal legislative effort in Washington, DC. To contribute, sellers should return a completed enrollment form either to their consignor or directly to the sale company.

Keeneland Catalog Deadline is Sept. 3

Sellers may contribute 1/4 of one percent of the sale price ($2.50 for every $1,000) of each horse sold at major breeding stock sales and have the option of enrolling all or just some of their sale horses.

The NTRA’s federal legislative team targets issues that have a direct and material effect on Thoroughbred industry participants and their business activities, whether those activities relate to racing, breeding or pari-mutuel wagering. The team’s success depends on industry-wide participation in the 1/4% Check-off Program.

Contact the NTRA’s Joe Bacigalupo at (859) 422-2677/joeb@ntra.com for more information.
TDN: What you accomplished on GI Arlington Million Day, sweeping all four graded stakes, including the three Grade I races, has to be the training feat of the year. How do you rank that among your career accomplishments?

CB: It was a really great feeling. You plan off in the distance for a big day of racing like that, which we always do for that big day of racing at Arlington. Then you see all of the planning and hard work by our team and the consistency of the horses in the morning doing what we ask them to do and then everything comes together the way it did. To win all four races was one of our greatest days as a team since we've been in business and it was extremely rewarding. I love going to Arlington and that was a special day that I'll never forget.

TDN: Because you were once his assistant, most people consider Bobby Frankel your mentor. But a lot of people seem to forget that you also worked for Shug McGaughey. You and McGaughey were the human stars last Saturday. He won the GI Runhappy Travers S. and you won five races, including two graded stakes. What did you learn from McGaughey while working for him?

CB: Shug has always been an incredibly patient trainer, especially with these young horses. I learned quite a bit just watching, observing him. When those big horses identify themselves, he's arguably one of the best managers in racing. When I worked for Shug, I just started out at the bottom as a hotwalker. I was there for some summers and a little bit full time when I got out of college. I believe the last year I worked for him was in 2001. I have great admiration for him and I was very happy to see him and Mr. Farish win the Travers. I was fortunate to work for two legendary, Hall-of-Fame trainers that did things the right way.

TDN: I think one of the things that makes you good, and this would go for probably anybody who's successful, is your competitive nature. You won five races on Travers Day and two stakes races, but you did not win the Travers and neither of your two entrants hit the board. Do you go home on a day like that thinking what a great day I had or do you go home focused on and miffed by the fact that you were unable to win the biggest race of the day?

CB: In a constructive way, I always go home focusing on the races we didn't win and why. Not so much in a disappointed way. I think I do it in a constructive way. I've left Breeders' Cup days the last few years after winning some races and, while flying home, I'll go through the ones we didn't win and think about why. That's part of just trying to get better and being competitive. On Travers Day, there were some horses that just didn't show up. As for the Travers, that was a race that, afterward, I was trying to figure out if there was anything we could've done differently. Yes, Annals of Time (Temple City) won the [GI] Sword Dancer for us, but Ya Primo (Choi) (Mastercraftsman {Ire}) was last in the same race and he's a good horse. How does that happen? So, I go back to the drawing board. There's always some post-mortem work to do.

TDN: There's still so much talk about the super trainer concept and whether or not the super trainers are bad for racing. You've become the poster child for super trainers. To those who say you are bad for the game, what is your rebuttal?

CB: It's free enterprise. I started with basically nothing, 10 horses and two clients, and I worked hard. I was lucky enough to learn from some great people and I've grown my accounts. I've attracted owners and we've grown. I'm playing by the rules. I have owners in my barn that came to me that wanted to buy five horses a year and now they might have 20 or 30. So if we're increasing commerce in the game, everybody's doing good. It's trickling down to the breeders, it's trickling down to the racetracks for betting and takeout. There are a lot of great trainers out there and it just comes down to how you structure your business, taking care of your clients and understanding what their goals are. When I go to Keeneland in a couple of weeks and go buy horses, that's all money I've raised over the years trying to do it. That's good commerce. I don't feel like our stable has gotten bigger because all the owners are running to us. There are a lot of top owners in the game that I don't have horses for and I've never had horses for. We've grown our accounts internally because our owners are having success.
There are owners who came to us years ago that weren’t doing that well and then they came into our barn and, for whatever reason, we’ve had success and now they want to buy more horses and do more business in the game instead of leaving the game. Do you tell them, well, you finally found your trainer that you’re doing well with, but you can only have so many horses with him? I don’t think that’s the right message to send to owners that want to spend money in the game. I think it’s a fair conversation. I don’t answer that in any defensive way, but I just look at it practically and I think that the larger stables and larger owners are our friends in the industry. I think a more constructive approach would be to bring them to the table saying, how can we keep everybody in business? What can we do for smaller stables, meaning owners or trainers, to help them flourish or grow their businesses? Is there something they can learn from us? Can they run their business more efficiently? Are there training techniques or business structures that they can use to do better? Should we give some subsidies to some trainers to give them a competitive advantage in the marketplace with their pricing until they get up to a certain level? I’m open to all of that, but I don’t know about just handing people horses or limiting restriction of free trade. I don’t think that’s the right message for our industry.

TDN: Anybody who is doing well in America with grass horses is getting a lot of them from Europe, yourself included. A horse like Sistercharlie (Ire) (Myboycharlie (Ire)) comes to mind. What’s the process? Is there any one particular person you use over there? What kind of horses are you looking for?

CB: We have a pretty vast network depending on what regions of the world we’re looking at horses. There are a few different people in Europe we’d use depending on where they are and what their contacts are. We’re buying horses in South America now, too. Sometimes it comes down to the client and who they have a relationship with. And I’ll tell you one thing that’s common in all areas is that it’s getting harder to buy horses. There are fewer horses now racing abroad that are owned by people that are really willing to sell them or at least willing to sell them at a fair price. It’s getting very competitive to buy the horses. It’s an evolving market that you have to make adjustments to. We have had to go over and start buying yearlings at their sales. If we can’t buy these horses when they’re racing already, why don’t we try to buy them unraced and bring them over because we know a lot of their blood might be a little better than our blood when it comes to turf racing.

TDN: If I could ask you to limit it to one goal and one goal only of things that you still want to achieve in horse racing, what would that be?

CB: Winning the Travers.

TDN: More than the Kentucky Derby?

CB: By a nose. I could feel it last week with this Travers. I thought we had a good chance, especially with Highest Honors (Tapit) and Saturday I just felt really good about that horse. I just know the feeling I had when they went in the gate. The feeling I had, with my family and friends there, that was confirmation of how important that race is to me after growing up in the area and spending so much time at Saratoga since I was very young. This is something I really want to do. So if there’s one race I want to win more than any other, that would be the race at the top of my list.

Fighting Seabee became the first stakes winner for his freshman sire Summer Front (War Front) with a decisive score in the GIII With Anticipation S. at Saratoga Wednesday. A debut winner going a mile on the lawn at Ellis Park July 6, the bay colt was bet down to 5-1 from a 10-1 morning-line quote. Seizing the early advantage, the bay avoided trouble as a slow-breaking Our Country (Constitution) rushed up and attempted to push through on the fence, interfering with Tuggle (Point of Entry) and Andesite at the back of the compact bunch heading into the first turn. New York-bred Fly Fly Away (First Samurai), a half to talented turf sprinter Disco Partner (Disco Rico), pressed from a head second on the fence as Fighting Seabee walked the dog through opening splits of :24.21 and :50.50. Fly Fly Away called it quits in the lane and Field Pass took up the baton, but proved no match for the pacesetter, who had plenty left in the tank. Fighting Seabee kept on finding to hold that one at bay.

“We got lucky,” said winning rider Brian Hernandez. “Going into the first turn, we were on the lead and I heard a couple of guys holler back there but in a short field that can happen. No one really wanted to go and we all were bunched up. Luckily, we were on the right horse that was able to put us in a good position. Going into the second turn, I let him out and he picked it up just to where we were able to get moving and he was able to hold all of those other horses off. He crossed the wire with his ears up, so you got to be confident about that.”

Pedigree Notes:
Runnymede Farm purchased Broke N Dixie for $27,000 at the 2015 Keeneland November sale. Fighting Seabee is the unraced mare’s only reported foal. The winner’s second dam is stakes winner Blushing Dixie, who is a half-sister to multiple stakes winner Queen Greeley (Mr. Greeley). Blushing Dixie produced a filly by American Pharoah in 2018 and a colt by Cairo Prince this year.

ROUTE TO JAPAN COULD GO THROUGH SARATOGA FOR MONGOLIAN GROOM
by Mike Kane
SARATOGA SPRINGS, N.Y. – With a goal of getting to Japan and a nice pay day at Chukyo Racecourse, trainer Enebish Ganbat is at Saratoga Race Course with Mongolian Groom (Hightail), for Saturday’s GI Woodward S.

“It’s an unorthodox move to be sure, shipping to upstate New York from California and paying a supplemental entry fee to run in another Grade I race two weeks after his gelding finished third in the GI Pacific Classic at Del Mar. Ah, but Ganbat is not constrained by norms. He is a trailblazer, who came to America from Mongolia in 2010 to train Thoroughbreds for his friend, businessman Ganbaatar Dagvadorj. Five years later, their Mongolian Saturday won the GI Breeders’ Cup Turf Sprint and the little-known Mongolian Stable was thrust into the international spotlight at Keeneland.

Though Mongolian Groom has won two of 14 career starts, he has emerged from the maiden-claiming ranks into capable black type-earning graded stakes horse in California, where Ganbat is now based. He picked up a third in the GI Santa Anita H. Apr. 6, was fourth, a length from third in the GI Gold Cup at Santa Anita, second by a length to Catalina Cruiser (Union Rags) in the July 20 GI San Diego H. and was third, a neck back of runner-up Draft Pick in the Pacific Classic Aug. 17.

Pleased with the performance at Del Mar, Ganbat said that he was stunned by what he found when he started going over Mongolian Groom the morning after the Pacific Classic.

"The horse was so fresh, strong," Ganbat said. "He looked like he was ready to run again the next day. I started looking for good races. I didn’t know this race. I was looking. ‘The Woodward? Two weeks? OK, let’s go.’"

Mongolian Groom was shipped to Saratoga Sunday, has taken up residence in trainer Chad Summers’s barn on the backside and has gone to the track every morning this week. He will be ridden by Luis Saez for the first time in the $750,000 Woodward.

Following Mongolian Saturday’s victory in the Breeders’ Cup--and the post-race celebration in traditional Mongolian garb--Ganbat and Dagvadorg raced the gelding in Hong Kong and Europe, as well as in North American. A goal for Mongolian Groom this year is the G1 Champions Cup, the 1 1/8-miles dirt race at the track near Nagoya with a projected winner’s share of $869,565. Plus the Japanese Racing Association is offering bonuses to attract international runners. Should the winner of the Woodward win the Champions Cup, he would receive an additional $700,000.

Ganbat, a big, affable man with an easy laugh who left an engineering job to train horses, said it was a combination of factors that encouraged him to ship to Saratoga.

"Number one was that the next day after the Pacific Classic, the horse was looking great," he said. "The second was when I saw the Woodward on this list for the Japanese race, why not try? It’s a pity because when I decided, the nominations closed the day before. The nominations closed on the 17th and I made the decision on the 18th.”

That one day cost Mongolian Stable $11,250 to supplement. Ganbat purchased the horse for $12,000 at the 2017 OBS April 2-year-old sale. It was an impulse buy, he said and had nothing to do with how the horse bred by Calumet Farm did in his public work.

"The breeze doesn’t matter. I never see them," Ganbat said. "All these babies breeze very fast. Mostly I want to see how they are moving, the conformation, the hair, eyes, everything. I liked him. That time I didn’t come to the sale to buy a colt. We wanted to buy a few fillies for racing and in the future to become a broodmare. But when I saw him, I decided to buy him.”

It took some time for Ganbat to get a handle on what Mongolian Groom might be. He twice ran for $30,000 on the dirt then broke his maiden on turf. However, he has been far back in his two turf races since. Ganbat says that Mongolian Groom has improved with distance and believes that adding blinkers three races ago has helped him stay focused.

For Ganbat, the Woodward could be a step on a journey to Japan.

“We couldn’t win the Santa Anita H.,” he said. “The Gold Cup we could not win. The Pacific Classic we could not win. Now we are left with this one. This is what I want. It has always been my dream to win the GI Kentucky Derby and a big race in Japan. In Japan, all the Sumo champions are Mongolians. I want to show them that trainers can do it in Japan.”
DEL MAR FALL STAKES WORTH $1.95 MILLION

The Del Mar Thoroughbred Club’s fall racing meet will be highlighted by 14 stakes races worth $1.95 million. Nine of the 14 stakes are graded events, including the Nov. 30 GI Hollywood Derby and the Dec. 1 GI Matriarch S. Both races are worth $300,000 this year.

“We think our fall meet has found a good groove now, not only in California, but with horsemen across the country,” said Del Mar’s executive vice president of racing Tom Robbins. “Interest in our overall schedule in general and our stakes races in particular has resonated with both our locals and major outfits as far away as New York and Kentucky. We’re expecting a steady fall session with some highlight racing adding a special pizzazz to it all.”

The stakes program also includes a pair of Grade II races, the $200,000 GII Hollywood Turf Cup to be run Nov. 28 and the $200,000 GII Seabiscuit H. to be run Nov. 30.

The 15-day Bing Crosby Season runs from Nov. 8 through Dec. 1.

Making a Difference for Five Decades: Columbus Horse Racing Steward Bob Pollock

“It’s just one of the hundreds of stories Pollock can recount from his 50 years in the horse racing industry. He’s back in Columbus again this summer for his 10th straight year after a break of more than a decade had him running a track in San Antonio. Pollock actually retired a few years back but couldn’t stay put.” Nate Tenopir, The Columbus Telegram

MITOLE CARRYING ON THE LEGACY OF
EDWARD COX JR.  By Bill Finley

“Inside the Winner’s Circle, Presented by Keeneland” is a series showcasing graduates of the Keeneland September sale who have gone on to achieve success on racing’s biggest stages.

When buyers looked at Mitole (Eskendereya), the recent winner of the GI Forego S. at Saratoga, at the 2016 Keeneland September Sale, they must have overlooked something, as he sold for just $20,000 (video). It might have been that his sire, Eskendereya, had not yet had a chance to establish himself, and consignor Reiley McDonald of Eaton Sales admitted that the then-yearling had some minor issues. But perhaps buyers should have paid more attention to who had bred the horse, Edward Cox Jr. After all, history had proven that if you buy something bred by Cox, you stood a very good chance of winding up with a very good horse.

Cox passed away in March and Mitole may go down as the last major star bred by him. In fact, the horse is so fast and in such good form right now, he may, in time, be regarded as the best horse Cox ever bred.

Along with the late Warner L. Jones, he co-bred Irish champion Woodman (Mr. Prospector), $3-million earner, as well as multiple Grade I winner Marquetry and 1989 G1 Irish 2000 Guineas winner Shaadi (Danzig). He also bred and raced Classy Cathy, a winner of three Grade I races.

Cox, who was a commodities trader, got out of racing in 1988, but came back in 2006. He associated with two farms, Claiborne and Hermitage. Mitole was raised at Hermitage.

“He never really told me why he got out back in the eighties or why he came back, but I think he missed the action,” said Hermitage’s General Manager Bill Landes. “Cox was his own man. He did the pedigrees that he liked and the stallions that he liked. Very rarely could I dissuade him or turn him one way or another. On occasion, maybe one of out five or 10 suggestions that I gave him, he would take me up on. He really had an idea of what he liked pedigree-wise. He was very enamored with the Phipps mares and also enamored with the Windfield mares, particularly the Vice Regent mares.”

“We had a great time for Ed for many years,” McDonald said. “In the eighties, we sold a number of top horses for him. Then Ed stepped out of the game for a while and then came back in the mid-2000s and started to acquire mares again. We would sell the horses who were raised predominantly at Bill Landes’s place, Hermitage Farm in Louisville. Claiborne started to sell the ones they raised for Ed.

“Ed just loved the game. He liked the fun of it. He loved racing and he loved staying ahead of everyone else. He was the first to call and feel you out on a rumor he heard or to find out the nitty-gritty of any horse situation. He was just a wonderful guy. He was very good to a lot of people in the horse business.”

As good as Cox was as a breeder, it also sometimes pays to be lucky, as he did his best to sell Mitole’s dam, Indian Miss (Indian Charlie), a horse he both bred and owned. She ran third in her debut in a maiden special weight race at Keeneland and then fifth at the same level at Churchill Downs. According to Landes, Indian Miss had to be retired after developing a chip in her knee and Cox tried to sell her for $10,000. The best offer he got was $5,000, but Cox would not accept it and decided instead to breed the mare to Eskendereya.

No one was expecting to break the bank with Mitole at the Keeneland sale, but McDonald and Landes were both surprised the colt didn’t sell for more. McDonald believes that, among other things, people overreacted to what were a few minor problems the horse had. These were the notes he had compiled on the horse before the sale: “He had lucencies in both knees and an elongated sesamoid behind from old ‘baby fracture’.

“He had whole bunch of little things wrong with him,” McDonald said. “But he was a nice physical horse. Physically, he had the frame, he had the kind of 2-year-old look that the guys all like. I don’t think there was anything major but, there were a lot of little things.”

He was bought by Chestnut Valley Farm, which sold him at the OBS April 2-Year-Old sale the following year. There, he sold for $140,000 to his current owners, William and Corinne Heiligbrodt.

Mitole, who is trained by Steve Asmussen, broke his maiden by 10 lengths in his third start. Two starts later, he picked up his first stakes win, a nine-length tally in the Bachelor S. at Oaklawn. But it was not until the GIII Count Fleet Sprint H. at Oaklawn that he showed his star power. Facing off against Whitmore (Pleasantly Perfect), a Grade I stakes winner who had won the two previous runnings of the Count Fleet, he prevailed easily, by 2 3/4 lengths. He followed that with wins in the GI Churchill Downs S. and the GI Metropolitan H., before running third in the GI Alfred G. Vanderbilt H.

He was beaten 7 1/2 lengths in the Vanderbilt, so whether or not he could redeem himself in the Forego was very much a part of the story line. And that’s exactly what he did. He was in total control in the stretch, winning by three lengths.

“He was never one to jump up and down and scream, but he would have been quite proud in what this horse is doing,” Landes said. “He wouldn’t be bragging or boasting, but he would have been so proud.”

Hermitage has been around since 1937 and Landes has worked there since 1977. Dark Star, the only horse to beat Native Dancer, is a Hermitage product. Others include Woodman, Northern Trick and more recently, Eclipse Award winner and Keeneland September graduate West Coast (Flatter).

“This guy, Mitole, might be the fastest horse ever to come off of Hermitage Farm,” Landes said.

That’s quite a compliment, to the horse and to his breeder.

PROUD CITIZEN DEBUTANTE BACKS UP BILLING, NAMED RISING STAR AT THE SPA

Indian Pride’s reputation preceded her heading into Wednesday’s fourth race at Saratoga and she ran to the billing, romping in frontrunning style to earn ‘TDN Rising Star’ status for Brereton Jones and Chad Brown. Touting herself in the morning with an array of speedy local breezes, highlighted by a five-furlong gate move in :59 3/5 (2/13) Aug. 3, the homebred was crushed in the wagering and broke sharply as a 3-5 favorite. Showing the way through a :22.19 quarter, the bay felt light pressure from Rapido Gatta (Adios Charlie) as she threw down a :45.36 half-mile split. Soon after straightening for home though, Indian Pride made short work of her pursuer, and slammed the door past the furlong grounds before coasting home an eight-length victress in a sharp 1:09.45. Rapido Gatta just held for second.

The winner is a half to Biofuel (Stormin Fever), HotY, Ch. 2yo Filly & Ch. 3yo Filly-Can, MGSW & MGISP, $781,091; and ‘TDN Rising Star’ Tu Endie Wei (Johar), Ch. 2yo Filly-Can & GSW, $528,005. Her dam, an unraced half to GSW Dansil (Silver Hawk), has an unraced juvenile Creative Cause colt named Imperial Presence, a yearling colt by Runhappy and a weanling Gun Runner colt. She was bred to Quality Road this spring.
THURSDAY INSIGHTS: BAFFERT UNVEILS EXPENSIVE QUALITY ROAD FILLY AT DEL MAR

2nd-DMR, $61k, Msw, 2yo, f, 1m, 5:30 p.m. ET

Bob Baffert saddles GINGHAM (Quality Road) in the second event at Del Mar Thursday afternoon. The bay filly was acquired by Sarah Kelly for $420,000 at the 2018 Keeneland September Sale. Her dam Chapel (Pulpit) is a full-sister to SW Senada (Pulpit) and a half-sister to GISP Arthur’s Tale (Bernardini) and SP War Hoot (War Chant). Chapel is out of the MGSW and $865,705 earner Owlsey (Harlan). Gingham has recorded an impressive worktab in the mornings at Del Mar, including a five-furlong breeze out of the gate in :59 3/5 (2/43) Aug. 15. She recently drilled six panels in company with the unraced $500,000 KEESEP buy Ragtime Blues (Union Rags) in 1:13 flat (1/2) Aug. 23 (Click here to watch XBTV video). TJCIS PPs

IN ORDER OF PURSE:

1ST BLACK-TYPE WIN. O/B-KMN Racing (CA); T-Jerry Hollendorfer; J-Mike E. Smith. $57,000. Lifetime Record: 2-2-0-0, $77,280. *1/2 to Grecian Fire (Unusual Heat), GSW, $408,202; and Sneaking Out (Indian Evening), SW & GSP, $271,331. Third SW for freshman sire (by Medaglia d'Oro).

2--Cholula Lips, 120, f, 2, Empire Way--Sweet Lips Pooh, by Rio Verde. ($3,700 RNA 2yo '19 CTBAJA). O-Terry C. Lovingier & Amanda Navaarro; B-Terry C. Lovingier (CA); T-Mike Harrington. $19,000.

3--Smiling Shirlee, 120, f, 2, Smiling Tiger--Whobetterthanus, by Grand Slam. O-Rusty Brown, Philip Lebherz & Alan Klein; B-Premier Thoroughbreds LLC (CA); T-Jeff Bonde. $12,000.

Margins: 1 1/4, 2 1/4, 2 1/4. Odds: 8.60, 8.50, 13.00. Also Ran: Wise Rachel, Unchain Her Heart, Bulletproof One, Vegan. Scratched: I Want One, Roses for Laura.

Been Studying Her, a first-out winner at Sacramento, sat off a speed duel and rallied to a victory in the California-bred Generous Portion S. at Del Mar, becoming the third black-type winner for her freshman sire.

Away well as a distant co-second choice as the money poured in on Bulletproof One (Idiot Proof), the homebred settled in a joint fourth behind a :22 flat quarter as the favorite went at it with Cholula Lips, and sidled up to those two past a :45.69 half. It quickly became a match race once heads pointed for home as Bulletproof One threw in the towel, and Been Studying Her found just a bit more than her rival in crunch time, edging away from Cholula Lips in the final furlong to score.

The winner’s dam, already responsible for three stakes winners and one graded stakes winner from four foals to race, was bought for just $14,500 by Kevin and Kim Nish’s KMN Racing at Keeneland November in 2012. She has a yearling Indian Evening filly named Starlight Stroll and foaled a colt by Tapit. Click for the Equibase.com chart or VIDEO, sponsored by Fasig-Tipton.

Margins: 5 1/4, 1 3/4, HD. Odds: 0.15, 12.80, 31.00. Also Ran: Hold'emforransom, Dixie's Gamble, Lokinforpursemonee.

The inimitable Pink Lloyd made it five-for-five on the year and 21 wins in 26 starts with an easy victory in the Ontario-bred OLG Kenora S. Wednesday night at Woodbine.

Finishing his 2018 season with two rare defeats when fifth in the GIII Bold Venture S. and fourth in the restricted Overskate S., he bounced back to annex the GIII Jacques Cartier S. in his seasonal bow here May 4 and followed up with tallies in the Ontario-bred Greenwood S., GIII Vigil S. and Ontario-bred Shepperton S. last out Aug. 4. Breaking with all the money on as expected, the chestnut hopped a bit at the start, but went forward to track Circle of Friends from second through a :22.73 quarter. Drawing on even terms passing a sharp :44.78 half, he pulled clear to another facile success down the lane. Circle of Friends held second. The victor has a yearling full-brother and his dam returned to Old Forester once more this spring. Click for the Equibase.com chart or VIDEO, sponsored by Fasig-Tipton.

IN ORDER OF PURSE:
7th-Saratoga, $90,000, Msw, 8-28, 2yo, f, 5 1/2fT, 1:03.17, fm.
JAZZIQUE (IRE) (f, 2, Kingman {GB}--Love To Dance {Ire} (GSP-Ire), by Sadler's Wells) became the first 2-year-old winner in North America for her second crop sire (by Invincible Spirit {Ire}) when she prevailed in the seventh race Wednesday in her career debut at the Spa. Away at 7-1 odds, the bay tracked well off of a torrid pace battle between 41-1 shot Coin the Phrase (Goldencents) and favored Nic and Zoe (Street Boss). After a sizzling first quarter in :21.27 and half-mile in :44.32, jockey Irad Ortiz went to work on Jazzique and she surged down the center of the track in tandem with Selflessly (More Than Ready), edging her stablemate for a one-two finish for the Chad Brown barn. She is the second winner out of her group-stakes placed dam, who is a half-sister to two European champions, including the outstanding European Horse of the Year Dylan Thomas {Ire} (Danehill) and champion 2-year-old filly Queen’s Logic (Ire)
(Grand Logic) as well as to G1 One Thousand Guineas heroine Homecoming Queen (Ire) (Holy Roman Emperor (Ire)).

MOONACHIE (g, 2, Central Banker--Making a Point, by Freud), mentioned in this TDN profile of Jeremiah Englehart Wednesday, crushed his competition on debut at Saratoga. Showing a steady if unspectacular local worktab, highlighted by a five-furlong move in 1:01 4/5 (1/5) over the training track Aug. 9, the $85,000 Fasig-Tipton Midlantic buy was backed at 21-5 and came out of the blocks running. Dictating terms through a :22.39 quarter, he remained under a good hold on the turn as his pursuers were put to drives, and he quickly shook loose in early stretch. The only question quickly became how far, and the gelding romped home 10 lengths to the good of 64-1 shot Unrelenting Force (Carpe Diem). The winner has a yearling half-sister by Bustin Stones and his dam was paired with Laoban this term. Sales History: $33,000 RNA Ylg '18 SARAUG; $85,000 2yo '19 EASMAY. 6th-Del Mar, $61,351, Msw, 8-28, 2yo, 1m, 1:38.58, ft. EXPRESS TRAIN (c, 2, Union Rags--I'm a Flake, by Mineshaft), a good second on debut to ‘TDN Rising Star’ Eight Rings (Empire Maker), had some anxious moments as a heavy favorite down the backstretch Wednesday at Del Mar, but turned it on in the stretch to crush a field of maidens. Debuting going 5 1/2 furlongs here Aug. 4, the $500,000 Keeneland September buy was beaten 6 1/4 lengths by the promising GI Del Mar Futurity-bound Eight Rings, while in turn finishing 9 1/4 lengths clear for the place and earning a solid 79 Beyer. Hammered down to 7-10 at the post, he surrendered the lead to that rival midway down the backstretch before retaking command entering the far turn. Still pestered by his pace rival approaching the lane, Express Train found another gear once straightening toward the judges, and poured it on from there to romp by 14 1/4 lengths. Can'tbetemall (Maclean’s Music), he surrendered the lead to that rival midway down the backstretch before retaking command entering the far turn. Sales History: $500,000 Ylg '18 KEESEP. Lifetime Record: 2-1-1-0, $48,800. Click for the Equibase.com chart or VIDEO, sponsored by Fasig-Tipton.

4th-Indiana Grand, $31,000, Msw, 8-28, 2yo, 5 1/2f, 1:05.97, ft. CARPE VICTORIAM (c, 2, Carpe Diem—Paying Off (MSW, $192,380), by Malibu Moon) hesitated and was left behind at the start to wind up sixth in his Aug. 3 debut over this course. Given a 2-1 chance in his second career start, he chased the leaders closely in fourth position along the rail behind an opening quarter in :22.74. Under pressure from his rider around the turn, the chestnut kicked into high gear when angled into the five path late and drew away from Expected (Macho Uno) for a 1 1/2-length score, becoming the seventh winner for his freshman sire (by Giant’s Causeway). Carpe Victoriam is a half-brother to Joint Custody (Outflanker), MSW, $274,530; and to the undefeated sophomore Risky Mandate (Strong Mandate), an impressive winner of a Saratoga optional claimer July 24 for trainer Thomas Amoss. His dam foaled a colt by Hard Spun this year. Lifetime Record: 2-1-0-0, $18,910. Click for the Equibase.com chart.

6th-Indiana Grand, $31,000, Msw, 8-28, 2yo, 5 1/2f, 1:05.70, ft. SHANGHAI NIGHTS (g, 2, Shanghai Bobby--She Shines, by Polish Numbers) faded to finish sixth after setting the pace for the first half-mile when debuting over track and trip Aug. 3 and was given a 41-5 chance in this spot. Dueling through a :22.86 quarter, the dark bay poked his head in front passing a :47 flat half and won a ding-dong stretch battle with pace foe Baudette Blizzard (Ice Box) to prevail by a nose on the wire. The victor is a half to Clare’s Dowery (Jump Start), SP, $242,275. His dam has produced the unraced juvenile R Lukki Song (Girolamo) and foaled a colt by Nyquist this past season. Lifetime Record: 1-1-0-0, $18,000. Click for the Equibase.com chart or VIDEO, sponsored by Fasig-Tipton.
