

RICE OFF TO A FAST START AT THE SPA

Linda Rice | Mike Kane

by Mike Kane

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N.Y. - After nine days of racing, Linda Rice has already had a Saratoga season most trainers would consider a roaring success.

Rice starts the third week of the meet Wednesday atop the trainers' table with 10 victories, one up on two-time defending champ Chad Brown and two ahead of Todd Pletcher, a 14-time Saratoga titlist. She is winning at a 32% clip and her 31 starters have finished in the top three 22 times, an impressive 70.9 %.

How does it feel to be Linda Rice these days?

"Pretty good," she said. "Pretty good."

Adding to the positive vibe, jockey Jose Ortiz, who rode Rice's first five winners of the meet and was named on the last four before he was injured in a spill Friday, will return to competition Wednesday. Ortiz suffered bruised ribs when he fell after his horse clipped heels in the first race, took off his mounts Saturday and Sunday. He is entered in six of the 10 races on the program. Three of them are on Rice horses, all of whom are the morning-line favorites.

While trainers are typically ranked on wins and purse money earned, Rice's in-the-money percentage is noteworthy. Her victories have come for eight different owners.

"We try to put them in a position where they're going to be effective," she said. Cont. p3

JERKENS TRYING TO ADJUST TO SAUDI ARABIAN RACING by Bill Finley

Jimmy Jerkens arrived in Saudi Arabia to embark on a new and very different chapter in his training career two months ago and what he's learned so far is that the learning curve is steeper than he had imagined. From the language to the culture to the racing itself, everything is different. He believes he will find his way, but has come to understand that it may take some time.

Jerkens sent out his first starter on July 15 and finished second with a horse named Honky Tonk Man (Tamayuz). He's had three runners since and the best showing among them was an eleventh-place finish.

"To be honest with you, I'm not crazy about how things started out over here," Jerkens said.

"They're not always going to win, but hopefully, they'll pick up a nice check for my clients, pay the bills, keep moving forward."

Rice's stable had been on a very good roll since last fall. She finished second to Brown at the Belmont-at-Aqueduct meet following Saratoga and has won the last four meets--three of them at Aqueduct--since.

At the Belmont Park spring meet, Rice topped the trainers' standings, while Ortiz edged his brother, Irad, 59-58, for the riding title. According to Equibase, Ortiz rode 25 of Rice's 34 victories at Belmont. Together with 80 starters, they compiled a 25-12-11 record--a 60 % in-the-money strike rate--and earned $1.318 million of the $1.996 million Rice's stable totaled at the meeting. The six races they won during the first week of July helped clinch their championships.

In a preview of what was ahead in the first two weeks at Saratoga, Rice and Ortiz took the first race on opening day with Winning Move Stable's Bustin Bay. They won another on the second day of the meet, two more on the third and their fifth on the fourth day of the season.

Maintaining momentum from one meet to the next is difficult, Rice acknowledged.

"You're always concerned about that," she said, "that you have used up your stock, and they will have to rebound and take some time to come back together and used up a lot of conditions, you may win at the next meet.

"That happens every meet, if you have a big meet. Obviously, we were running hard at Belmont. I wasn't sure that we would pull it together so quickly at Saratoga. But, frankly, it's gone very well."

Some 2 1/2 weeks since the end of the Belmont season, Rice said her stable is in the midst of replenishing its lineup.

"They're coming back into form," she said. "Some of them need time. Some of them are older, mature and can run back on short rest. But we only do that when it's a good opportunity." With 99 wins so far in 2023, Rice has already eclipsed last year's total of 96. Sometime this week, possibly on Wednesday, she will pass last year's purse earnings total of $5,774,619. Her season career bests of 145 wins and $7,258,064 in earnings set in 2019 appear to be within reach.

Rice, who saddled her stable's first starter in 1987, made history in 2009 when she became the first woman to win the Saratoga training title. Even with the great start this summer, she said it would be very difficult to finish in the top spot again. She did not say if she had a win number in mind when the Spa season opened on July 13.

"I was sure we would win some races," she said.

"Last year, we won 14. When I won the meet her in '09 I won 20, but over the course of that last decade, the first and second trainers have had 40 by the end of the meet. That's a tall task. Right now, we're two weeks in and we've got 10 wins, so I'm pretty pleased where we are. I try to set goals that we can reach. I don't want to set the bar too high for me or my staff.

"When I came in here I was thrilled. We had a great winter. Last fall was good. Belmont was terrific. I came in here thinking 'let's just have a good meet.' We're going to win some races. I knew that. But that bar in the last decade with these large outfits has become pretty high."

After going out on his own in 1997 after serving as an assistant to his father, Hall of Famer Allen Jerkens, Jerkens soon developed a reputation as one of the best trainers on the NYRA circuit. He won 846 races, had a winning rate of 20 percent and sent out 78 graded stakes winners. But, somehow, over the years, Jerkens fell out of favor and his career went into a nosedive. He won just four races in 2022 and had just two winners this year through May. He knew he had to do something and when Prince Faisal bin Khalid Al Saud offered to hire him and give him 50 horses to train in Saudi Arabia, Jerkens was in no position to say no.

"I love New York racing," he said. "I just wasn't making any headway. I had a good two, three years where I was not able to make it. I had some very good years in the past, but you have to keep it up to make a living. I had two, three bad years and it just killed me. It got to where I didn't want to get into a deeper hole. I figured I had to do something. So I chose this."

He arrived in Saudi Arabia on May 22 and set up shop at King Khalid Racecourse, which is in the town of Ta'if. The Saudi racing circuit heads there every summer before returning to King Abdulaziz Racetrack in Riyadh for an October to March run.

There are so many horses in Ta'if that, in order to accommodate all the stables, the track opens for training at two in the morning. Jerkens said he usually gets there at 2:30. Training ends at 8, but the track reopens for training at 2 in the afternoon and stays open until 6.

But it's not the long hours that have given Jerkens problems. He said the track is unlike anything he's ever encountered in the U.S., so deep that in the seven-furlong race in which Honky Tonk Man finished second the winning time was 1:29.25. He's still trying to figure out the best way to prepare a horse to run over a track that is that tiring.

That's Hard Spun. Just imagine...

"The track is ultra, ultra slow," he said. "It's unlike anything I've ever seen. It's really slow and cuppy and having it that way seems to be a tradition. Most horses need a start or two over it to do their best. The three I've run since the first one acted like they really needed the race bad. These horses don't gallop out 50 yards past the finish line. The jocks are getting the tack off of them in five seconds. The groom better be right there. It's so tiring horses don't have anything left for a gallop out. Who I am I to complain? I'm Johnny Come Lately. You try to get your horse ready for a race but at same time you don't want to go overboard. You don't want to work your horse 100 times just to have them ready to run one time. You try to save your horses for Riyadh. It's a fine line and it takes some figuring."

He's also finding it difficult to deal with what he says is a lack of information.

Jimmy Jerkens | Sarah Andrew

"The biggest adjustment is the lack of information on the horses," he said. "You are so used to looking at pp's and seeing everything right in front of you. There's no published workouts. They have charts but they're not detailed where you can tell where they were earlier in the race. People who work for me, they know who the speed in a race is just by memorizing the horses. Even on my own horses, I can't get good information on them. You'd like to see their past races, their past performances, like we have back home. It's just not like that. It's very frustrating. I want to know who I am running against. I want to know how they've been working. I want to know everything about them. You just don't have that. That's hard to get used to."

While he's still trying to learn more about the competition, he's already discovered that the quality of the horses in Saudi Arabia is better than he had expected.

"This racing is a lot better than it used to be," he said. "My owner used to have all the best horses. Now a lot of people have caught up. You wouldn't believe some of the pedigrees they have. There's a lot of Into Mischiefs. In one race we ran against a horse who is by War Front out of Lady Eli. You see a lot of American influence in the pedigrees. It's a lot tougher, a lot more competitive than it used to be."

Jerkens had hoped that he would be joined in Saudi Arabia by his wife, Shirley, who works for the New York State Department of Education. But those plans have been put on hold because it doesn't appear that there are many employment opportunities for her in Saudi Arabia. The quiet nights at home are starting to get to him.

"I live in a nice little compound," he said. "A South African trainer lives next door to me and we're pretty friendly. Outside of that, there's not much socializing. The compound is nowhere near as full as use to be. And there's no alcohol. You would like to have a nice glass of wine with your dinner every once in a while, but that's not happening. Outside of the horses, it's pretty lonely. I try to keep myself entertained with TV, the DVD player and by keeping up on the races back home. That's about it. Riyadh should be better. It's a lot more Americanized than it is here. It should be more interesting there. Everyone I work with has been supportive, but there's only so much they can do. It's taken a while to get used to the quietness."

He signed a two-year contract. What will he do when it's over?

"Maybe things will go great and I'll renegotiate after two years," he said. "I don't know. I have no idea."

They race three days a week, on Thursdays, Fridays and Saturdays, at Ta'if and Jerkens said he will have some more runners in the days ahead. A winner or two would no doubt pick up his spirits. He's a good trainer. He should win races. For now, though, it's a work in progress.

Q&A: HISA'S ANTI-DOPING AND MEDICATION CONTROL PROGRAM

by Dan Ross

As the Horseracing Integrity and Safety Act's (HISA) drug and medication control program has rolled out over the past couple of months, various questions have been raised over the mechanics of the new law.

As such, the TDN has decided to maintain a Q&A on this new program comprising questions raised by readers, and answers fielded by representatives from either HISA or the Horseracing Integrity and Welfare Unit (HIWU), which implements HISA's anti-doping and medication control (ADMC) program.

Note: This is not a regular Q&A conducted in the form of an interview. Rather, these questions have been submitted in writing, and the written responses arrive typically days after. TDN does not have the ability, therefore, to ask follow-up questions immediately.

If you have any questions about the answers received, please submit them in writing to: suefinley@thetdn.com

TDN: In the case of one of the horses suspended through the use of intra-articular joint injections too close to a workout (Mendrel), HIWU initially sent a notice of violation to the incorrect trainer. It appears as though HIWU identified the trainer through information available on Equibase. In actuality, the horse had been sold privately prior to the intra-articular joint injection in question occurring, but Equibase had failed to update the relevant information.

How often does HIWU rely on information on Equibase to identify the connections of horses? And what is HIWU doing to ensure this mix-up doesn't occur again?

HIWU notifies Covered Persons based on the information in the HISA portal. HISA continues to work with owners and trainers to ensure that horses' connections are accurately reported and updated as necessary.

TDN: What is HISA and HIWU doing to ensure that overseas runners on U.S. shores face the same pre-race scrutiny in their home countries as U.S. based horses?

The Horseracing Integrity and Safety Act does not grant HISA jurisdiction over horses located outside the United States. Horses brought over to run in the United States become Covered Horses under HISA's jurisdiction once they enter the country and have been nominated to or entered in a race.

HIWU has been engaging in conversations with international regulatory bodies regarding the testing of horses entered to race in the United States. While HIWU cannot mandate that a horse in another country is tested, if a trainer plans to race a horse in the U.S., HIWU can request that testing is conducted on its behalf and that the results be shared via mutual information sharing agreements.

Although international testing will be subject to that jurisdiction's rules and penalties, not HISA's, HIWU will be able to alert the relevant domestic jurisdiction(s) of the violation. The racetrack(s) can deny entries at their discretion based on the information received.

TDN: How many equine fatalities have there been since the racetrack safety program went into effect on July 1, 2022? And when will the nationwide equine fatality database be made public?

HISA understands that this type of equine welfare information is a matter of public interest. HISA's racetrack accreditation rules (HISA Rules 2100-2193) require tracks to establish Safety and Welfare Committees to review the circumstances and contributing causes of all catastrophic injuries and to report those findings to HISA. This is one of the requirements to attain and maintain full HISA accreditation.

HISA's accreditation team has been working with tracks to help them meet their internal review and reporting obligations. We're also in the process of developing internal systems so that reliable catastrophic injury data can be aggregated and made available on an ongoing basis. Until such time as reporting and tracking systems are in place nationwide, The Jockey Club's Equine Injury Database continues to be the most reliable source for equine fatality information.

[Note: The answer above falls under the purview of HISA's Racetrack Safety Program]

TDN: If a horse tests positive for betamethasone (as in Medina Spirit's case after the Kentucky Derby), but it is subsequently proven that the medication got into the horse's system through an ointment rather than an intra-articular injection, would that still result in sanctions?

Yes. The ADMC rules' "presence violations," i.e., positive tests, are based on the presence of a Prohibited Substance in a horse's sample. How the substance was introduced into a horse's system may affect the trainer's degree of fault when an adjudicator determines the severity of the sanctions, but the "how" doesn't negate the fact that the substance was present in the horse and is therefore a violation under the ADMC Program.

TDN: In regards the group of horses which competed when suspended from racing for intra-articular joint injections, why is HIWU having such a hard time keeping these horses from slipping through the cracks and racing?

HIWU has internally addressed the notification processes for horses that have violated the intra-articular injection rules. Following HISA's updated guidance from July 14, horses that violate the intra-articular injection rules in relation to racing or breeding will not be subject to a period of Ineligibility for their first offense.

TDN: In regards the answers provided in the previous Q&A, TDN would like clarification on why trainers who had violated the rules on intra-articular joint injections prior to a race (like trainer Douglas Nunn) weren't extended the same temporary relief in sanctions as those trainers who had violated the rules on intra-articular joint injections prior to a workout?

HISA believes that the temporary pause in enforcement of the intra-articular injection rule against trainers in regard to workouts was the most fair and equitable course of action given that the workout portion of the intra-articular injection rule was new to many jurisdictions and that there were so many violations, indicative of a lack of understanding.

On the other hand, only one trainer violated the racing portion of the rule, showing that it was understood by horsemen. This was an established rule within the racing industry, which has additional safety and welfare concerns for a horse receiving an intra-articular injection too close to a race.

ECHO ZULU RETURNS TO THE SPA IN HONORABLE MISS

by J.N. Campbell

The GI Honorable Miss H. at Saratoga is named after the highly-successful multiple stakes-winning mare from the 1970s. Owned by Edith Bancroft's sons who carried on the family tradition established by their grandfather, William Woodward Sr., the pair founded Pen-Y-Bryn Farm after their own mother's passing.

With only four entered, this year's edition is highlighted by the Saratoga return of '21 champion 2-year-old filly and MGISW Echo Zulu (Gun Runner). The Steve Asmussen trainee won her juvenile debut at the Spa when she soared to become a 'TDN Rising Star' and followed that up with a 4-length win in the GI Spinaway S.

Second last fall in the GI Breeders' Cup Filly & Mare Sprint between Eclipse champion female sprinter Goodnight Olive (Ghostzapper) and stablemate MGSW & MGISP Wicked Halo (Gun Runner), who just won the Twin Bridges S. at Ellis Park on Sunday, Echo Zulu started her 4-year-old campaign by recording a 5 3/4 length victory in the GIII Winning Colors S. May 29 at Churchill Downs.

Facing her, will be MGISP Frank's Rockette (Into Mischief) from Bill Mott's shedrow. The 6-year-old mare (27-12-9-3) comes back to Saratoga riding a three-race win streak, which includes two Grade III victories at Gulfstream Park. Rounding out the field are a pair of runners who were beaten last time out by Goodnight Olive. Maryquitecontrary (First Dude), who has won six of eight career races, ran second to her in the GI Madison S. in April at Keeneland for new trainer Shug McGaughey, while Dr B (Liam's Map), trained by Butch Reid, was fourth behind her in the GI Bed o' Roses S. June 17 at Belmont Park.

RACING CALLED OFF AT PARX DUE TO HEAVY RAINS, FLASH FLOOD WARNINGS

Racing was called off after five races at Parx Tuesday after heavy rains swamped the racecourse.

Bensalem, Pennsylvania, where Parx is located, was under a severe thunderstorm watch Monday along with most of the I-95 corridor and a funnel cloud was observed near Washington, D.C. The storms came with winds of up to 60 miles per hours, and delayed flights at major airports from Philadelphia to New York City. The National Weather Service issued reports of flooded highways with people stuck in cars in Pennsylvania, along with downed trees in Maryland.

Parx has carded 12 races for Wednesday, with first post at 12:40 p.m.

BILL STRAUSS, BRET JONES ADDED TO DMTC BOARD

Bret Jones | Sarah Andrew

Bill Strauss and Bret Jones have both been named to the Board of Directors of the Del Mar Thoroughbred Club. The two, who are the first new members added to the board since three members were added in 2018, bring the total number of current board members to 11.

“We’ve made ourselves better and stronger with the addition of these two fine gentlemen,” said board member and Del Mar CEO Joe Harper. “When you can pick up a pair of individuals who love racing and have rich histories in the game like they do, it was easy to get a unanimous vote to bring them on.”

Strauss, 65, was originally a New Yorker who had a successful financial career in Manhattan before making a coast-to-coast switch to Del Mar in 1992. There he helped found Provide Commerce, which became one of the nation’s top e-commerce companies, including its popular ProFlowers.com and Shari’s Berries.

He and his brother, Jeffrey, a master chef, partnered in a hugely popular restaurant they called the Pamplemousse Grille just across the street from Del Mar racetrack. They named their first horse The Pamplemousse and he became a stakes winner. Since then Bill has been a partner in such topline horses as double Breeders’ Cup winner Mizdirection and $5.6 million earner Hot Rod Charlie.

“As a long-time Del Mar resident with my wife Margie, and a long time horse owner, I am honored to have been selected to serve on the prestigious Del Mar Thoroughbred Club Board of Directors,” Strauss said. “I am looking forward to working with my fellow board members to carve out a successful future for horse racing in California.”

Jones, 43, is the president of Airdrie Stud.

In addition to his new role at Del Mar, he has served on the Breeders’ Cup Board of Directors since 2011 and sits on the Keeneland Advisory Board, as well as the Board of Trustees for the University of Kentucky’s Markey Cancer Foundation.

“I am very grateful to have been given this opportunity to work with the incredible leadership team at Del Mar,” Jones said. “Anyone who has ever walked through its gates knows how truly special that racetrack is, and anyone who cares about the future of our sport recognizes how vitally important its continued success is for our industry. California racing is a true lynchpin for our sport and its prosperity should be the business of all of us; whether you’re from San Diego County or Woodford County, KY. I look forward to helping in any way I can and am honored to be working with an organization I so deeply respect.”

RECORD PURSES FOR '23 ZIA PARK MEET

Zia Park | Coady

Purses for the upcoming race meet at Zia Park will be the richest in the track's 24 years, with overnight purses expected to average $360,000 per day for the 30-day mixed Thoroughbred and Quarter Horse meet.

"With the realignment of the 2023 New Mexico racing calendar, this is a tremendous opportunity to showcase New Mexico horse racing," said Christopher McErlean, Vice President of Racing for PENN Entertainment, parent company of Zia Park. "There will be racing opportunities for all categories--New Mexico-breds and open horses, wide ranges of allowance classes and plenty of spots for different claiming levels--and the purses will be unlike anything seen in this region of the country. If horsemen don't have Zia Park on their radar yet, they should take notice and make plans to participate."

Maiden special weight races at the meet will have a $45,000 base purse, with New Mexico-bred exclusive races offering a $55,000 purse. Open allowance categories will range from $52,500 up to $65,000, while New Mexico-bred allowance races will get an added $12,000 per race. Claiming race purses will range from $24,000 to $46,500 (plus $7,000 to $8,000 added for New Mexico-bred races), with claiming categories from $7,500 to $25,000.

The 2023 Zia Park stakes schedule will be highlighted by back-to-back-to-back million-dollar stakes days. Seven New Mexico-bred stake races totaling over $1.2 million in purses will be in the spotlight Nov. 26. The day is headed by the $350,000 (est.) New Mexico Classic Cup Futurity and the $225,000 (est.) New Mexico Classic Cup Derby.

On Nov. 27, New Mexico-bred Thoroughbreds will face off in eight New Mexico Classic Cup championship races worth over $1.2 million, including the $200,000 Peppers Pride S. for older fillies and mares going one mile and the $200,000 Rocky Gulch S. for older male horses going one mile and seventy yards.

The trifecta of million-dollar stakes days concludes Nov. 28 with the Land of Enchantment Stakes Day featuring seven stakes worth over $1.1 million, including the $300,000 Zia Park Derby and the $300,000 Zia Park Oaks, both at one mile and one sixteenth.

The Zia Park meet begins Nov. 3, with Quarter Horse racing every Saturday and Sunday (plus Nov. 3) and Thoroughbred racing every Monday and Tuesday (plus Dec. 20).

Stall applications for the 2023 Zia Park race meet are due Aug. 15 and can be found at <https://www.ziaparkcasino.com/racing>. The stable area is expected to open the week of Sept. 25.

STOTT LABELS KING GEORGE 'RACE OF THE SEASON' AND PUTS FAITH IN KING OF STEEL

King Of Steel | Megan Ridgwell

Kevin Stott has billed Saturday's G1 King George VI And Queen Elizabeth QIPCO S. as the race of the season so far and backed his mount King Of Steel (Wootton Bassett {GB}) to exact revenge on his G1 Derby conqueror Auguste Rodin (Ire) (Deep Impact {Jpn}).

However, the jockey warned that the Ascot showpiece is far from a two-horse race, and described being a part of such a spectacle as incredibly exciting.

King Of Steel finished just a half a length behind Auguste Rodin at huge odds of 66-1 in the Derby. The dashing grey has since run out an impressive winner of the G2 King Edward VII S. at Royal Ascot and Stott says he couldn't be happier with the Roger Varian-trained colt ahead of Saturday's big race.

"It's probably the Flat race of the season so far," Stott said on Tuesday. "You've got all the best horses in there--proven ones and up and coming ones. If it's a 12 or 15-runner field then it's going to be really, really exciting. There's not long left now, he did a nice piece of work this morning and it's all systems go."

AUSTRALIAN BREEDER JOHN SINGLETON TO SELL UP HIS RACING EMPIRE

Popular breeder John Singleton has decided to put his entire Strawberry Hill Stud bloodstock portfolio and property up for sale this year.

Magic Millions will host the bloodstock sale on Aug. 29 at the Central Coast property. Singleton will offer more than 100 horses at his Strawberry Hill Stud in Australia, including foals, mares, yearlings and racehorses. The property sale will take place later in the year.

He will remain in the ownership of horses raced in partnership, which includes the talented I Am Invincible (Aus) colt Hawaii Five Oh (Aus).

"I feel sorry for those old blokes at the races looking grumpy," Singleton said to the Daily Telegraph, who announced the news on Tuesday. "I always said I would sell up when I have been doing this for 50 years," he added. Cont. p8

Stott added, "It's by no means a two-horse race. There are some very high quality horses in there and especially if we are going to have ease in the ground, there are a lot of horses with very good form on slower ground.

"First and second in the Derby going at it again for the first time since the Derby is obviously a massive thing for everyone.

"You don't know when you have so many good horses pitched against each other, it's exciting and it's very open. Auguste Rodin and King Of Steel are getting a bit of weight from the other horses as they are only three and the others are older and more experienced."

Stott was visibly disappointed after King Of Steel's Derby defeat, feeling he could have won had he timed his challenge differently, but having had time to reflect, he is more accepting of how the race panned out.

He said, "I still look at the replay now and again from the Derby and go over it again and again. I've got to the stage now where I wouldn't change anything that I did, we just got run down by the better horse on the day.

"I had no pressure on me, I was just riding him to run well, to see what we had, to see if the homework was backing up in a race.

"Between the two and the three [furlong] pole I was in front by two-and-a-bit lengths and the next thing you know I was screaming for the finish line.

"Unfortunately, we just got run down by a very good horse on the day, hopefully we can turn the form around but we have to, first of all, beat some other very good horses in the race.

"It's not just a race between the two 3-year-olds, but I like to think that if it does come down to a battle again from the furlong pole, then hopefully our fella will pull it out." Cont. p4

He added, "I've got a lot of faith in the horse, but then again Aidan O'Brien is the master of the world that we live in and even though Auguste Rodin's win in the Irish Derby wasn't as visually flattering as the English Derby, he is probably one of the nicest horses that Aidan has trained. Just to be part of a race like this and to ride a horse of this calibre is very exciting."

TWOMEY HAS YORKSHIRE OAKS IN MIND FOR ROSSCARBERY

Paddy Twomey | Goffs

The Yorkshire Oaks is the preferred next destination for Rosscarbery (Ger) (Sea The Stars {Ire}) after she ran a fine second to Emily Dickinson (Ire) (Dubawi {Ire}) at the Curragh on Saturday.

Paddy Twomey's mare has won three times at Group 3 level and last summer came within a neck of claiming Group 1 glory in the Prix Jean Romanet, narrowly failing to reel in Aristia (Ire) (Starspangledbanner {Aus}).

Having finished fourth over 10 furlongs in the Pretty Polly S. on her penultimate start, Rosscarbery stepped up to a-mile-and-three-quarters for last weekend's Curragh Cup--but after travelling strongly to the front, she was ousted by the hot favourite.

A return to Deauville for another tilt at the Romanet is not being ruled as the 5-year-old's next objective, but Twomey views the Yorkshire Oaks on Aug. 24, over the intermediate distance of a mile and a half, as the ideal aim.

"She ran great on Saturday over a trip that is probably as far as she wants to go in ground that was more favourable to Emily Dickinson than her--she likes a bit of faster ground," said the trainer on Tuesday.

"We have the Yorkshire Oaks and the Prix Jean Romanet in mind, that's why we ran her at the weekend as it fitted in perfectly in our schedule.

"Out of those, the preference is probably for the Yorkshire Oaks. The Romanet is the Sunday before and she was second in that last year.

"I think a-mile-and-a-half at York would be her ideal track and trip and very suitable for her, so that's what we have in mind."

MCCONNELL DREAMING OF AMERICAN GRAND NATIONAL WITH SEDDON

John McConnell is gearing Seddon (Ire) (Stowaway {GB}) up for a tilt at the American Grand National, a race that was plundered by another Irish challenger 12 months back when Hewick (Ire) (Virtual {GB}) stormed to a memorable victory.

Seddon has been nothing short of a revelation for McConnell. Successful in the Plate at the Cheltenham festival, Seddon made it a spring to remember when following up over hurdles at the Punchestown Festival.

Owned by the Galaxy Horse Racing Syndicate, which has been a long-term supporter of the McConnell stable in North County Dublin, the 10-year-old will now take on his biggest test to date at Far Hills in October.

McConnell told TDN Europe, "I've always thought it was a race that would suit him. The trip, ground, obstacles, should all be perfect for him. Obviously, he's a high-rated horse now, so he should be competitive. The prize-money is very good. It should be the trip of a lifetime for a lot of the people [owners], as well. That's why we're a fan of having a crack at it.

"He's done so much for everybody already. He owes us nothing. It'd be hard to top what he's done, but [a victory] would certainly go close."

GOFFS UK AUGUST SALE CATALOGUES 148

A total of 148 lots consisting of horses-in-training, stores, NH mares and young stock have been catalogued for the Goffs UK August Sale, set to be held on Aug. 9 at Doncaster beginning at 10 a.m.

This year's sale will host two partial dispersals from owners Mike and Eileen Newbould and Gigginstown House Stud. The Newboulds are selling 13 head, including dual Grade 2 winner Third Time Lucki (Ire) (Arcadia {Ger}) (lot 85) and three-time winner West Cork (GB) (Midnight Legend {GB}) (lot 84), who finished second in the G2 Scottish Champion Hurdle. Gigginstown House will offer seven horses-in-training, including Grade 3 winner Highland Change (Ire) (Fame and Glory {GB}), who won a Class 2 Hurdle in his most recent start and will sell as lot 79, and Grade 2-placed Decimation (Ire) (Milan {GB}) (lot 51).

148 lots have been catalogued for the Goffs August Sale at Doncaster
Goffs UK

"The August Sale follows on from our largest UK NH sale of the year, the Spring Sale, and hosts our second of four UK store sessions in 2023, the final two being the 2-year-old store sessions in the September and Yorton Sales," Goffs UK Managing Director Tim Kent said. "We would like to extend our thanks to Mike and Eileen Newbould who will host a partial dispersal of their racing interests which is headed by the dual Grade 2 winner Third Time Lucki. Along with the Gigginstown House Stud partial dispersal, an annual draft at Doncaster HIT Sales which has produced many highlights over the years, there are plenty of lots to capture the attention of buyers."

FORMAT CHANGE ANNOUNCED FOR TATTERSALLS IRELAND NOVEMBER NH FOAL SALE

This year's Tattersalls Ireland November National Hunt Foal Sale will be catalogued by day in alphabetical order, the auction house announced on Tuesday. The new format now aligns with all Tattersalls sales in Ireland and is a well-established format across the industry. There will be no change to the foal-selling days as each day will be treated as a separate entity and catalogued alphabetically by dam with the same starting letter applying to each day throughout the four-day foal section.

The benefits of the A-Z lotting system will offer advantages to both purchasers and vendors. Barns will now be a safer area for buyers to view foals with less congestion, allowing more time and space to view individual lots. Also, vendors and consignors with larger consignments will be able to work from one base for the duration of the sale and not have to move to a different location each day.

The November National Hunt Sale will take place from Nov. 10-16.

BAILEYS POLKA DOT (FR) (f, 2, Inns Of Court {Ire}--Jolie Et Belle {Fr}, by Oratorio {Ire}), who annexed her June 16 debut going five furlongs at this venue last time, recovered from a slightly sluggish getaway to race in a close up second. Coming under pressure soon after halfway, the 11-5 favourite hooked up with Antifona (Fr) (Recoletos {Fr}) approaching the final furlong and kept on in resolute fashion to deny that rival by a head after a nip-and-tuck tussle. Baileys Polka Dot is one of nine winners from as many foals out of an unraced half-sister to four black-type performers headed by Listed Premio Verziere victrix Golden Honor (Ire) (Hero's Honor) and G3 Prix Paul de Moussac second Handsome Maestro (Ire) (Dansili {GB}). The February-foaled bay, who hails from the family of GI Woodbine Mile hero Turallure (Wando), is half to a yearling filly by Romanised (Ire). Sales history: €20,000 RNA Ylg '22 ARQOCT. Lifetime Record: 2-2-0-0, €32,000. Video, sponsored by FanDuel TV.

SKYLIGHT BROCHARD (HOL) (c, 2, Mehmas {Ire}--Fonseca {Ire}, by Red Clubs {Ire}) shadowed the pace in second after the initial exchanges of this debut. Fanning wide with the field into the straight, the 63-10 chance eased to the front underneath the stands' side rail passing the quarter-mile marker and lengthened clear under mild coaxing inside the final furlong to easily account for De Sica (Fr) (Demarchelier {GB}) by an impressive 3 1/2 lengths. Skylight Brochard is the latest of five registered foals and second scorer produced by an unraced half-sister to MGSP Listed Midsummer S. and Listed Doncaster Mile victor Gabriel (Ire) (Dark Angel {Ire}). Lifetime Record: 1-1-0-0, €15,000. Video, sponsored by FanDuel TV.

TERESA MENDOZA (FR) (f, 2, Dream Ahead--Teoris {Ire}, by Bachelor Duke) was positioned in a handy third after the early strides of this debut. Bustled along with 350 metres remaining, the 36-5 chance came under sterner urging thereafter and was ridden out to deny long-time leader Fathom (Ire) (Almanzor {Fr}) by a short-neck nearing the line. Teresa Mendoza is the latest of eight reported foals and fourth scorer produced by a half-sister to MGSW sire Panis (Miswaki) and dual Listed Sam Houston Sprint Championship-winning sire Polotical Whit (Lines Of Power). Sales history: €10,000 Ylg '22 BBAGS. Lifetime Record: 1-1-0-0, €15,000. Video, sponsored by FanDuel TV. O-Stall Life Style; B-Haras de Grandcamp EARL (FR); T-Hans Blume.

LEANDRA (FR) (f, 3, Soldier Hollow {GB}--Leukothea {GB}, by Sixties Icon {GB}) asserted for an early lead in this newcomers' test. Headed briefly rounding the home turn, the 38-5 chance regained control at the top of the straight and was coaxed clear underneath the stands' side rail inside the final quarter-mile to easily outpoint Mirzann (Ire) (Camelot {GB}) by three lengths. Leandra, full to an unnamed 2-year-old filly, is the third of four foals and second scorer produced by a daughter of dual winner Stagecoach Jade (Ire) (Peintre Celebre), herself a half-sister to the stakes-winning Lightning Hit (Ire) (Opren) and G3 Prix Daphnis third Blasket Island (Ire) (Kenmare {Fr}). Stagecoach Jade is also a half-sister to the dam of GI American Oaks heroine Cambina (Ire) (Hawk Wing). Lifetime Record: 1-1-0-0, €11,000.

The Singleton dispersal is an offering ripe with riches, and an unusual logistical challenge for Magic Millions to host the sale on an off-site location, however, Managing Director Barry Bowditch is confident his team is more than up for the task.

"Singo has been an integral part of the Magic Millions landscape since the mid-90s and the blue and white colours of Strawberry Hill are synonymous with success in our industry," Magic Millions Managing Director Barry Bowditch told TTR Australia.

"Although it's sad to see Singo sell up. Gerry, Katie and the Magic Millions team are honoured to be entrusted with selling an outstanding group of mares and yearlings unreserved."
