A BELMONT STAKES AT SARATOGA AND HOW TO MAKE IT WORK

The Week in Review, by Bill Finley

Just a few days after the running of this year’s GI Belmont S., the final leg of the Triple Crown was back in the news. With the Belmont grandstand set to be torn down after the 2024 spring meet and with the new stands not expected to be ready until 2026, the 2025 Belmont S. will likely need a home. And after hinting that the race could be run in Saratoga, the New York Racing Association was more specific when the topic was addressed early last week. When asked by the TDN about plans for the race in 2025, NYRA’s Vice President of Communications Pat McKenna had this to say, “Should the construction of a new Belmont Park require the Belmont S. to be run at a different venue, then NYRA’s preference would absolutely be to hold the event at Saratoga Race Course.”

Why wouldn’t it be? Running the race at Belmont amid a massive construction project won’t work and neither will running it at Aqueduct. The Big A lost thousands of seats when the casino replaced a large portion of the grandstand and the place isn’t, well, very nice.

So, get ready for a Belmont at Saratoga. But there is one major issue that needs to be addressed and that’s the distance of the race. Traditionalists will want it to be contested at 1 1/2 miles, but that won’t work. Cont. p3

AMERICAN FINGERPRINTS ON BRITISH-TRAINED ROYAL ASCOT-BOUND INQUISITIVELY by Sue Finley

Typically, the names Sangster, Manton, Tattersalls, and British-bred runner at Windsor don’t scream ‘American connections,’ but in the case of Inquisitively (GB) (Ten Sovereigns {Ire}), peel back the onion a bit and you’ll find more than a few stars and stripes among the connections.

Inquisitively, a barely beaten second at Windsor in his May 29 debut, is entered in Wednesday's Windsor Castle at Royal Ascot, and will carry his owners' hopes, as well as a bit of history on his back.

Inquisitively sold for 40,000gns at the 2022 Tattersalls October yearling sale from the Glenvale Stud consignment to trainer Ollie Sangster. Cont. p6

Equibase’s list of Saratoga track records does not include one for a 1 1/2-mile race, which probably means there has never been a 12-furlong dirt race run there. It’s easy to see why. The race would have to start at the three-eighths pole, which is at the entrance to the far turn. Especially if there is a large field, anyone drawing to the outside would be at a disadvantage, something you don’t want in any race, let alone a Triple Crown race.

The only answer is to run it at a 1 1/4 miles. Think of it as a necessary adjustment, just like what happened in 2020 when the pandemic played havoc with the Triple Crown schedule and led NYRA to card the Belmont at a one-turn 1 1/8 miles.

As for the schedule, the smartest thing to do would be to start what would normally be the spring Belmont meet at Aqueduct. Belmont week at Saratoga would start on Thursday, June 5, the race would be held on Saturday, June 7 and the four-day mini-meet would end with a card on the following day. The meet could then return to Aqueduct before the regular Saratoga meet got underway.

Combining Saratoga’s popularity, the importance of the Belmont S. and the uniqueness of holding the race at the mecca of Thoroughbred racing can only mean that a 2025 Belmont at Saratoga would be a smashing success and one of the most memorable Belmonts of all time.

“A Belmont S. at Saratoga is an event that would capture the attention of the entire sports world while driving tourism and economic impact for upstate New York,” McKenna said.

Doing so would mark for the second time in the modern era that the race was not run at Belmont Park. While the current Belmont grandstand was being constructed, the race was run at Aqueduct from 1963 through 1967.

Think About It!
Here’s a look at the 1963 Belmont, won by Chateaugay. In 1964, the race was won by Quadrangle.

Aqueduct and Belmont have not been the only homes to the race. While the GI Kentucky Derby has only been run at Churchill Downs and the GI Preakness S. has only been run at Pimlico, the Belmont has had four homes. It was first run in 1867 at Jerome Park, where it remained until moving to Morris Park in 1890. The race was first run at Belmont Park in 1905. Fifty-eight years later, it was moved to Aqueduct.

Thank You, Jena

This industry could not have asked for a better ambassador than Jena Antonucci, a role the trainer was thrust into after winning the Belmont with Arcangelo (Arrogate). Her story was just what a beleaguered sport needed after deaths and breakdowns dominated the news cycles through the first two rounds of the Triple Crown. Even on a day when there was another fatality, in the race run after the Belmont, the mainstream media couldn’t get enough of the articulate plucky female trainer with the indefatigable spirit. She was the story Belmont day, and not all the bad news that had been hovering over the game.

Not everyone would have been comfortable with being turned into being a media darling the way she was, but Antonucci embraced it. She could have just gone about her business after the race, but, instead, honored every request from the media, knowing it was an opportunity for someone to convey a positive message about the sport to a large audience. The demands were so intense that she had to call in the NTRA to help her coordinate her schedule. Over a three-day period last week, Antonucci did 12 interviews, including one for Fox News. She was also the Green Group Guest of the Week on last week’s TDN Writers’ Room podcast.
Now, will the sport pay her back? It’s great to have an Arcangelo in the barn, but the fact remains that Antonucci has a relatively small stable that has but one star. Aside from Arcangelo, she’s had just one other graded stakes winner during her career. She won the 2016 GIII Turf Monster S. at Parx with Doctor J Dub (Sharp Humor).

How about some of the sport’s major owners, ones who have dozens of horses and flock to the super trainers, give her a chance. There are so many trainers out there just like her, ones that are perfectly capable but have problems getting ahead because no one is willing to give them an opportunity. You don’t have to have all 100 of your horses with Todd Pletcher, Chad Brown, Bob Baffert, et. al. Isn’t there room to give five to Antonucci? She certainly deserves it.

HIWU Versus the Old Way of Doing Things

On June 11, the New York Gaming Commission posted a ruling on its website regarding a positive test for phenylbutazone in a horse trained by Todd Pletcher. Better late than never, I suppose, the alleged offense took place on July 30, 2022 at Saratoga. It was posted 316 days after the race occurred. It was pretty much the same story in the matter of Forte (Violence) testing positive for a banned substance following his win the 2022 GI Hopeful S., run on Sept. 5. That offense was made public on May 11.

How can it possibly take that long for a violation to be reported? Whatever the answer is, and there hasn’t been a good one out of the Gaming Commission, it speaks to how dysfunctional the game has been when it comes to violations. It also tells you that there is a glaring lack of transparency. Thankfully, that has changed. The Horseracing Integrity & Welfare Unit (HIWU), an arm of the Horseracing Integrity and Safety Authority, took over, in most states, the process of drug testing and handing out penalties on May 22. Already, we are seeing that things are different under this body.

HIWU has posted three rulings on its website under the category of “pending violations.” Two involve the use of Levothyroxine. The third, a ruling against trainer Mario Dominguez, involves the use of cobalt. All of the rulings were posted within three weeks of the alleged offenses. In the case of Dominguez, his horse, Petulant Delight (First Dude), tested positive for cobalt after winning a May 24 race at Parx. Just 15 days later, the violation was made public on the HIWU website. These people mean business. Good for them.

“He was a very nice yearling,” said Sangster. “It’s easy to say that now. Flash Conroy had bought him as a foal, and he actually had a setback the week before the yearling sale, and was lame at the sale. But he was a very nice model and I know Flash and I liked the horse, so I bought the horse under the condition that if I wasn’t happy, they would take him back. But the issue was something of a nothing, something he had done right before the sale, and in a few weeks would right itself. In that respect, he’s a horse I never would have been able to afford working with a limited budget, and I was able to buy a much nicer physical than I would have been able to buy.”

American bloodstock agent Justin Casse was at the sale, and had inspected Inquisitively, and also had liked him, but left before Book 2.

“He looked like a very precocious type, great hind quarter, good balance, a very good mover,” said Casse. “And Flash is a tremendous judge with whom I’ve had a bit of luck. He’s actually who I bought (G1 Fillies Mile winner) Pretty Gorgeous from. He was a nice horse and I thought there was value there. And I’m trying to align myself with young people in the industry who I know who have spent time with great trainers or who have learned from the right people.”

So Casse called Sangster and offered to buy half of the horse from him.

In Sangster’s case, those great trainers and right people included Wesley Ward, the first American trainer to ever saddle a winner at Royal Ascot, and who has dominated there in recent years, winning 12 races.
They remain 59 seconds that changed the Royal meeting forever. The unheralded interloper from the other side of the world, for many Choisir was a novelty; certainly bookmakers thought so, chalking his odds at 25/1. But then the starting gates opened: what followed was a sustained demonstration of speed. Serious, brutal speed.

And so was launched Australia’s two decades embrace of Royal Ascot. It helped, of course, that Choisir doubled-downed on his advantage four days later, becoming the first horse to win the King’s Stand and Golden Jubilee in the same year. Then there were the followers: in the next nine years there were six more Australian-bred winners at the Royal meeting.

Two decades on from the heroics of Choisir, those victories continue to inspire. There may be more dollars to be earned at home, but racing has always been about the contest: not just against rivals on the track, but against the norm, the accepted, the boundaries of possibility.

As we look forward to our Australian-bred runners at this year’s Royal meeting, we remember the achievements of a horse that gifted racing new horizons.

Good Luck
ARTORIUS - THE ASTROLOGIST - CANNONBALL COOLANGATTA - WELLINGTON
Sangster spent several formative years with Ward, working at Keeneland in the spring, taking his Ascot horses over, and then coming back with Ward to Saratoga. He has helped Ward out at every Ascot since 2018.

The family connection between the Casses and the Sangsters goes back even further. Justin's father Norman Casse was the breeder of Beldale Ball, who won the 1980 Melbourne Cup for Sangster's grandfather Robert, and he considered it one of his greatest breeding achievements, said Justin, who was born the year of the win and keeps the plaque given to his father for the achievement hanging in his office today.

"To me, the whole thing is interesting," said Casse. "I've traveled all over the world. I've won the richest race in South Africa. I've won a Group 2 in Australia. And all these things have come full circle in my life to this connection between young Ollie Sangster and my father who has passed away, and our families, and is still going on. We have American connections through Australian connections to running at Ascot and it really is a dream come true. My first experience at Ascot, literally the first race on the first day of the first time I was at Ascot was Tepin winning." Tepin, who won the 2017 G1 Queen Anne S., was trained by Justin's brother Mark. "That experience was extremely special and continues to grow in significance," he said.

But if Inquisitively isn’t quite Tepin, at least not yet, Sangster is serious about giving him a chance.

"His first start was particularly pleasing because he had a very difficult draw," he said. "Windsor has a bend in the track and he had drawn 14 and had to move a good few lengths to get across, and did the hard work at the front that day. If he had had a nicer draw, he would have won the race nicely. It was visually quite impressive, the times were good and subsequently the third and fourth finishers out of that race have won their next start. That has confirmed what the times were showing us. He deserves to have a chance there, and the winner of the race (Chief Mankato {GB} {Sioux Nation}) is going to Ascot himself."

Sangster will also be the trainer of record for Bledsoe (Iqbaal), who Wesley Ward trained to win the opening race of the spring meet at Keeneland. Ward is also the horse's owner and breeder, and owns and stands his sire. Sangster said that Bledsoe arrived at his training center, Manton, in April with the intention of getting a prep in, and while that hadn't worked out, he'll now go into the Windsor Castle off the Keeneland maiden win.

Sangster said he realized how special it was to have two starters at the meet in his first year of training.

"I think Inquisitively is about 25-1, but if someone had asked me at the beginning of the year what my chances of getting to Ascot were this year, they would have been significantly longer!" he said. "It means everything."

Lucan Bloodstock Builds for the Boys

Conor and Dean, 8 and 6 years old, are living with Duchenne Muscular Dystrophy. It is a fatal, muscle-wasting condition for which there is currently no cure. They are already struggling to do all the things that they love, like playing tag with friends, dancing to music and riding their bikes. Initially, a specialised mobility vehicle will be needed in order to transport the boys and their wheelchairs to and from school, for activities, and for social visits to their friends and relations.

Unfortunately, the family will need to move from their current home in Lucan. Funds raised will help with extensive renovations to the property in order to facilitate movement and access for two full sized power-chairs. The installation of medical equipment and amenities will also be necessary.

All funds kindly donated will go towards the ‘Build for the Boys’ Trust’ – which has been set up to cater for the boys’ growing needs as the symptoms of this cruel condition become more and more debilitating over time. Help us to build a future for them in which this rare, life-limiting disability does not limit their dignity and their joy for living.

He continued, "The reason we get up at the crack of dawn is to have the winners, and hopefully—not that I've had it yet—but a winner on a big stage. We're a close-knit team, and everyone works really hard, and we're looking forward to having a runner. I think we have a little bit of an each-way chance and it's exciting. Hopefully a few people will notice us."

Casse said it was hard to imagine how emotional a win would be for him.

"You can't put a price on these experiences even though we try to regularly through the auction ring or private sales. But that doesn't always mean that you're going to get there. So I'm just going to try to make the most of it. And listen, leading into the race, the horse is training well against winners. He has not really put a foot wrong to this point. And from the videos that Ollie sends us, I really couldn't be happier. And then of course, these other horses winning flatters our form. So although I think we're going to go in there probably 25 or 30-1, I just get the feeling that we're going to run a big race."

MATTHEW DOHMAN LOOKING TO SHAKE UP 'OLD BOYS' CLUB' by Dan Ross

Point him at a fork in the road and Matthew Dohman will likely take the one consecrated by Robert Frost.

When he founded his mortgage lending company, he did so in the middle of the global financial meltdown when homebuying was as popular as volcano surfing.

When he purchased his first horses at the sales, he eschewed sage counsel from agent and trainer and picked 'em largely himself. Didn't do too bad, either. The Cal-bred Guy Code, who he snagged for $63,000, ended up winning nearly a quarter-million.

And when he announced his bid earlier this year for a seat on the Thoroughbred Owners of California (TOC) board of directors, he did so as the only non-incumbent running and after a last-place finish in the prior elections—oh, and after a bit of a rocky road through the whole electoral process, which closed this past Thursday (more on this in a bit).

As befits someone who disdains silly little things called obstacles, Dohman, 41, appears high on his chances.

"This time, I've tried to be a little bit more vocal in the things that I'd like to see changed in California racing," said Dohman, about his electoral approach. "Last year, I felt maybe I didn't say enough."

Dohman's campaign trail included an email blast to TOC subscribers outlining his wish list, including increased minimum participation purses and a minimum per-start payment for trainers.

It also listed a proposal to increase female participation in the saddle by giving female jockeys a weight break, as well as a proposition to publish trainer contact information and training day-rates in the horsemen section of a racetrack's website.

Dohman knows some of his ideas can appear out of left field. But the way he describes the racing industry makes it resemble a time capsule that needs dusting off and opening up to let in needed sunlight and fresh air.

The TOC, "They've developed a bit of a good old boys' club and they don't want people from the outside in," Dohman said, with the sort of dismissive laugh that cautions the listener not to take it entirely as jest.

If, as Dohman suspects, he'll be made a TOC board member when the election results come in (perhaps as soon as the start of the week), what exactly will he bring to the board table?

For one, an origins story ripped from the pages of Horatio Alger—one told from the spotless, sleek and modern trimmings of a pad perched on the lapping waters of Huntington Beach. The kind of place you'd expect the Property Brothers to suddenly jump out of.

No nepo baby talk here. His father was a custodian, mother a bartender. He grew up across town in a one-bedroom apartment. "I slept on the couch bed in the living room."

How did Dohman hopscotch his way from a sofa-bed to a stable of 22 horses? The journey included stepping-stone stints for grocery chain Pavillions and for electronics store Fry's.

"But my goal was to open my own mortgage company," he said. "I turned 20, got my real estate license and I went and worked for my cousin in the mortgage business."

In 2009, amid the wreckage of a global financial collapse and with the whole mortgage industry doing its best to emulate the Hindenburg, Dohman decided to go all in, open his own company. Optimum First Mortgage. "I had one employee, someone who had done loans with me before."
Soon after, his business partner Robert Drenk joined the fold. Bit by bit the company grew, until 14 years later, “we have like 50 people that work for us,” he said. “And I also have 25 people that have worked for me for over 10 years.”

The racing connection began with Dohman’s father, who took his son to the races--Santa Anita, Del Mar, Hollywood Park--when junior was still knee high to an outrider’s pony. “He taught me how to read the Racing Form, would put in little bets for me.”

A little more than 10 years ago, when the livin’ was getting decidedly easier, Dohman made the move into the owners’ ranks. “I didn’t really know how you go about getting into horse racing, so I started looking up trainers online. I reached out to a few trainers, but nobody contacted me back.”

In a roundabout fashion, Dohman ended up at the door of trainer Hector Palma, who claimed two horses for him and Drenk out of a nondescript allowance optional claiming at Santa Anita in October of 2012.

Both horses finished down the field that day. But one of them, Unstopper Topper, won next time out at Hollywood Park. The other, Floating Feather, finished second in his next start. “I was like, ‘Holy shit, this stuff’s easy,’” Dohman said, with the ironic wonder of someone well and truly disabused of such notions in the intervening years.

It’s this experience—the lack of a useful roadmap for new recruits at a time when many trainers complain of the difficulty of finding owners—that partly guides Dohman’s proposal to publish trainer contact information and training rates through the TOC or the horsemen’s section of a racetrack website.

“I feel like half of these trainers don’t have websites,” he said. “They’re not modern in terms of communication. How do people contact them?”

The more Dohman ponders the idea, the more he sees other avenues for initiating the uninitiated. On these same websites, for example, he sees the need for a variety of tutorials. How do you claim a horse? How do you get involved in partnerships?

“If you want to try to buy a horse at the sales, here’s a list of bloodstock agents to help you,” he added, riffing on the idea. “I mean, it should be like shopping for a store or something on Google.”

His own syndicate, California Racing Partners—which he manages in partnership with Joe Ciaglia—has more than 32 partners. Twenty-two horses, 12 of them 2-year-olds, are spread between the likes of Ryan Hanson, Leonard Powell, George Papaprodromou, Matthew Troy and Doug O’Neill.

Asked if the reason for casting a wide net was in part to help field sizes at a time of encroaching impacts from big-numbered barns, Dohman demurred. It’s more that some of the “recognizable names” among the training ranks help bring new partners to the fold.

Doug O’Neill has a lot of owners,” Dohman added. “He might put new owners in with us too and broaden my owner base.”

That’s not to say Dohman appears blind to some of the effects from more numerically dominant stables. He doesn’t agree with the reinstatement of a stall cap for a single trainer at a facility—which was once 32 in California. “It doesn’t make sense,” he said, calling the concept anti-capitalist. Rather, he raised the idea of tacking a fee onto stables that exceed a certain threshold.

It was a topic that led to the punishing economics of the game, hindered by rising costs for both owner and trainer. Blame inflation. Blame, too, the more stringent safety protocols put in place in California, and now roundly adopted by the Horseracing Integrity and Safety Act (HISA) across the country.

“I agree with HISA and everything it’s doing for the image of the sport and helping improve and clean it up. But it does make it harder for horses to stay on the track. [That’s why] I think the participation purses should be higher,” he said.

“I think if we brought up the participation purses where if your horse ran fifth or sixth, it would help some owners out, help them stay in the game,” he said.

Optics are part of the reason Dohman believes the industry needs to incentivize greater female participation, especially in the jockey ranks—something that could help cultivate what he deems a “softer image” for the sport.

“When people go to the races and they see a woman’s name in the program, it’s different. Women have a different image than men,” he said. “It’s a good one.”

And the way to do it, he said, is to give female jockeys a weight allowance. “Just look at Jessica Pyfer and Emily Ellingwood,” he said. “After they lost their weight break, they’ve been relegated to only a few mounts a month. A weight break would help, maybe make it a little bit fairer for them, give them more opportunities.”

Increased female participation, he said, would be one way to help reshape the sport’s broad narrative, which has taken more slings and arrows in recent years than the French did at Agincourt.

“We have the aftercare programs. We have the injury jockey fund. But besides things like that, what are we contributing to the rest of society through the money that’s generated through horses racing?”

What’s missing right now, he said, is a clearer philanthropic approach that extends beyond the four shrinking walls of the sport.

“We should be able to say we’ve raised this much money towards cancer research. We’ve raised this much money for animal shelters or the ASPCA,” he added. “We could let the owners elect to give money to a charity out their purses. Or give free advertising space, maybe on track or in the program, to a major charity or two.”

@RacingForm
Dohman knows some of his views will land in some quarters of the sport with all the subtlety of an anvil dropped from the top of the Chrysler Building. Not that he seems to care. Racing neophyte is a role he seems to relish.

“Michelle tries to correct me all the time,” he said, of Michelle Hanson, TV personality and wife of trainer Ryan, who is apparently quick with the scold every time he calls a horse sale “an auction.”

He also seems to relish the idea of giving the establishment cage a bit of a rattle. Mailers he sent out as part of his campaign, for example, included information about his partnership, like minimum share percentages. “The TOC said it was advertising and I shouldn't have done that,” Dohman said.

“I defended myself by just saying people can research my stable and what I’ve contributed to horse racing. Plus, you know, the wording on the email was pre-approved by the TOC.”

A bigger kerfuffle concerned the fact that the TOC mailed out ballots failing to identify which of the individuals running were incumbents, as was standard protocol. Nor was it apparently a simple deal to remail corrected ballots. As Dohman describes it, for that to happen, the whole electoral process needed to start anew, setting the whole costly process back months.

Instead, TOC leadership asked Dohman to step down from the race, he said, arguing that it was unfair to the other nominees as they hadn’t sent out similar campaign mailers under the expectation of being identified on the ballot as an incumbent.

As Dohman sees it, the overwhelming rate at which incumbent board members are reappointed nullifies any sense of unfairness to this whole affair. “My reply to them was, ‘if the people vote me in, they vote me in,’” he said. “It's still a fair election.”

[Note: TOC President Bill Nader confirmed to the TDN the ballot errors. He added, however, that there were a “number of things” that led to the TOC asking Dohman to step down from the race, including fairness to the other nominees.]

For one, Nader said the TOC offered Dohman a seat on a committee in lieu of running. Furthermore, Nader said the mailer Dohman sent out included information not okayed by the TOC, and that it went well over a designated word-count. Nader added that these irregularities potentially raise questions about the validity of the election results.

Still, if Dohman indeed proves successful in claiming a spot on the board—and then holds onto it—what can industry stakeholders in California expect from his contribution?

“I might not be as smart as that guy. I might not be as good as that guy. But there’s one thing I can always do—in can always outwork that person. That helps bring me to the top of what I need to do and accomplish,” he said. “One thing I am always willing to do is work hard enough to make a valuable contribution to horse racing.”

Planetario, a multiple Group 1 winner in his native Brazil, kicked away to his first U.S. victory in the Gillian Capistrano Sunday at Santa Anita. The bay settled off the pace of runaway pacesetter Opry (Declaration of War). He was among a host of challengers moving up ominously on the longtime pacesetter midway down the backstretch. Birth of Cool (Karakontie {Jpn}) was first to overtake the leader on the far turn and Planetario tipped outside of that foe at the top of the lane before quickly putting the matter to rest with a sudden burst of speed, skipping clear to an authoritative victory.

“My horse ran very comfortably. I was just waiting the for the favorite [Offlee Naughty] to make his move and I think that was to our favor,” said winning rider Hector Berrios. “I put him behind Joe Bravo’s horse [Birth of Cool] and he relaxed a lot. Today he was a way different horse than he was in his last race. He ran so strong, he left me surprised.”

Planetario ended his Brazilian campaign with back-to-back Group 1 victories in the fall of 2021. He made just one start last year, finishing fifth in a nine-furlong optional claiming race over the Santa Anita lawn exactly a year ago. He resurfaced after nearly a year’s absence and chased home Offlee Naughty when second in the 12-furlong Gillian San Luis Rey S. last time out May 13.

“We were just trying to keep him fit and build his wind up,” explained winning trainer Richard Mandella. “We also had the concern that he ran so well last time, it raised the question of, ‘Did you leave something on the racetrack that day?’ Obviously, he didn’t. He gained from it.”

Mandella said he hoped marathon races like the San Juan Capistrano would get more publicity going forward.

“This is what racing should be about,” Mandella said. “Thoroughbred racing should be something like this and to not push this race and not build it up bigger is a mistake, in my mind.”

INVADER TO STAND AT PEGASUS STUD

Stakes-winner Invader (War Front--Say [Ire], by Galileo [Ire]) will begin his stud career in 2024 at Carmine Spinella's Pegasus Stud in Colts Neck, New Jersey. The 6-year-old, who is a full-brother to Grade I winner Fog of War, won the 2020 John Battaglia Memorial S. and was second in that year's GIII Jeff Ruby Steaks. On the board in seven of 11 starts, he won three times and earned $223,025. “Invader has a world-class pedigree, excellent conformation and size.” said Rick Sacco, who brokered the deal to bring the stallion to New Jersey. “The stakes winner hails from a very live female family. His 2-year-old half-sister by Justify recently sold for $556,042 at Goffs.”

Spinella added, “I told Rick that we had to have a stallion that complemented our current stud Sea Wizard (Uncle Mo). I wanted to offer New Jersey breeders a stallion with a top-class pedigree for turf. I’m very excited about standing a horse like Invader at my newly acquired farm and to offer this type of pedigree.”

Invader is currently boarded at Darby Dan Farm in Kentucky where he is test breeding mares.

MUTH SPEEDS TO 'TDN RISING STAR' STATUS AFTER FLASHY DEBUT
by J.N. Campbell

Muth (c, 2, Good Magic--Hoppa, Uncle Mo), a $2 million purchase back in March at OBS, lived up to expectations Sunday afternoon at The Great Race Place as he won convincingly in his debut at odds of 1-5, stamping himself a newly-minted 'TDN Rising Star' for his efforts.

After settling down in the gate, the bay briefly broke outward, but flashed some strong early foot to seize the lead up the backstretch. Immediately distancing himself from the rest of the field, the Bob Baffert trainee poured on the power around the far turn. Into the stretch, despite the efforts of El Magnifico (Street Sense) and Harry Houdini (Good Magic), Juan Hernandez geared his mount down to break his maiden by 8 3/4 lengths.

The winner, who tied an OBS sale record when purchased by Amr Zedan, breezed a furlong in :9 3/5 during the under tack show in March.

The first of Hoppa's offspring to make the races, she also has a yearling filly by Violence and foaled a filly by Tacitus May 10. Second dam Handoverthecat (Tale of the Cat) passed away in 2017. Third dam Frayne (Red Ransom), who was sent to Saudi Arabia in 2011, is a full-sister to GSW Wandering Star.

Muth is the second 'Rising Star' for sire Good Magic, with other being Blazing Sevens, who was second in this year's GI Preakness S.

Mz Big Bucks earned the first black-type victory of her career on Sunday at Belmont Park. Last seen breaking her maiden going gate-to-wire at second-asking in an off-the-turf, state-bred affair at Belmont May 4, the 9-1 shot here grabbed the lead from Maggie T (Destin) up the backstretch. Controlling the pace around the turn, the homebred lengthened her lead at the top of the lane and with good energy, was able to hold off a late charge by Little Linzee to win by two lengths. The winner counts GIII Belmont Turf Sprint S. hero Dancing Buck as a full-brother. Her dam foaled her another full-brother by the name of Shenanigans Apr. 12. Click for the Equibase.com chart or VIDEO, sponsored by TVG.

Still looking for his first stakes win in what was his fifth try, the 6-1 shot was shuffled back as a trio of leaders vied for the lead up the backstretch. Running into a brisk pace of :20.90 for the first quarter-mile, the homebred uncorked at the eighth pole and, despite a challenge from Our Shot, won by 3/4 length.

"This was a really good effort," said trainer Jorge Duarte. "We’re very happy. We kind of found his liking running-wise. He has been thriving through the racing. He’s been getting better. We were very eager to run in this spot because we felt he would run a good race. And he does like Monmouth Park."

Out of a female family which includes group victor in Japan, Red Belle Aube (Jpn) (Deep Impact {Jpn}) and GI Juddmonte Spinster S. heroine In Lingerie (Empire Maker), the winner’s dam produced a 3-year-old unraced filly named Future Spouse (Flintshire {GB}) and a 2-year-old unraced filly named Tossed (Force the Pass). She foaled a colt by Not This Time Feb. 16. Click for the Equibase.com chart or VIDEO, sponsored by TVG.

UNSUNG MELODY (f, 3, Maclean’s Music--Narrow Sea, by Bodemeister) broke her maiden two starts back with a gate-to-wire effort at Oaklawn Park Mar. 11 but faltered when facing winners for the first time, fading from first to ninth at Churchill Downs May 5. Given a mild 8-1 chance, she broke to the outside but was quickly into stride to press pacesetter Little Mombo (Into Mischief) through a half in :45.73. After dueling that rival into submission around the turn, Unsung Melody widened her advantage into the final furlong to win by 3 1/2 lengths. A winner once more as the favorite at Keeneland Apr. 23, the grey returned to the same distance Sunday but was only the 3-1 third choice behind heavily-favored G1 Breeders’ Cup Juvenile Fillies Turf runner up Pleasant Passage (More Than Ready). Sent right the front again, For the Flag showed the way well in hand against the fence and wasn’t asked for her best until the top of the stretch where she held off a closing Veronica Greene (Tapit) for the 1 1/2-length win. Stretching out to a mile and moving to the lawn for this third start, the 7-2 shot broke alertly and went quickly to the lead. The bay colt was clear after a quarter in :23.67, but Caribbean King (Speightstown) joined him as the half went up in :48.21. MY OCHO (f, 3, McCraken--Queen Laila, by The Factor), cold on the board at 13-1, was up to handle the early tempo with Belle Elena (Good Magic) keeping her honest to the outside. But with plenty left to give, she turned that rival back and drew off nicely close to home, keeping Belle Elena at bay to win by 3 1/2 lengths. My Ocho has an unraced 2-year-old half-brother, Gun Barrel (Bolt d'Oro), a yearling half-brother by Instagrand, and a colt by Mor Spirit born this year. Sales History: $6,000 Ylg '21 KEESEP. “MAGICAL” BLUE ROSE CEN COMPLETES RARE TREBLE IN THE DIANE

by Tom Frary

As Blue Rose Cen (Ire) (Churchill {Ire}–Queen Blossom {Ire}, by Jeremy) dominated the final 300 metres of Sunday’s G1 Prix de Diane Longines, there was time for collective appreciation of the arrival of a new starlet for France. In pounding her peers in Chantilly’s 10 1/2-furlong Classic by upwards of four lengths, the early gift from the racing gods to Leopoldo Fernández Pujals’s fledgling breeding operation entered revered territory as only the fourth to add this prize to the G1 Prix Marcel Boussac and G1 Poule d’Essai des Pouliches. Doing so in a time second only to that of the great Treve (Fr) (Motivator {GB}), the unstoppable homebred pulled off the treble that places her in French racing’s own Sacré-Cœur. Whether anybody truly believed beforehand that Christopher Head’s versatile, straightforward and fearless filly was in the same league as the country’s past queens Allez France, Divine Proportions and Zarkava (Ire) is questionable, but following this rampage it is a debate with legs.

Granted, she had the ideal draw in one and an almost acting bodyguard in stablemate Wise Girl (Fr) (Recolétos {Fr}) to her left throughout the all-important early hustling stages of this race, but when push came to shove from the top of the straight the 16-5 favourite was all business once again. WHO ARE THE JUVENILES TO SIDE WITH AND AGAINST AT ROYAL ASCOT?

By Brian Sheerin

It never ceases to amaze how much debate the two-year-old races at Royal Ascot generate each year. A quick scan on racing Twitter over the past few days confirmed as much.

For all the fascinating puzzles that the royal meeting will serve up this week, including whether Paddington (GB) (Siyouni {Fr}) can cope with Chaldean (GB) (Frankel {GB}) in the St James’s Palace, what will reign supreme in the Prince Of Wales’s or if any of the Australian sprinters can land a blow in the King’s Stand S., it’s the juvenile races that seem to be generating the most chatter.

TDN Europe’s Brian Sheerin has taken a look at the main juvenile races to be run at Ascot and tried to decipher who to be on and who to side against this week. Cont. p5

For a brief period passing the two pole, Ryan Moore looked as if he might make a fight of it on Never Ending Story (Ire) (Dubawi (Ire)) but that threat was quickly extinguished as Aurelien Lemaitre disappeared into the distance. At the end of a renewal that had looked so strong on paper beforehand, there were notable disappointments such as the 10-3 second favourite Jannah Rose (Ire) (Frankel (GB)) who never entered contention and wound up sixth, but one dominant force whose hogging of all the headlines was thoroughly deserved.

With this Spring being a momentous and emotive time for the distinguished Head dynasty, it was even more fitting that Blue Rose Cen was to achieve her landmark 10 years on from the last of the family’s Diane winners, the aforementioned Treve. For Christopher, it was a difficult thing to summarise.

“I have a lot of thoughts for my grandparents today and I really hope they are looking down on this,” he said. “Blue Rose Cen is magical. Really. She changed my life. I see no imperfection in her—she is perfect overall, strong physically and with a strong mind. She runs with passion.”

Looking nothing like the group 1 star she has turned out to be when well beaten on her debut, ironically at this venue over an inadequate six furlongs last May, Blue Rose Cen spent the next two months building towards a black-type bow with wins at Saint-Cloud and Clairefontaine but met one marginally too good when the time came in Deauville’s Listed Criterium du FEE. A short neck ahead of her that day was Victoria Road (Ire) (Saxon Warrior (Jpn)), Ballydoyle’s slow-burner who was on his own progressive course heading to eventual glory moments in the G3 Prix de Conde and GI Breeders’ Cup Juvenile Turf. In recent times, Blue Rose Cen’s winning time of 2:05.09 stands only behind dual Prix de l’Arc de Triomphe heroine Treve ScoopDyga

Buoyed rather than bowed by that experience, Blue Rose Cen went to ParisLongchamp four times and with each passing visit grew in stature through the varying demands of the G3 Prix d'Aumale, the Marcel Boussac, G3 Prix de la Grotte and Pouliches. It is back there where she could achieve true immortality in October, just as Allez France and Zarkava did before her and her strong-closing final three furlongs in 35.16 suggests she can pack at least most of her formidable punch in the country's great monument which is staged virtually always on the testing ground on which she has already proven so agile.

Head would not be drawn on a possible Arc bid in the immediate aftermath. “We will have to discuss the rest of the season—in a few days we will have a meeting with Yeguada Centurion to discuss her future, as we had a plan up until the Diane. The Prix de l'Arc de Triomphe is a new distance and we will have a discussion and make a plan for the rest of the season.”

The Arc may also ultimately be the target for the third-placed
43-1 shot Tasmania (GER) (Australia {GB}), Gestut Schlenderhan's stamina-endowed homebred who failed by a short head to get the silver medal and whose final three furlongs were run in an eye-catching 34.75 on a stunning black-type debut. It will also be a race to forget for connections of Running Lion (GB) (Roaring Lion), who faded to be last, TDN Rising Star Pensee Du Jour (Ire) (Camelot {GB}) who also bowed out of the action early and ended up 13th, as well as the Pouliches runner-up Lindy (Fr) (Le Havre {Ire}) who had a prominent position but no answer to the winner’s kick as she backtracked to finish eighth.
Pedigree Notes

Blue Rose Cen, who was providing her emerging-force second-season sire with a third Classic, is the only known foal to date out of the G3 Park Express S. and Gill Santa Barbara S. winner Queen Blossom (Ire) (Jeremy), a daughter of the G3 Silver Flash S.-placed Mark Of An Angel (Ire) (Mark Of Esteem {Ire}). She in turn is a granddaughter of the 10-times-winning South African mare Grey Angel (GB) (Kenmare {Fr}), whose career included two of those at group 3 level and a runner-up finish in the G1 Gosforth Park Fillies & Mares Challenge H. This is also the family of the GI Arlington Washington Futurity hero Well Decorated and the prolific sire Distinctive.

G2 Coventry S. - Tuesday

The Coventry features a battle between TDN Rising Stars River Tiber (Ire) (Wootton Bassett {GB}) and Asadna (Ire) (Mehmas {Ire}) and it’s hard to argue that the market has not got this one right. Favourites have a good record in the Coventry, with five of the past 12 doing the business, and River Tiber does not appear to have many chinks in his armour.

A 10-length winner on soft ground at Navan on debut, Aidan O’Brien’s charge proved just as effective on good ground when carrying a winner’s penalty in a conditions event at Naas. The form of that race has worked out well since, with the fourth home, Supersonic Man (GB) (Bungle Inthejungle {GB}), now a 16-1 chance for the Windsor Castle after winning nicely at Tipperary last time.

Wootton Bassett has had a couple of high-class juvenile performers, including Al Riffa (Fr) and Chindit (Ire), and River Tiber has already posted some decent figures.

It's unoriginal but there's very little not to like about the Ballydoyle colt and he may well prove another winning favourite of the Coventry.

LAY

Asadna put in one of the most visually impressive two-year-old performances of the season so far when streaking 12 lengths clear of his rivals on debut at Ripon but the case could be made that odds of 7-2 about him in the Coventry look skimpy.

For all that he was mightily impressive, the form of that race has not worked out, and he obviously hadn’t been showing connections that brilliance at home given he was allowed to go off a 4-1 chance on the day.

Compared to River Tiber, who has gone on and beaten better opposition after his wide-margin debut win, the George Boughey-trained Asadna has not been tested since that emphatic Ripon success.

Asadna could well be a freak, but River Tiber represents an altogether different test to what he faced on debut and he could be worth taking on at the prices.

DARK HORSE

Bucanero Fuerte (GB) (Wootton Bassett {GB}) could be the one who is slipping in under the radar in the Coventry. Amo Racing may have had the runner-up in the Derby this year but the modus operandi of the operation has been to unearth classy two-year-olds, and this guy looked just that when winning the opening juvenile maiden of the year in Ireland at the Curragh.

Not seen since then, Bucanero Fuerte will need to overcome the fact that 11 out of the past 12 Coventry runners had run within a month of Royal Ascot, but fitness shouldn’t be a worry given he hails from such a professional operation.

He’s drawn beside the speedy Asadna so should get a good tow into the race. At odds of 16-1, this brother to Wooded (Ire) could represent better each-way value than the Boughey runner.

G2 Queen Mary S. - Wednesday

PLAY

Beautiful Diamond (GB) (Twilight Son {GB}) would appear the one to be on. Karl Burke is operating at a whopping 26% strike-rate with his juveniles this term and he probably doesn’t have many more exciting young fillies in his yard than this daughter of Twilight Son.
Snapped up by Richard Brown of Blandford Bloodstock for £360,000 at the Goffs UK Breeze-Up Sale from Tradewinds Stud, Beautiful Diamond made a perfect start to her career at Nottingham.

There was a lot to like about the performance given she won by over three lengths going away at the line without having to be asked for maximum effort.

Hailing from a stable who won this race last year and carrying the yellow and black silks of Sheikh Rashid Dalmook Al Maktoum, which have been synonymous with Royal Ascot winners, it’s hard to get away from Beautiful Diamond in the Queen Mary.

Like Bright Diamond, Born To Rock (Ire) (Soldier’s Call {GB}) was snapped up from breeze-up sales and made an immediate impact when landing a Yarmouth maiden in good style.

However, the form of the race has not worked out as well as one might have hoped and, given she was installed as a 10-1 chance immediately afterwards, it’s hard to be too enthused by the 9-2 on offer.

Not only have the second and third from that Yarmouth maiden disappointed on their subsequent starts but the fourth home, Mantra (Ire) (Tamayuz {GB}), who was beaten just over five lengths by Born To Rock, was then beaten by over 15 lengths by Beautiful Diamond at Nottingham.

Given Mantra had the advantage of a run under her belt, one would have thought that she ought to be getting closer to Beautiful Diamond than she did. At roughly the same prices, Beautiful Diamond would have to represent the better value.
Cont.

The Cotai Glory (GB) filly was clearly well-produced by Stevie Byrne of Knockgrafton Stables at the Tattersalls Guineas Breeze-Up Sale, where she was knocked down to Allen for €65,000 after recording one of the fastest times.

What she lacks for in size, Princess Chizara more than makes up for in ability, and she could well out-run her 33-1 odds in what looks a deep race.

G2 Norfolk S. - Thursday

PLAY

Elite Status (GB) (Havana Grey (GB)) looked the real deal when landing a listed contest at Sandown last month and is another high-class juvenile that Karl Burke can look forward to running at the royal meeting.

Unbeaten in both of his starts to date, Elite Status was described as a ‘potential superstar sprinter’ by his trainer after Sandown and it was easy to see why given he has such an honest and natural way of galloping.

Of all the juvenile favourites running this week, Elite Status probably has the most rock-solid credentials, and he looks the one to be on in the Norfolk.

LAY

In a normal year, American Rascal (Curlin) may well have been expected to go off favourite but the presence of Elite Status in the race means that will be unlikely. It’s also worth noting that Wesley Ward’s runners tend to be over-bet at this meeting, for all that he has enjoyed colossal success down through the years.

American Rascal looked very good when winning on debut at Keeneland but he’ll need to be up there with the best of what Ward has targeted at this meeting with to give Elite Status something to think about.

DARK HORSE

This is not just about the top two in the betting as Donnacha O’Brien’s Devious (GB) (Starspangledbanner (AUS)) needs to be respected. He showed natural speed and talent when landing the odds on debut over the minimum trip at Naas where he looked a bona fide Norfolk horse and earned a TDN Rising Star in the process. He’s smart.

OTHERS TO NOTE

It is interesting that Donnacha O’Brien has secured Frankie Dettori to ride Porta Fortuna (IRE) (Caravaggio) in Friday’s G3 Albany S. She looked good when winning a five-furlong Curragh maiden on debut and was even better when winning a Group 3 at Naas over a furlong further last month. She’s clearly a filly on the up and could well go off shorter than the 8-1 that is available now. There are no entries for Saturday’s Chesham S. but, if Pink Satin (GB) turns up, which was reported to be the plan after she won on debut at Windsor, she would have to be respected. There was plenty of each-way support around for Pink Satin at Windsor and she put a well-regarded filly to the sword to win going away by just over a length in the finish.

She will have a relatively quick turnaround to overcome, given that debut win came just last Monday, but Paul and Oliver Cole didn’t appear to be too worried about that in the winner’s enclosure at Windsor. She looks to be another strapping daughter of Churchill (IRE) and, given it is not too uncommon for fillies to pop up in the Chesham every now and again [Maybe (IRE) (Galileo (IRE)) in 2011 and September (IRE) (Deep Impact (JPN)) in 2017], she could be one to keep on side.

RISING STAR RAMATUELLE PULVERISES PRIX DU BOIS RIVALS

Breaking the juvenile track record at Chantilly on Sunday, Christopher Head trainer Ramatuelle (Justify--Raven’s Lady (GB), by Raven’s Pass) justified 6-4 favouriteism in the G3 Prix du Bois Longines by dominating her nine rivals with a spectacular display in the six-furlong contest. The eventual winner was positioned in a handy second as market rival Zorken (Fr) (Goken (Fr)) set the tone up front. Zorken kept on well to finish second, 1 3/4 lengths ahead of ‘TDN Rising Star’ Les Pavots (IRE) (No Nay Never) in third. Ramatuelle became sire Justify’s fifth ‘TDN Rising Star’ when delivering a taking display in her Apr. 11 unveiling over five furlongs at this venue, but was narrowly denied by fellow ‘TDN Rising Star’ Beauvaviet (Fr) (Lope De Vega (IRE)) when returning in a May 28 six-furlong conditions heat at Saint-Cloud in her only other start. Ramatuelle’s time of 1:08.05 eclipsed the prior best of 1:08.31 set by Blackbeard (Ire) (No Nay Never) in last year’s G2 Prix Robert Papin.

“We have some great partners, we're creating some great relationships and we feel very blessed,” commented part-owner and NBA All-Star Tony Parker. “We had a great experience with [G1 Poule d'Essai des Pouliches winner] Mangoustine last year and here we are winning another big race. It’s unbelievable. It’s all you can ask, to have a horse that allows you to dream, and we are really excited after this win. There was no panic and we weren’t disheartened by her defeat last time and, hopefully, she recuperates well and is ready to go for her next target. [Trainer] Christopher [Head] told me in February her programme will include the [G2] Prix Robert Papin and the [G1] Prix Morny and maybe we can now go for those big races. The plan is going exactly as we wished, so we will do our best to take her to the Papin now.”

RUBIS VENDOME SWOOPS LATE FOR PRIX DU LYS TRIUMPH by Sean Cronin

Guy Pariente homebred Rubis Vendome (GB) (Galiway {GB}--Class Vendome {Fr}, by Kendargent {Fr}) gave scant indication he was primed to strike in pattern-race company in five prior starts and went postward as a 20-1 outsider for Sunday’s G3 Prix du Lys Longines at Chantilly. Making a mockery of his lengthy odds, the Oisin Murphy-partnered colt displayed a willing attitude in the home straight and registered a career high and a first scorer at Group level in France for trainer Mario Baratti.

Handily placed within the leading quartet for the most part, he was angled outside into the clear with 350 metres remaining and stayed on strongly once launching his bid entering the final furlong to deny Silawi (Ire) (Dubawi {Ire}) by 3/4-of-a-length in the dying strides.

“He is a handsome-looking horse who has gone from strength to strength,” trainer Mario Baratti said of the G3 Prix Noailles fifth and Listed Prix de l’Avre runner-up. “At this time last year he could hardly canter and he hasn’t stopped improving this season. Good ground is what he really likes and needs. It’s so nice to win my first Group race on such a fantastic day. All being well, he will now go to the [July 14 G1] Grand Prix de Paris on Bastille day. It’s pure logic.”

Pedigree Notes

Rubis Vendome becomes the fourth pattern-race winner for his sire (by Galileo { Ire }) and the first produced by a dual-winning half-sister to G1 Poule d’Essai des Poulains-winning sire Style Vendome (Fr) (Anabaa) and stakes-winning G1 Poule d’Essai des Poulains runner-up Prestige Vendome (Fr) (Orpen). His stakes-placed second dam Place Vendome (Fr) (Dr Fong) is a half-sister to Listed Criterium du Fonds Europeen de l’Elevage runner-up Maroon Machine (Ire) (Muhtathir {GB}), with both being out of a half-sister to G3 Prix d’Arenberg victor and G1 Grand Criterium third Dobby Road (Fr) (Grape Tree Road {G}).

Rubis Vendome’s dam Classe Vendome has the unraced 2-year-old colt Saphir Vendome (Fr) (Territories {Ire}) to come.

TRIBALIST EXTENDS HIS STREAK AT CHANTILLY by Tom Frary

There will come a time when Godolphin’s Tribalist (GB) (Farhh {GB}) meets his match and his ceiling is found, but for now the likeable chestnut keeps rolling along with Sunday’s G3 Prix Bertrand du Breuil Longines at Chantilly now in his locker. While he was third in the G1 Poule d’Essai des Poulains and second in the G3 Prix Paul de Moussac last term, the Andre Fabre trainee looked to be a notch below the best but since he returned revived and improved at four that is no longer a given. His latest win in Saint-Cloud’s G2 Prix du Muguet, gained on the back of his course-and-distance G3 Prix Edmond Blanc success, meant that he had a five-pound penalty to defy here but any disadvantage that extra burden bestowed was instantly negated by Mickael Barzalona’s pinching of an easy lead.

While Topgear (Fr) (Wootton Bassett {GB}) ran each of the final three furlongs faster than the 4-5 favourite, Tribalist’s uncontested journey through the first five meant that he was out of range.
At the line, there was 3/4 of a length between the pair, with the runner-up again suggesting he is due back in the winner’s spot some time soon. Louise Benard, representing Godolphin, said of Tribalist, “He is such a consistent horse and was giving weight, so the performance is excellent. He likes the lead and he quickened well. We will see how he comes out of the race and discuss the future with Mr Fabre, but of course a major race in Deauville in August could be the target.”

Pedigree Notes
Tribalist, who was also successful in the Listed Prix Matchem and second in the G3 Prix Perth here in September and October, is the first foal out of the unraced Fair Daughter (GB) (Nathaniel (Ire)). She is kin to five stakes performers, headed by the G1 Racing Post Trophy hero Crowded House (GB) (Rainbow Quest) and including the dual listed-placed Forest Crown (GB) (Royal Applause (GB)) who in turn produced the G3 Winter Derby winner Forest Of Dean (GB) (Iffraaj (GB)) and G2 Prix de Sandringham runner-up Golden Crown (GB) (Siyouni (Fr)).

Fair Daughter is out of Wiener Wald (Woodman), who is also the second dam of the G1 Prix Maurice de Gheest hero Brando (GB) (Pivotal (GB)) and the GI American Oaks Invitational and GI Queen Elizabeth II Challenge Cup heroine Ticker Tape (GB), also by Royal Applause, as well as being the third dam of the G1 Middle Park S. and G1 Prix Morny-winning sire Reckless Abandon (GB) (Exchange Rate). From the family of Storm Cat, Fair Daughter has a 2-year-old full-sister to Tribalist named Fair Point (GB) and yearling filly by Make Believe (GB).

BEST LIGHTNING BACK IN BUSINESS AT DORTMUND by Tom Frary
Out of the frame in all seven starts since winning the G2 Badener Meile last May, Stall Ad Episau’s Best Lightning (Fr) (Sidestep (Aus)) had his turn come around again on Sunday as he caused an upset in Dortmund’s G3 Grosser Preis der Wirtschaft. Held up towards the rear early by Thore Hammer Hansen, the 9-1 shot had plenty of cover and was able to muster his old energy to overhaul the well-touted Aguirre (Ger) (Camelot (GB)) 100 yards out and score by 1 1/4 lengths.

“Everything went beautifully,” Hammer-Hansen said. “The race developed just as we had hoped, I was able to wait as long as possible as his speed only lasts for about 250 metres.” ainer Andreas Suborics added, “He’s a really consistent horse and has an entry in the G1 Grosser Dalmmayr-Preis, so maybe we’ll try the top level and give ten furlongs a shot.”

Pedigree Notes

Also runner-up in the G2 Mehl-Mulhens-Rennen at Cologne and in Chantilly’s G3 Prix Paul de Moussac in 2021, the 5-year-old is a son of the listed-placed Best Dreaming (Ger) (Big Shuffle) who is also responsible for the G3 Goldene Peitsche and G3 Prix Eclipse runner-up Best Flying (Fr) (Pedro The Great). She is a full-sister to four black-type performers headed by the G3 Prix de Saint-Georges winner Best Walking (Ger) and a half to the dam of the G3 Premio Elena e Sergio Cumani winner Binti Al Nar (Ger) by Big Shuffle’s leading son Areion (Ger). STALLIONS REIMAGINED: THE WORK OF JOHN REARDON ON SHOW IN LONDON

If you are in London over the coming weeks with a few hours to spare, that time would be well spent by taking a trip to a retrospective exhibition of the work of John Reardon, entitled (After) Whistlejacket, at the MMX Gallery. Reardon, who died in 2018, was a revered photographer and picture editor of the Observer, but this exhibition covers some of the work undertaken in the later years of his life when commissioned by his former colleague Jocelyn Targett to photograph the Darley stallions. This is stallion marketing reimagined. Reardon’s collaboration on the project, which would last for 16 years, came at a time when the Darley operation was expanding globally, looking to make an impact across the Thoroughbred industry. That it did, through Reardon’s use of medium-format cameras and monochrome, his images featuring in lavishly produced brochures and head-turning advertising, both in print and on the racecourse.
In an accompanying essay by Targett, he says of his old friend, whose work prior to the equine sphere ranged from war zones to celebrities, "Racehorses, and the people in their realm, turned out to be his ideal subjects. Reardon's eye found the elegance, power, and plaintive vulnerability of whatever settled before his camera, and the thoroughbred is abound with elegance, power and vulnerability."

The exhibition, in New Cross in south-east London, runs until July 1.

ALYANAABI (IRE) (c, 2, Too Darn Hot {GB}—Alyamaama, by Kitten’s Joy), sent off the well-supported 11-8 favourite in this race connections won with the subsequent dual group 3 winner Alfaila (GB) (Dark Angel {Ire}) two years ago, showed early pace before being restrained to race behind the leading pair. Taking on the front-running Labalaba (Fr) (Sioux Nation) approaching the furlong pole, the relative of Ghanaati (Giant’s Causeway) et al asserted to score by 1 1/4 lengths. “He’d been pleasing us at home and will improve for going up in trip,” Jim Crowley said. “This is the first time he’s been off the bridle and this ground was a fraction quick for him, as he has a big action. He’s very exciting.” The third winner for his first-crop sire (by Dubawi {Ire}), Alyanaabi is the second and currently last known foal out of an unraced half-sister to the aforementioned Ghanaati. Successful in the G1 1000 Guineas and G1 Coronation S., she produced the G3 Mahab Al Shimaal winner Wafy (Ire) from a mating with Too Darn Hot’s sire, as well as the G2 Joel S. and G2 Sandown Mile winner Mutasaabeq (GB) (Invincible Spirit {Ire}) who lines up in Tuesday’s G1 Queen Anne S. at Royal Ascot. Alyamaama, a granddaughter of the famed Height Of Fashion (Fr), has in her immediate family the G3 Cumberland Lodge S.-winning sire Mawatheeq (Danzig) and the Oaks third Rumoush (Rahy), who in turn produced the G3 Firebreak S. winner Muntazah (GB) again by Dubawi. Successful in the 14-furlong Listed Prix Michel Houyvet at Deauville in August and just over three-lengths fifth in ParisLongchamp’s G2 Prix Chaudenay on Arc weekend, La Mehana put a moderate performance in the latter track’s Listed Prix Gold River last month firmly behind her to collect her second black-type rosette. Kept wide initially before crossing over to head the field, the half-sister to the G3 Preis der Winterkonigin winner Ocean Fantasy (Fr) (Make Believe {GB}) gave generously to Cristian Demuro up the straight to score with authority.

One of her sire’s two black-type winners, La Mehana is out of a half to the G2 Prix Chaudenay and G2 Prix Maurice de Nieuw winner Watar (Ire) (Marju {Ire}). MAXUX (IRE) (f, 3, Frankel (GB)--Chrysanthemum (IRE) {MGSW & G1SP-Ire, $275,329}, by Danahill Dancer (IRE)), a 12-1 shot on debut, overcame a wide draw to race in mid-pack early. Making relentless progress entering the straight, the daughter of the G1 Pretty Polly S.-placed dam was in front 1 1/2 furlongs out and drew away in style to score impressively by 4 3/4 lengths from favoured stablemate Sandy Creek (IRE) (Frankel (GB)). “She is very relaxed and chilled out at home—a typical Frankel,” Joseph O’Brien’s assistant trainer Brendan Powell said. “She has got an engine, will stay further and Mikey [Sheehy] said he thinks she could be pretty smart. She loved the ground and will stay up to a mile-and-a-half, no problem. We will try and get a bit of black-type with her and she will be a nice broodmare prospect for her owner down the line. His big passion is breeding, so hopefully this is a smart one for him.” The dam, who also captured the G3 Park Express S. and G3 C. L. Weld Park S. and three listed contests, was responsible for Frankel’s first winner Cunco (IRE) who went on to take the G3 Sandown Classic Trial. The second dam is the G3 Princess Margaret S. winner Saintly Speech (Southern Halo), who is also the second dam of the high-class triple Group 1-winning sprinter Highfield Princess (Fr) (Night Of Thunder (IRE)). JOLT (IRE) (c, 2, Acclamation (GB)--Cravin Raven, by Raven’s Pass) broke sharply and raced along the rail in a share of third through the initial fractions of this debut. Nudged along soon after turning for home, the 22-1 chance came under pressure to challenge approaching the final furlong and kept on well in the latter stages to assert by 1 1/2 lengths from Air Commander (IRE) (Kingman (GB)). “He is a nice horse, but I thought he would improve for the run,” admitted trainer Andy Slattery. “We thought he was good enough to run in open maidens rather than auction ones. I don’t think he’ll be sold now. Hopefully he’ll step up to stakes company and he’ll stay a mile.” Jolt is the fifth foal and winner to a yearling colt and a half to the stakes-placed full-brother Point Lonsdale (GB).
